Pay Board Slices Dockers' Contract

Ignores Possibility Of Another Strike

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Brushing aside threats of a possible nationwide dock strike, the Pay Board today sharply cut the contract between West Coast longshoremen and shipping companies that ended the longest waterfront tieup in the nation's history.

On an 8 to 5 vote, the board approved a settlement that would give the longshoremen a 14.9 per cent increase in pay and fringe benefits in the first year of their two-year contract including 10 per cent in wage and fringe benefits and another 4.9 per cent in what the board called "excludable fringes."

The original settlement, which ended a record 134-day walkout, would have given the workers approximately 20 per cent in increased pay and benefits during the year.

Harry Bridges, president of the International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union (ILWU) has threatened to lead all the nation's dock workers off the job if the original contract was cut by as much as a penny.

The board's five labor members, who all voted against the decision, called it "a tragic day for collective bargaining, a tragic day for longshoremen and a tragic day for freedom in America."

The board's public and management members voted in favor of the amended pact.

Bridges said earlier the International Longshoremen's Association (ILA), which has jurisdiction over east and gulf coast dockwork, pledged to join a walkout if the original West Coast contract was altered.

The board's decision was a compromise between approving the original contract or hewing strictly to the board's own regulations, which would have given the workers only an 8.9 per cent annual increase.

Pay Board chairman Judge George H. Boldt said the action was consistent with the administration's goal of reducing "this stubborn inflation.

"Even though employees may be disappointed, I hope they will recognize the intent which led to this settlement," Boldt said.

On other economic fronts, President Nixon told Congress unemployment would continue to decline and the Price Commission tightened its policies for increases by big business.

"The outlook is now favorable for economic and employment expansion," Nixon said in his annual report on federal job training efforts. Unemployment, according to Labor Department reports, has dropped for the past two months.

The Price Commission reduced from 2 to 1.8 per cent the maximum average price increase firms with $100 million in sales can make without advance approval. The commission also set for the first time a ceiling on so-called "weighted increases."

U.S. Urges POW Camps Neutral-Party Inspection

PARIS (UPI)—U.S. Ambassador William J. Porter urged North Vietnam today to allow neutral third party inspection of its prisoner of war camps. He pledged in return not to carry out raids on the inspected camps.

Porter apparently referred to the 1970 U.S. commando raid on the Son Tay prison camp in North Vietnam. A raiding party flew in by helicopter but found the camp empty.

Hanoi has kept the location of the prison camps secret in fear there might be other such raids.

Today's 146th session was the first in three weeks and the first full session in five weeks. The Communists walked out on the Feb. 24 meeting after only 17 minutes, provoking the Allied delegations into cancelling the next two sessions.

Porter said today's session made little progress.

Before today's session began Porter told newsmen that there was a suspicion "something peculiar" was going on in the POW camps, that the Communists had earned a reputation as being inhumane and irresponsible in their prisoner treatment and that the United States would not be sidetracked on the issue.

Nguyen Minh Vy, deputy negotiator for North Vietnam, said the Porter proposal was "an old maneuver to hide American acts of intensifying the war." There was no discussion of the POW issue by the Communists.

Porter suggested two methods for the inspection of prison camps:

—That if the Communists did not accept the International Red Cross as an inspection agency then they should suggest some other impartial humanitarian organization.

—If they are concerned that inspection would disclose the location of POW camps and expose them to raids "then arrange for the inspectors to see the prisoners elsewhere."

May Trip To USSR For Nixon

WASHINGTON (UPI) —President Nixon will begin his official visit to Moscow May 22 for meetings with Soviet leaders, the White House announced today.

Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler read a two paragraph announcement released simultaneously in Washington and Moscow:

"On Oct. 12, 1971 it was announced that agreement had been reached on a meeting between President Nixon and the leaders of the Soviet Union to take place in the second half of May," he said. "It has now been agreed that President Nixon's official visit to Moscow will start on May 22, 1972. Mrs. Nixon will accompany the President.

"As stated in October, President Nixon and the Soviet leaders will cover all major issues with a view toward further improving bilateral relations and enhancing the prospects for world peace."

Ziegler said he expected the President and Mrs. Nixon to spend about a week in the Soviet Union, but the exact number of days still is under discussion.

He said stops in addition to Moscow still are under discussion. There were unconfirmed reports that they will visit Leningrad, the old capital of Russia once known as St. Petersburg, and possibly the Ural Mountains and a Black Sea resort.

Ziegler said there were no plans yet for the President to make other stops in Europe en route to Moscow or on the way home. However he held out the possibility of a rest stop during the eight-hour flight.

He said that Nixon would be taking with him a "working delegation" including Secretary of State William P. Rogers, national security affairs adviser Henry A. Kissinger and Soviet affairs experts from the National Security Council and State Department.

Ziegler said there was "no plan" for Nixon to accompany Rogers to the North Atlantic Treaty Organization foreign ministers meeting in Bonn following his summit talks.

Summer's Not Here But. . .

An unseasonably hot day throughout the Bay Area yesterday was capped with temperatures in the 80s in Marin.

The Bay Area weather forecast center in Redwood City reported the warm spell was caused by high pressure over the western states and Pacific Ocean creating North to Northeasterly dry warm winds over Northern California.

Similar weather was to last through today with some cooling expected tomorrow.

San Rafael recorded a high of 83 degrees. Other readings in Marin include: 82 in Sausalito, 81 in Novato, and 80 in Mill Valley.

San Rafael hit 82 degrees at 11:30 a.m. today, promising to surpass yesterday's high.

PRESIDENT ON TV TO TELL BUSING STAND

WASHINGTON (UPI) —President Nixon will discuss his attitude on school busing in a nationwide broadcast tonight, the White House announced today.

The radio-television speech was set for 10 p.m. EST.

The President has been working for two days, with close advisers on the busing issue, at his western Maryland mountain retreat. He apparently made up his mind about his position several days ago and was preparing the speech he will give to the nation.

Nixon has made clear on numerous occasions that he does not favor massive busing to achieve racial balance in schools. But knowledgable sources told UPI several days ago that he would not support an antibusing constitutional amendment.

Smog Attorney Scrapes Through

By PAUL E. PETERZELL

SAN FRANCISCO — Bay Area Air Pollution Control District directors voted 9-8 yesterday to fire their legal officer, falling one vote short in the effort to oust him.

The majority vote to fire Matthew S. Walker was nevertheless a defeat for conservation and health groups which had united in Walker's defense against charges that he failed to "work harmoniously" with the district's top administrator, D. J. Callaghan.

The bitter five-month dispute became a test of board support between the two men as Callaghan came under fire for allegedly coddling polluters.

The hairline vote came after almost six hours of a nonstop hearing — but was ruled technically inconclusive because the 18th board member was absent. The board's special counsel hired for the Walker affair, Arthur Harris of Berkeley, advised that 10 votes were needed to take action on a firing.

The board then voted 11-6 to take no further action on either Walker or Callaghan until completion of a management study some time next summer.

This would postpone the fight beyond the terms of current board members, many of whom either will leave public office by summer or will have been replaced.

Marin's two board representatives split on firing Walker. Supervisor Peter R. Arrigoni voted for firing him, and Sausalito City Councilman Wyman Hicks voted against the firing. Sonoma County's representatives, Supervisor Robert Theiller and Santa Rosa Mayor Gerald M. Poznanovich, both voted against.

Board members received about 50 letters supporting Walker, most of them from Marin residents.

Walker told newsmen following the hearing that he was "not prepared now" to decide whether he will stay at his $27,500-a-year job. Walker has been district counsel since its formation in 1955.

Callaghan, a former Pacific Gas and Electric Co. employee and former head of industrial development for the Bay Area Council, has been with the district for the past decade.

Mountain View City Councilman William R. Jelavich, long a critic of Callaghan, declared that Callaghan had initiated the move for Walker's firing "because he doesn't salute and click his heels."

Jelavich warned that the board's action against Walker will revive state legislation to dissolve or replace the board with directly elected representatives. Each of the nine

Lomax Named In EOC Fund Misuse

By ERIK M. INGRAM

Federal auditors investigating the Marin County Economic Opportunity Council disclosed today that the U.S. Attorney's office has been asked to look into misuse of funds by former executive director W. Robert Lomax Jr.

Philip Megna, regional auditor for the Office of Economic Opportunity, said Lomax and his former deputy, Albert G. Edmonds, have been ordered to repay about $2,700. He said the money apparently was used for personal expenses which were charged against a poverty agency credit card.

"Our position as auditors is that the money was improperly spent and must be returned to the federal grant (EOC)," he said, adding that return of the money does not exempt either man from criminal prosecution. "The U.S. Attorney has been informed of the situation," he said.

Megna, whose office is still compiling a report on its audit findings of EOC records, said that report will contain a full account of the misused funds whether or not they are repaid. "There will be no whitewash of this as far as I'm concerned," he said. "Our position is simply to get that money back."

Of the total $2,700, about $1,700 had been charged to Lomax, who resigned March 3. The remainder, apparently was used by Edmonds, who left the agency long before the current controversy over funding erupted last month.

As previously revealed by the Independent-Journal, Lomax used some of the EOC money to buy an airplane ticket for his mother.

"We can't say whether it (personal use of public funds) was intentional or unintentional," Megna continued. "That's up to the U.S. Attorney." However, he said, in most cases it's difficult to prove intent that must be established in order to prosecute.

Title Three of the Economic Opportunity Act of 1964 states that anyone convicted of embezzling, willfully misapplying, stealing or obtaining by fraud any federal funds is subject to a fine of up to $10,000 or imprisonment for up to two years or both.

The federal audit began after it was disclosed in the I-J last month that the local poverty agency had received and then used nearly $63,000 mistakenly sent to it by the federal government.

That disclosure came shortly after Lomax was criticized in a committee report for poor leadership and lack of accountability for agency spending.

Meanwhile, county auditor-controller Michael Mitchell announced today a team of county auditors has moved in to review the EOC's use of about $50,000 in county money given it last year by the board of supervisors.

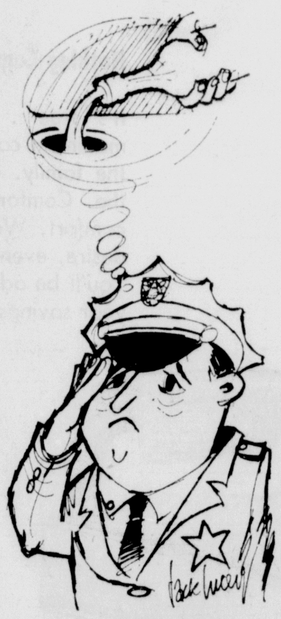

Mitchell estimated the audit will take about three days, "depending on what we find."

About $6,000 of that grant remains in county hands and will not be released until his audit is finished, Mitchell said.

It was also learned today that Joseph Homan, director of the EOC's neighborhood center in Novato, has been fired for unauthorized use of an EOC vehible and gas credit card.

Reportedly, Homan was fired by Doretha Mitchell, acting executive director, for taking an agency auto on a five-day trip to Stanislaus County.

Neither could be reached for comment.

BASH'S BUBBLY

Just About Uncorked A Loser

Novato police have solved the case of the misplaced champagne, 40 cases to be exact.

A startled Helen Mae Tesack of 1405 Cambridge Street called police yesterday afternoon when she discovered 40 unordered cases of champagne in her garage.

Officers confiscated the champagne and brooded that they would have to pour it down the drain if it weren't claimed within four months.

The champagne was saved from that fate when Mrs. Earl Baker of 1405 Dawes Street called and said she didn't receive the champagne that was supposed to have been delivered to her home.

The champagne for a benefit performance of the "Boozer's Bash" at the Veterans Memorial Building March 24 had been delivered to the wrong address.

French Will Vote On Euromart

PARIS (UPI) — President Georges Pompidou said today the French nation would be asked to ratify in a referendum the enlargement of the European Common Market caused by entry of Great Britain and three other nations.

Pompidou made the surprise announcement at the end of a 90-minute televised news conference, dealing largely with domestic affairs.

Pompidou gave no date for the referendum but it would be the first in France since French voters rejected a constitutional reform proposal in April, 1969, forcing the resignation of the late Gen. Charles de Gaulle.

Consumer Education Bill Is Introduced

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —A bill requiring consumer education in public schools beginning in the first grade was introduced Wednesday by Assemblyman Bob Wilson, D-San Diego.

The measure would mandate that the education continue through high school with the Department of Education financing curriculum development and teacher training.

Builders' Challenge To Ban Rejected

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — A superior court judge said yesterday he will reject a challenge to the Regional Water Quality Control Board's ban on new construction in much of the Ross Valley and Southern Marin.

The action, in effect, upheld for the time being the constitutionality of the state's water pollution control law.

In a brief notice of intended ruling, Judge Ira A. Brown Jr. denied a bid by the Ross Valley Sanitary District and a group of developers and real estate men, known as the Citizens Assistance League to Marin County Sanitary Districts, to overturn the regional board's moratorium, imposed last summer.

The ban, challenged by the plaintiffs as a violation of the equal protection clause of the 14th Amendment and for being imposed without a hearing, grew out of insufficient treatment methods said to be causing pollution of area waters.

The moratorium was imposed on the City of Mill Valley and Richardson Bay Sanitary District in addition to the Ross Valley district.

Saul Weingarten, Seaside attorney representing the citizens group and the Ross Valley agency, told the Independent-Journal he would recommend that his clients appeal Brown's decision to the state Court of Appeal.

Brown announced his intended ruling five months to the day after hearing arguments in court. State water officials said outside the court last Oct. 16 that the action was a crucial test of the 1969 Porter-Cologne Act, which gave regional water quality control boards the power to ban new sewer connections, thus forcing a halt in new construction pending upgraded sewage treatment.

Weingarten's witnesses at the court session testified the regional board's demands on the dischargers were excessive and that the moratorium had deprived property development rights.

Deputy Atty. Gen. Roderick E. Walston, who argued the case in the state's behalf, had attempted to point out that the regional board gave full opportunity for testimony from both sides during deliberations on the ban.

London Highway Pileup; 8 Die

LONDON (UPI)—More than 100 vehicles piled up today on the fog-covered M1 Expressway north of London, police said. A trail of blazing cars and trucks littered a six-mile stretch of the roadway.

At least eight persons were killed and about 40 injured a police spokesman said. A newsman at the scene put the death toll at 10.

WIRE NEWS BRIEFS From Everywhere

Consumer Agency

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A move to create an independent agency empowered to regulate the safety of food, drugs, cosmetics and other consumer products won an intiial victory in Congress Wednesday, despite administration claims that it would be a crushing setback to consumer safety.

The legislation, tentatively approved by the Senate Commerce Committee and likely to be passed on to the full Senate today, would dismember the Food and Drug Administration (FDA).

The bill's sponsor, Sen. Warren G. Magnuson, D-Wash., contends the independent agency that would be created in FDA's place would be able to regulate business more strictly since it would no longer be part of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare (HEW) and no longer would be subject to HEW and White House pressure.

Gonorrhea Vaccine

OTTAWA (UPI) — Doctors at the Canadian Communicable Disease Center have developed what may be an effective vaccine against gonorrhea, but they say it will be at least a year before they know if it works.

Dr. Louis Greenberg, chief of the Biologics Control Laboratory in Ottawa which developed the vaccine, said it was currently being tested on about 100 residents of Inuvik, a village on the shore of the Arctic Ocean in the Northwest Territories.

10 Secret Years

MOSCOW (UPI) — The Soviet Union today marked the 10th anniversary of a secretive space program which, according to Western intelligence, hurls bombs, bugs, spy stations and science monitors into Earth orbit.

The Soviets made it a "working holiday" for the decade-old Cosmos program, blasting Cosmos 478 into near-Earth orbit Wednesday.

True to the precedent of the other 477 unmanned Cosmos sputniks launched since March 16, 1962, the Soviets announced No. 478 in the terse way that makes clear that its mission is nobody's business.

2 Belfast Arrests

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (UPI) — Security forces Wednesday night arrested a Northern Ireland member of parliament who had been sought for six months and a high-ranking officer of the provisional wing of the Irish Republican Army.

Officers arrested both shortly after a booby-trapped car exploded near Belfast's downtown area, killing two British Army bomb experts.

The sources said Paddy Kennedy, 29, a Republican Labor party member of the Northern Ireland parliament and an outspoken critic of Premier Brian Faulkner's government, was arrested at the Belfast home of a Dublin journalist.

With him was William McCrory, acting commander of the Provisional wing's new Lodge Road Battalion, the sources said.

New Draft Call

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Replacing the local draft quota with a new type of draft call for the first time, the Selective Service System today told local draft boards to call up men with lottery numbers 1 through 15.

The new draft system is called the Uniform National Call.

The call of lottery numbers 1 through 15 will deliver men to the Army in April and May. If more men are needed to fill the Army's quota of 15,000 draftees in the April-May-June quarter, another call will be issued early in May sending men into khaki in June.

Bhutto In Moscow

Hughes Closets Himself Atop Hotel In Vancouver

VANCOUVER (UPI)—Howard Hughes, who said he wants "a change of scenery and a change of air," settled in today for an apparent lengthy stay in Vancouver, setting up headquarters in a $4,200-a-week suite of rooms at the exclusive Bayshore Inn.

Hughes, 66, arrived in Vancouver early Tuesday on a private twin-engine jet. He left Nicaragua Monday and apparently flew here after a brief stopover in Los Angeles.

In Los Angeles, Richard Hannah, a Hughes Tool Co. spokesman, said the industrialist was "in Vancouver on a business trip. There is no indication yet of the nature of the business nor of how long he plans to remain there."

C.K. Scatchard, acting district administrator for the Immigration Department, said however, that Hughes had told customs officials "he planned to stay as a visitor in Vancouver for up to three months for a change of scenery and a chance of air."

Scatchard said Hughes had told customs officials also that he would contact them if he decides to stay longer than three months.

"He had a thinner face and a few more lines and his hair is graying. He had just a faint suggestion of a beard and mustache. You can almost say that he had not shaved."

Warren Anderson, manager of the Bayshore Inn and its Bayshore Towers apartment hotel annex, said Hughes and his staff had rented the entire 20th top floor and part of the 19th floor of the annex.

Anderson estimated the Hughes party included between 12 to 15 persons. He said 24 rooms were booked in all.

"The bookings were made under the name Howard Hughes on an indefinite basis, so we hope he stays a long time," Anderson said.

John Egan, executive assistant to the hotel manager, said "the rate for the rooms has not been established, but the rooms occupied by the Hughes party run around $500 to $600 a day."

Heavy security surrounded the party. Elevator service above the 18th floor was cut off. Fire escape doors were bolted.

MR. HUGHES? — The Vancouver Province today published this picture which it identified as possibly being Howard Hughes, who arrived yesterday. However, United Press International said the man does not fit any description of Hughes, who is sometimes said to have a goatee and other times a heavy beard.

House Puts New Life Into Amtrak

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Despite protests that Amtrak is railroading taxpayers to the poorhouse, the House has authorized $172 million to keep the company running until July 1, 1973. But lawmakers cut the pay of Amtrak's president by $65,000.

The House voted 312 to 63 Wednesday to provide the financially ailing National Railroad Passenger Corp. with $170 million to continue its operations, plus $2 million for service between the United States and Canada and Mexico.

In a surprise move, the House adopted 235 to 136 an amendment by Rep. John G. Schmitz, R-Calif., providing that no officer of Amtrak could be paid more than $60,000 unless additional pay comes from profits.

The only executive making more than $60,000 is Amtrak President Roger Lewis who is paid $125,000 annually.

Harley O. Stagger, D-W. Va., chairman of the Commerce Committee, said the Schmitz amendment "would be the death knell right now of the corporation" but House members obviously were reluctant to continue to pay Lewis' current salary.

Reds Leave Cover, Strike In 42 Spots

SAIGON (UPI)—Communist infantry and artillery teams poured out of their camouflaged jungle camps today and Wednesday night to hit army bases and sleepy, tree-lined towns in the heaviest attacks in more than five months, military spokesmen reported.

Allied commands reported 42 shellings and ground attacks from 6 a.m. Wednesday to 6 a.m. today against U.S. and South Vietnamese positions, with civilians bearing the brunt of most of the attacks. The Communist activity spread in these attacks to the central coastal areas.

The U.S. command reported two more "protective reaction" strikes against North Vietnamese anti-aircraft sites Wednesday, the 94th and 95th of the year. The targets were sites well north of the Demilitarized Zone (DMZ) and were antiaircraft and missile sites menacing U.S. planes bombing the Ho Chi Minh Trail in Laos.

Fighting tapered off in Cambodia where a 50,000-man South Vietnamese triple task force has sliced into old Communist sanctuary areas but the South Vietnamese reported finding an abandoned Communist base camp five miles northwest of the Cambodian city of Kampong Trach, the fourth such base captured or destroyed during the drive. This one was blown up.

No major ground action was reported elsewhere in Cambodia, but Cambodia's main ammunition depot at Pachentong Airport 3 1-2 miles outside the capital exploded today, sending columns of flames and smoke hundreds of feet into the air.

There was no immediate word on whether the ammunition dump was sabotaged by Communist agents or blew up accidentally, but the blasts destroyed stacks of 250-pound napalm bombs and ammunition of all caliber. Ambulances were seen rushing to the scene but there was no report on casualties.

A government spokesman in Vientiane said government troops backed by Lao and American airstrikes beat off an attack by North Vietnamese near Ban Keng Nxao on Route 231 in southern Laos. He reported 52 Communists killed and one captured at a loss of three government troops killed and 40 wounded.

No Phaseout Yet At Red Hill School

The San Anselmo School District board has told a group of Red Hill School parents, teachers and students that recommendations the school be phased out as a seventh and eighth-grade school were only preliminary.

About 35 persons were in the Red Hill contingent at a school board meeting Tuesday, urging the board not to phase out the program, according to Valerie Rogers, district secretary.

Two of six district study committees recommended in preliminary reports submitted last week that all seventh and eighth-grade classes be combined at Hidden Valley School, and that Red Hill be used for elementary grades.

Mrs. Rogers said the board explained to the audience that the recommendations were preliminary and that no action had been taken.

The audience was told "the board is looking at all possibilities for saving money for the district," Mrs. Rogers said.

The board Tuesday agreed to accept $6,500 and additional services from the Marin County Schools Office in exchange for the loan of Stephen L. Parodi, assistant superintendent in San Anselmo, to the county schools office.

The cash settlement was required when Kenneth E. Barnes, who had been borrowed from the county schools office in exchange for Parodi, quit in January to take a position with Shoreline Unified School District.

The board also met in closed session for about 15 minutes to discuss possible hiring or firing of employees, board president Franklin C. Latcham reported. No action was taken for the present, he said.

Arraignment Monday In Grand Theft

Andrew Lee Johnson, 20, of Marin City, has been bound over to Marin Superior Court on a grand theft charge stemming from the theft of a car from Marin Heliport. He is to be arraigned Monday.

Johnson was arrested Feb. 19 by a deputy sheriff in Marin City who stopped Johnson in a car with a broken left wing window. He said the vehicle had been hot-wired.

Sausalito Library Site Eyed

The Sausalito Library Board has said the ideal location for a new city library would be the northwestern Pacific Railroad property across from Central School, between Bridgeway and Caledonia Street.

In a report presented to the city council at a study session Tuesday night, the board indicated the railroad site would be preferable to the city's new waterfront park or Central School. (The city is considering the school for a new city hall and some have proposed the library be included in that building.)

The council took no action on the library board's proposal, but will consider the matter further when it discusses the Central School question at its meeting Tuesday.

The board rejected location inside the school, saying there was insufficient space available to accommodate the 8,000-square-foot facility it has recommended. It also turned thumbs down on the park property because the park is east of Bridgeway and children and elderly people would have to cross the busy street to get to the site. The board report also noted that the park land, chiefly fill, may be unstable and this could raise construction costs.

The report said the lot behind Central School would discourage foot traffic because of the steep hill on which the school is located. The lower central playground would be nearly ideal, according to the board, but it may be years before the Central property is acquired.

The board indicated a wish to explore with city officials the possibility of acquiring the railroad land and told the council the city's library building fund now totals approximately $200,000.

Alternate Davis Trial Jurors Seated

SAN JOSE (UPI)—Both sides in the Angela Davis case tentatively accepted four alternate jurors today, subject to possible peremptory challenges.

It was expected that the process of selecting alternates would be completed before the day's end, clearing the way for presentation of testimony.

However, attorneys for both sides have expressed hope for a week's recess before the calling of witnesses.

A recess would give the lawyers, who were somewhat surprised at how fast jury selection has gone, to finish their preparations.

The number one alternate, subject like the others to peremptory challenge, was 20-year-old Michele Savage. If finally accepted, she would become a regular member of the 12-person jury if somebody dropped out because of illness.

On Wednesday, Miss Davis, a former philosopny instructor, gave a courtroom lesson in revolutionary rhetoric.

Her questioning of a prospective alternate juror ranged from the definition of "pigs" to the origin of the black power salute.

Miss Davis succeeded, where other defense attorneys had failed, in getting Robert Doran dismissed for cause. Questioning of alternates resumes today with three panelists tentatively seated out of the four required. However, they could be removed by peremptory challenges.

Miss Davis became active during the trial Tuesday when she stood up as her own cocounsel for the defense and accepted an all-white jury of eight women and four men.

Verdict Of Guilty In Trident Case

A jury in Marin Superior Court today found 32-year-old Edward W. Devaney guilty of two felony crimes in connection with the Oct. 25, 1971 amphibious robbery of the Trident restaurant in Sausalito.

Devaney, believed to be part of a statewide safecracking ring, was found guilty of armed robbery and safecracking in the Sausalito case. No other person is charged in the predawn crime in which almost $50,000 was taken. At least three other persons are believed to be involved.

Prosecutor Ernest C. Zunino linked Devaney to a power boat seen by a sleepless neighbor at the time of the robbery. Scuba gear and acetelyne tanks were found aboard the boat later, as well as at Devaney's East Bay home. Witnesses had said that three gun-wielding thieves wearing scuba gear blasted open the restaurant safe.

Devaney is to be sentenced April 6 by Judge Henry J. Broderick.

Waste System Report Ordered

The Stinson Beach County Water District board has directed its engineers to prepare a complete report on a proposed waste disposal system for that community, director John L. Jones reported.

At a special meeting Tuesday, the board asked Brown and Caldwell Engineers to complete the report by May 1, deadline for Stinson to qualify for more than $1 million in federal and state funds allotted the district last year when it was planning an $8.1 million disposal project in conjunction with Bolinas.

Jones said the report will include type of disposal project and treatment plant, extent of sewering necessary, means of disposing of effluent and methods of financing.

The board drafted a letter to the Bay Area Regional Water Quality Control Board, according to Jones, asking the board to amend its list of projects approved for state and federal funds to show the district project is no longer a joint effort with Bolinas, which is working on plans for its own system.

Arraignment For Watson Slated

A 21-year-old San Anselmo youth has been bound over to Marin Superior Court on six counts of burglary in connection with thefts committed since last August.

Sheldon A. Watson is to be arraigned March 29. At the end of the preliminary hearing yesterday in Marin Municipal Court, Judge Robert A. Smallman continued Watson's bail at $15,000.

Watson walked into the San Anselmo police station last week to say he was responsible for a series of burglaries beginning last August.

He is charged with burglarizing two San Anselmo businesses and four residences.

Youth Held In Burglary Probe

A 14-year-old Homestead Valley boy was booked into Marin Juvenile Hall on suspicion of burglary yesterday after a Mill Valley woman surprised him in her house.

Police said Mary M. Combs, of Bigelow Avenue, returned from a shopping trip about 4:30 p.m. and found the youth crouched in a corner of her kitchen. Officers said the boy, who had apparently entered through an unlocked door, fled and was caught about 15 minutes later in downtown Mill Valley. Nothing appeared to be missing from the residence.

The boy's name was withheld on order of Marin Superior Court Judge Joseph G. Wilson.

Five Arrested During Big Haul Of Hashish

Five persons were arrested in Marin County yesterday by local and federal narcotics agents, reportedly in connection with a large amount of hashish.

Booked into Marin County Jail were Kenneth Michael Stevens, 22, of 8 Vasco Drive, Mill Valley; Peter B. Erlebron, 29, of Bolinas; Carl Sheldonwolfe, 29, of 912 Miller Avenud, Mill Valley; William Paul Wyler, 24, of Baltimore, Md., and Barbara Lynn Coffman, 27, of Bolinas.

They were turned over to federal authorities and were taken to San Francisco where they were to be arraigned in U.S. District Court today.

They were booked on suspicion of violating a federal narcotics law, but the exact section was not known. Details of the arrest were not available today from either federal or Marin agents.

Burglary Case Hearing Set

A preliminary hearing was set yesterday in Marin Municipal Court for April 4 for one of the Stinson Beach garbagemen charged in connection with a series of burglaries.

Dennis Michael Murphy, 22, an employee of Henry's Service, which provides garbage pickup in the Tamalpais Valley and Stinson Beach areas, pleaded innocent yesterday to charges of car theft, grand theft and concealing stolen property.

Murphy and Richard Warren Lacaze, 20, were arrested last weekend by a sheriff's officer who said they were responsible for burglaries in Tamalpais Valley and Stinson Beach.

Lacaze is charged with two counts of burglary as well as receiving stolen property and grand theft.

Woodcock AIR Transit Plan Plea

counties now has two representatives, one a supervisor and one a city councilman.

One of the few specific "charges" aired against Walker was that he had refused to go to Sacramento in 1970 to testify on behalf of the board against a bill. But testimony showed that Walker had merely refused Callaghan's order to sign a letter that Walker opposed a bill that would have made him answerable to the board rather than to Callaghan.

Walker said yesterday that neither Callaghan, the board nor its personnel committee had replied to his request that he be told "in what manner there has been any lack of cooperation" on his part.

As for the charge that he had caused a loss of efficiency and morale to the district, Walker said "the only person I supervise is my secretary. Any loss of efficiency or loss of morale in the district must be laid at another door."

Callaghan, in turn, issued a 14-page rebuttal to charges by the Citizens Against Air Pollution that he had failed to crack down on major polluters. But he was silent on a 72-page report two weeks ago by Jelavich that charged Callaghan with being an eager tool of industrial polluters.

About 50 persons attended the hearing, most of them applauding Walker.

The absent board member was Solano County Supervisor Robert Scofield, who is in New Zealand. He will return before the board's April 5 meeting, but the vote to postpone further action until after the management study apparently forestalled his chance to give the 10th vote to fire Walker. Scofield never has indicated publicly how he would vote.

Callaghan testified that Walker "does not enter into the full team picture," and said the conflict between them "has to be resolved."

As for Walker's assertion that Callaghan had failed to pgosecute polluters, the administrator said, "actually it has been the other way around." He cited a recent case in Morgan Hill involving a packing firm that Walker balked at prosecuting because it had no assets to warrant a costly civil suit. "There have been others," Callaghan said, but he offered no other example.

"Needless to say, I am not opposed to the automobile, nor to the construction of highways to facilitate its use," Woodcock added. "This attitude does not rest solely on the fact that the UAW represents about 850,000 auto workers. It rests also on the fact that the automobile is the only efficient mode of transportation in many areas and for many purposes."

But, Woodcock went on, "in our large population centers the automobile is fast becoming a threat to our health, our safety, our comfort and our efficiency... clearly we must develop, construct and operate more efficient modes of transportation..."

He called on Congress to set national priorities on transportation, guarantee representation from the cities on planning commissions and provide that 90 per cent of the funds for transit systems come from federal sources, with 10 per cent raised locally, as now provided for freeways.

Communities should be given the dominant voice in planning their own transportation systems, he added.

McCarthy Campaign Party Scheduled

A free underground film showing and signature party will be held in support of Eugene McCarthy's presidential campaign at 8 p.m. Sunday at 54 Knight Drive, San Rafael. The show will be preceded by no-host cocktails at 6:30 p.m.

Pat Heffernan of Black Point, Northern California campaign coordinator, said the films would include "Sympathy for the Devil (Nixon)," which was shown at the New York Museum of Modern Art last summer. Jon Wilcox, state McCarthy chairman, will speak.

Five Minutes Of No Power

Harry P. Kiemely, general foreman of the electric department of Pacific Gas and Electric Co. in San Rafael, said power went off at 1:22 p.m. because of equipment failure at the company's Ignacio substation. Lights went back on five minutes later.

Affected were most of San Rafael, San Quentin, Greenbrae and parts of Larkspur and San Anselmo, Kiemely said.

More Serious Charge Looms

Russell Morris Vibbard, 20, of 1520 San Anselmo Avenue, was booked into Marin County Jail on suspicion of possessing dangerous drugs for sale.

Police said the Benzedrine pills were found in packages of 50 in Vibbard's jacket after he was stopped by police on the $110 warrant at about 11:10 a.m. near his residence.

He was released on $1,250 bail to appear next Wednesday in Marin Municipal Court.

4-Year-Old Hurt In Petaluma Crash

Lisa Binford, 4, of 1290 Mountain View Avenue, Petaluma, was treated at Hillcrest Hospital for a cut lip suffered in a two-car accident yesterday at noon at Fifth and I streets, Petaluma.

Police said the girl was a passenger in a car driven by her mother, Kathleen F. Binford, 24, which collided with a car driven by Charles R. Eslin, 41, of 3710 Bodega Avenue, Petaluma.

Saw Stolen

Edward Kirkland, 41, Carlton Drive, Petaluma, told police that a skilsaw valued at $127 was stolen from his pick-up truck yesterday while the vehicle was pakred at his home.

Hearing On Development To Continue

After five hours of a public hearing on a proposed change in a conditional use permit for the 431-unit Whiskey Springs apartment development, the Sausalito Planning Commission last night agreed to continue the hearing at 8 p.m., March 29, Planning Director H. Eric Borgwardt reported.

He said many persons living adjacent to the planned north Sausalito development appeared to protest the project. According to Borgwardt, many particularly objected to the traffic the development would generate.

Developer Joseph Duffel is seeking to amend his original plans to permit relocation of some units, parking and open space areas.

Store Robbery Charge Dropped

A charge of robbing the 7-11 store in San Rafael, brought against Howard Earl Rhodd, 22, no known address, has been dismissed in Marin Municipal Court when the victim could not identify Rhodd.

Rhodd, however, still faces charges stemming from the attempted holdup of a 7-11 store in Novato.

The San Rafael charge resulted when he was identified from photos as the man who came into the store and feigned a gun in his pocket on Jan. 14 and took $100 from a clerk.

Innocent Plea By Theft Suspect

Michael Wayne Ayers, 19, of Novato, pleaded innocent yesterday in Marin Municipal Court to a charge of stealing a car in Novato Sunday.

A preliminary hearing was set for next Tuesday.

Ayers is accused of stealing a car belonging to a Novato woman who left it parked at Diablo and Center boulevards. The car was found the next day at Lyons Park and Ayers was linked to the theft, police said.

Cyclist Reported In Good Condition

A 15-year-old San Rafael youth was reported in good condition today at Hamilton Air Force Base Hospital with injuries received when he collided with a car while riding his bicycle yesterday about 4:30 p.m. in Lucas Valley.

The California Highway Patrol said John Williams, of 62 Mount Tallac Court was southbound on Mount Lassen Court when he collided with a car driven by Craig J. Stern, 18, of 145 Lowell Avenue, San Rafael. The Air Force would not divulge the nature of Williams's injuries.

Hub Town Meeting Ends With Teen Center Call

By THERON A. NEWELL

Residents of San Anselmo attending the fourth and final town meeting last night called unanimously for a city teen center. What form it should take remained clouded however.

Bradley J. Craig, a senior at Sir Francis Drake High School and chairman of the Marin County Youth Commission, said, "The youth want to become involved in developing it in a joint effort with the city." The center should be "meaningful" and have programs, even classes that interest youth, he said.

When members of the audience pointed out that the city now had many programs for youth both in organizations and school, Craig said that the teen center should be organized and run by youths themselves.

Pressed by some of the 50 adults in the audience for specifics, Craig said that the teenagers might organize outings, pot-luck dinners, recycling projects, educational projects and even helping the senior citizens.

But he made it clear he regarded himself as just one person and that the decision of what went on in the teen center would be up to all involved in the center.

His reference to senior citizens grew out of an earlier discussion in the evening of the senior citizen program in San Anselmo and Marin County during which Elenor M. Jones of the Marin Senior Coordinating Council described programs available, especially the new "Whistlestop" center in San Rafael.

Jack J. Zori of 221 The Alameda called lack of transportation a major problem of senior citizens who could not drive.

Mrs. Jones replied senior citizens could ride Marin Transit District busses for 15 cents in the county and that bus schedules are available at the Senior Coordinating Council offices in the old Northwestern Pacific Railroad depot in San Rafael or would be sent on request.

She confirmed that the council plans to provide hot meals once a day for five days a week in various centers in the county, starting in May and that San Anselmo will be one of the places.

A show of hands indicated a ratio of about 5-to-2 thought that San Anselmo had an adequate senior citizens program.

Other items touched on were the drug and alcohol problems. Dr. Michael A. Kaplan of the Community Mental Health Center, pointed out some of the many places where persons afflicted with alcoholism or drug addiction could obtain help.

Craig said that teen usage of alcohol and drugs was superficial, the problem deeper. "It's the feeling of alienation and loneliness and the lack of activities that cause the youth of San Anselmo to turn to drugs," he said.

Discussion of need for a teen center followed.

The meeting never did get around to a third topic scheduled: how conflicting life styles hamper a feeling of a community.

Co-chairman William Montgomery polled the audience on future town meetings. The majority preferred meetings limited to one subject and felt that they should be held at least once a year. Some suggested every six months.

This was the fourth and final meeting of this year's town meetings. Paper and pens were passed to sign up volunteers to help organize the next session.

Drive Launched For Funds To Buy Park Lands

A fund drive to collect $250,000 to purchase coastal parks has been launched by the Sonoma County Park Committee and California State Parks Foundation.

The groups were successful last year in raising funds to buy Annadel Park near Santa Rosa and in rebuilding the Fort Ross Chapel.

Eleanor Twohy, president of the Sonoma committee, said funds raised from the drive first would be used to help the state buy Penny Island and North Jenner Beach, both at the mouth of the Russian River.

The state Legislature last year appropriated $31,000 to buy the two parcels and it is estimated that another $20,000 to $30,000 will be needed.

Time Capsule Display Delayed

The display of coins and artifacts taken from the century-old time capsule opened last week has been delayed at least a week, Marin County Librarian Bruce D. Bajema said yesterday.

Bajema said the delay is because special display cases have not arrived, but may later this week.

The display, once set up, is scheduled to run through June 1 at the Library's main branch at the Civic Center.

The old coins, newspapers and other artifacts, removed Friday from the old county courthouse time capsule, will then be reburied at the Civic Center.

Pleads Innocent In Morals Case

James La Motte Matthews, 39, of Novato, has pleaded innocent in Marin Superior Court to assault and rape charges stemming from an incident in a Novato parking lot in January.

The jury trial was set yesterday for the week of May 8, for Matthews, who also is accused of sex perversion. He was arrested Jan. 18 after a former girl friend told police he had attacked her and stabbed her in the stomach with a carving knife the day before.

Jail Time In Burglary Case

Judge Samuel W. Gardiner of Marin Superior Court has placed Fred Michael Chavez, 24, of Oakland, on probation for five years and ordered him to jail for one year for his part in the burglary of the Pacific Motor Co. and Railway Express Agency Dec. 3 in San Rafael.

Chavez earlier had pleaded guilty to the burglary charge.

Son's Car Theft Guilty Plea

Stephen Arthur McDevitt, 20, has pleaded guilty in Marin Municipal Court to a misdemeanor car theft charge in connection with a new car being taken from his father, a car dealer.

Young McDevitt is to be sentenced April 14.

The elder McDevitt, who said he did not give his son permission to take the car, is fleet manager for DeLong Chevrolet in San Rafael.

School Aides To Describe Year 'Round Operations

The year 'round school operation of Chula Vista Elementary School District in San Diego County will be described by three administrators from that district at a public meeting in Guzman Hall of Dominican College, San Rafael, next Thursday at 8 p.m.

Appearing on the program, titled "45-15 — the Year 'Round School Program," will be Burton C. Tiffany, superintendent; Leonard N. Servetter, assistant superintendent, and Frances Read, general supervisor of the Chula Vista district.

The program is sponsored by the Marin chapter of Phi Delta Kappa, education fraterniTy with cooperation of the county superintendent's office, Marin County School Boards Association, Marin County School Administrators Association, and Dominican College.

The title "45-15" comes from the method of operation of the year-around school program in Chula Vista. Children attend school for 45 class days, then have a 15-day vacation. After three such sequences, they have 60 days of vacation.

At each resumption of school, a new class enters, so that one group is on vacation and three groups are attending school at any time during the year. This provides a 180-day school year, with three two-week breaks plus a vacation slightly shorter than the traditional summer vacation.

Such all-year school plans are being pushed to make more efficient use of school buildings and equipment.

San Diego Council Bans Billboards

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (UPI)— The nation's 14th largest city has voted to ban billboards and to phase out the 2,000 advertising signs along its streets and highways.

Mayor Pete Wilson joined four San Diego City Council members Tuesday in a 5-4 vote to phase out the signs in favor of beautification.

SPACE ROCK FOR DAVIDSON

Plan Council 'Must Get Power Or Die'

The City-County Planning Council of Marin must push for power or perish, according to some members of an ad hoc committee seeking ways to revitalize the council.

Taking that stand at a meeting yesterday at Larkspur City Hall were the ad hoc group's chairman, Benton A. Sifford Jr.,; County Planning Commissioner Margaret B. Azevedo and Anne L. Ellinwood, a Tiburon City councilman.

If the board remains purely advisory, as it was set up to be, it will remain ignored; if it pushes for power it risks withdrawal of some cities, Mrs. Azevedo said.

Sifford recommended a push for power, after spelling out what agencies would be represented on the board and what authority they would have. With that established, the next step would be to sell it to the cities, he said, then go for legislation enabling cities to give some of their authority to the council.

The proposal drew a warning from Lawrence F. Mulryan, San Rafael City councilman, that San Rafael is on the verge of pulling out of the group in protest of any power play.

Miss Ellinwood suggested setting up something along the Sifford lines for a one-year trial period during which alarmed municipalities might be won over.

Pamela Lloyd of Mill Valley and Beverly Ehreth, a Novato planning commissioner, seemed to favor risking a try for more power.

The Group — which must report ultimately to the council — set another meeting for 3:30 p.m. Monday in Larkspur City Hall.

Rugs Stolen; Valued At $400

Rugs being stored during reconstruction of a San Rafael apartment building wrecked in a $120,000 fire last December, were stolen yesterday from the basement of the building.

Police said the rugs, which suffered some water damage in the Dec. 21 fire at the Park Towers apartments, 108 Professional Center Parkway, were valued at $400.

They were stolen between midnight and 2 p.m. yesterday, San Rafael police reported.

Buildings Fled In Manila Earthquake

MANILA (UPI)—An earthquake shook Manila and its suburbs today, sending employes in several multistory buildings fleeing into the streets. Some grade schools sent students home.

The Philippine weather bureau's geophysical division said the earthquake, which started at 1:08 p.m. and lasted several seconds, was intensity 4 on the Rossiforel scale of 9.

Marin Girl May Hold Clue To Missing Youth

The family of a missing Oakland youth today appealed for word from an unidentified Marin County girl who may have seen him climb over the rail of the Golden Gate Bridge Saturday noon.

Rudolph Heins, 24, has been missing since Saturday, according to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Heins of 3039 57th Avenue, Oakland.

The California Highway Patrol office in Corte Madera said that a bicyclist on the bridge reported seeing a man go over the rail, but no body was found. A short time later, bridge workers found a knapsack containing books and other items belonging to Heins.

The bicycle rider did not give bridge officers her name. The Heins family wanted to know if she can identify the man she saw, from photographs of the missing youth.

Many naturalists consider the cougar beneficial because he eliminates weak, sick and malformed deer.

Indiana's Bayh To Muskie's Camp

By U.P.INTERNATIONAL

Sen. Edmund S. Muskie picked up endorsement today of onetime contender Sen. Birch Bayh for the Democratic presidential nomination while Sen. Edward M. Kennedy continued to insist t he would not become a candidate.

Bayh, who had intended to be an active candidate but dropped out when his wife became seriously ill, issued a statement in Indianapolis and Washington saying his colleague from Maine was a man "the people can trust" and who could "bring America together."

The endorsement of Muskie followed his poor showing — fourth place and just 9 per cent of the Democratic vote —in Florida's primary Tuesday. There was prompt speculation that the impressive George C. Wallace win in Florida, with other candidates trailing far behind, might put more pressure on Kennedy later to get into the race.

"The answer is no —my position is unchanged," Kennedy was quoted by the Washington Post.

Kennedy has refused to allow his name to be entered in any primaries where he has any control over the situation. His name will appear on the Oregon ballot later because state officials determine whom they consider to be prospective contenders. Some other states allow a person to get his name removed by filing a noncandidacy affidavit.

Other political developments:

Former Gov. Terry Sanford of North Carolina, the latest entry in the Democratic race, described the Florida result as "a disaster for the Democratic party."

Muskie, in Indianapolis to appear with Indianian Bayh, rejected a suggestion that the other contenders agree on one of them to face Wallace in the Indiana primary May 2. That proposal was made by Indiana's state chairman. Muskie has not yet entered the Indiana primary.

A Louis Harris public opinion poll indicated voters still consider Vietnam a key election-year issue.

Sen. Hubert Humphrey of Minnesota, who finished a distant second and Sen. Henry M. Jackson of Washington who finished third to Wallace in Florida, went to Wisconsin to campaign for that crucial April 4 primary. Both acknowledged that Wallace's showing greatly improved his national strength.

Wallace, who was first with 42 per cent of the Florida Democratic vote, drew from a surprising source —Vice President Spiro T. Agnew — support yesterday that his candidacy is national, not regional as it was in 1968.

Speaking at Drake University in Des Moines, Iowa, Agnew said Wallace struck a "responsive chord" in Florida. Wallace campaigned chiefly against busing to achieve school desegregation and for income tax reforms.

Wallace received a triumphant greeting Wednesday at Montgomery, Ala., where he told a welcoming crowd that his victory sent a "tremor" to both the Democratic leadership and the White House. He predicted a good showing in Wisconsin, the next primary he will enter.

"The average citizen in Wisconsin feels the same way as they do in Florida," Wallace said.

Periled Species Will Be Topic

Endangered animal species of North America will be the subject of the final lecture Sunday in the "Preservation of Wildlife" series sponsored by Indian Valley Colleges.

Bruce Keegan, chairman of the wildlife subcommittee of the Bay Chapter of the Sierra Club, will show slides along with his lecture at 7:30 p.m. at the Humane Society of Marin, 171 Bel Marin Keys, Novato.

There is an admission charge.

Burglary Case Trial Is Set

Sharon L. Protzel, 22, of Woodacre, and Richard Michael Doyle, 21, of San Anselmo, pleaded innocent yesterday in Marin Superior Court to a charge of burglarizing a San Anselmo residence on Jan. 11.

A jury trial was set for the week of June 5.

State Back Used Car Smog Device

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —The state Air Resources Board yesterday unanimously authorized use in California of a $20-per-vehicle smog control device for used cars submitted by General Motors Corp.

It was the second plan approved by the board in an effort to control emissions from cars built between 1955 and 1965. Neither system is yet available for distribution to the general public.

Approval of the General Motors plan drew strong objections from Air Quality Products, Inc., an Orange County-based company, whose rival but more expensive system ($55) was accepted earlier.

Noel Conway, an attorney for Air Quality Products, said the company would seek a temporary restraining order against the state agency on grounds the GM proposal would violate standards by increasing fuel consumption.

Conway charged that while AQP's system would not burn more gas, General Motors' would boost it "between 8 and 10 per cent." He said this was a condition the board "could not ignore."

Dr. Frank Bowdich, a GM representative, acknowledged the problem of increased fuel consumption but placed the probable level at between 2 and 3 per cent.

A staff report recommending acceptance of the GM device warned that neither system would make a serious dent into the problem of automobile smog.

"Such devices on all pre-1966 cars would only reduce reactive exhaust emissions about 9 per cent in 1974 or 1975," the report said.

"This is not a criticism of either of these systems," the report continued, "it is a result of the rapidly diminishing fraction of the total miles driven that are driven in these older cars." The report said a 30 per cent reduction would be realized by requiring the installation on all cars.

The GM device, according to the staff report, operates at all engine speeds until the engine coolant temperature exceeds 205 degrees Farenheit. The rival system does not operate at speeds in excess of approximately 35 miles per hour.

Once the emission control devices become mandatory, a motorist would be required to install one before he could sell his car.

In an tvening statement, the chairman of the state Air Resources Board said that complaints that smog control devices reduce the performance of cars is "probably justified."

Dr. A. J. Haagen-Smit told the board the "decrease in driveability in the newer cars" has resulted from steps taken by auto manufacturers to comply with stringent exhaust emission standards.

"The even more stringent standards which have been imposed for future models are very likely to have further adverse effects on performance, fuel economy and the cost of cars," Haagen-Smit said.

$1 Million Train Wreck Damage

BOSTON (UPI) —An estimated $1 million worth of damage was caused in a train wreck caused by a man who allegedly stole an eight-car Boston and Maine Buddliner.

William C. Lynch, 26, of Lynnfield, was arrested Wednesday near the scene. He pleaded innocent to willful and malicious destruction of property, willful and malicious destruction of railroad property, trespassing and being a disorderly person.

Lynch was ordered held in $25,000 bail pending an appearance in Municipal Court March 24.

POOL DRESSING ROOM DESTROYED

Battle Erupts After Patrolman Foils Ross Town Hall Burglary

A San Francisco man, surprised in the act of burglarizing the Ross Town Hall, was booked into Marin County Jail today after a wild battle with a Ross patrolman and a chase ending on Highway 101.

James Michael Bennewitz, 24, was held for investigation of attempted murder, burglalry, receiving stolen goods, felony battery on a police officer, assault with a deadly weapon, possession of a prohibited weapon and possession of marijuana and dangerous drugs. Bail was set at $20,000. Bennewitz was to appear today for arraignment in Marin Municipal Court.

Ross Patrolman Michael Schladweiler reported he was on his beat at 2:10 a.m. when he saw lights in the building inspector's office of the town hall. He found the council chamber public address equipment piled on a desk in the office and Oennewitz hiding beneath chairs in the back of the council chamber.

The policeman had placed one handcuff on the intruder when Bennewitz erupted into battle. He slammed the cuff into Schladweiler's face and grabbed his revolver, despite being sprayed in the face with Mace.

The patrolman said Bennewitz warned him, "If you follow me, you're dead" and fled the town hall after firing one shot that missed Schladweiler.

The patrolman saw the fleeing car and broadcast an alert over the police radio, then gave chase with a shotgun.

San Rafael Patrolman Paul Whitney, speeding to the scene over Wolfe Grade, saw the car on Sir Francis Drake Boulevard in Kentfield. He was joined by another San Rafael patrol car and a Marin County Sheriff's deputy. They stopped Bennewitz's auto near the Edgewater Inn in Corte Madera after a chase with red lights and siren. Bennewitz put up no further resistance.

The San Rafael officer said he found the Ross policeman's gun on the front seat of the car. Bennewitz also had hand-rolled cigarettes believed to contain marijuana, as well as pills identified as dangerous drugs, and an illegal billy club, Whitney reported.

Officer Schladweiler said Bennewitz carried an identification card indicating that he had worked as a New York State probation officer.

Trial Scheduled On Selling Drug

A jury trial has been set for the week of May 22 in Marin Superior Court for William Dennis Rule, 21, of Fairfax, who is charged with selling LSD to an undercover agent in Novato last August.

Rule, a College of Marin student who also goes by the name of Humble Hipp Harv, was arrested Jan. 1 on a warrant charging the felony sale.

Antiresidential Zone Supported

By C. P. McCARTHY

A move to rezone the Marin Town and Country Club property to prevent its development for residential use won strong support today from five Fairfax City Council candidates.

Only one of six candidates appearing on a radio KTIM "Sounding Board" discussion said he opposed an April 11 ballot measure which would rezone the property into a new commercial-recreation zone limiting its use to something like its present resort operation.

Candidate Harold S. Lezzeni said he opposed the initiative, placed on the ballot by a group of Fairfax citizens organized into a committee to Preserve Land and Nature (PLAN).

"The owner of the property should have the right to sell his property and develop it," Lezzeni said, adding that Fairfax had a design review board and planning commission to see that development of the property was correct.

If the people of Fairfax believe the property should be a park, he said, they should purchase it. The zoning tactic to limit potential use of the 23.5-acre parcel, lezzeni said, was not constitutional.

Other candidates on the program, however, endorsed the rezoning proposal. Two candidates — Joseph E. Martinez and Urban M. Nielsen — were unable to participate in the discussion today because of business commitments, said the program's host, Kitty Oppenheimer.

Indicating their support for the PLAN initiative were candidates Albert E. Gately, E. Ross Parkerson, Randall Garrison and Adelaide P. Wilson. Mrs. Wilson is secretary of PLAN.

Candidate Glenn B. Meagher did not voice an opinion on the PLAN initiative itself, but said that "if we do not prevent the high density development of Marin Town and Country Club, we might as well forget Fairfax as we've known it. That would be the beginning of the end."

The issue, that of council salaries, divided the six candidates today.

It was raised by Parkerson, who said the $150 a month paid to councilmen was too much. He suggested it be cut to $25 a meeting, not to exceed $75 a month.

Garrison noted the salaries were inaugurated when the city was operating without a city administrator. Now that Fairfax again has a paid city administrator, he said, the salaries should be cut and the money used for youth programs.

Council salaries are not a great issue and "too much is being made of this," Meagher said, but Mrs. Wilson said she thought $9,000 a year was "a big deal." She said she voted against council salaries when she served on the Fairfax City Council from 1966 to 1970.

Lezzeni said that he generally did not think that $150 was too much, although he added, "we're not getting anything for what we're paying." Gately agreed with Lezzeni's first point, saying the $150 a month barely reimburses councilmen for expenses required of them in connection with their service on the council.

Radio listeners kept the discussion at a low key, with telephoned questions to the candidates limited to an expression of concern about rubbish in the city, a suggestion that one candidate does not own property in Fairfax and a complaint about private security guards watching people at a Fairfax market.

The program will be rebroadcast on KTIM at 10:05 a.m. Sunday.

Bagley Bill Would Help Prison Guards

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — A bill to reimburse state prison guards for losses when reassigned to another prison was introduced yesterday by Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael.

Corrections officers now are entitled only to direct moving costs, but Bagley's measure would provide state reimbursement for losses such as those on a home sold below its market value.

Bagley's office had no estimate of the cost of the bill to the state.

The measure was introduced to meet the problems of guards at San Quentin, slated by the Reagan administration to close by the end of 1974.

Campus Designs Approved

The Marin Community College District board last night approved the exterior design for the first units of its Novato campus by a 4-1 vote.

Charles W. Gray, a foe of Indian Valley Colleges since a bond issue to finance it lost in November, voted against the plans. Robert E. Oliver and president Donald K. Felt were absent.

However, the board put over to the April 5 meeting approving a contract with Neptune and Thomas Associates for the construction stages. The board now has an agreement to pay the Southern California architectural firm $30,000 for the master planning. Payment of $24,000 was authorized last night.

The board approved preliminary plans for remodeling art facilities at College of Marin at a cost of $563,356. The job is to be completed in 1973.

The Marin Community College District board also:

CONFERENCE — Learned the third annual writers' conference, despite gross income of $6,568, went $900 in the red. Major cost was a $1,533 fee to Russian poet Yevgeny Yevtushenko.

LECTURES — Agreed to a series of 12 lectures to educate consumers between April 25 and June 1 that will be financed by a $4,080 federal grant.

EDUCATION — Approved two adult education courses: mathetmatics and chemistry for sewage plant operators, and classroom techniques for drug abuse prevention.

GIFTS — Accepted $100 from the Marin branch of the Music Teachers Association of California to purchase reference books, and research volumes worth $200 given by David R. Weertz of Sausalito.

COURSE — Expanded a nursing education course from four to six units.

SCHOLARSHIPS — Applied to participate in a federal program of loans and scholarships for nursing students. The district will provide $1,700, the Department of Health Education and Welfare $37,300.

CO-OP — Committed $1,600 to a Bay Area Rental Consortium of Community Colleges to rent films on a cooperative basis.

SECRETARY — Hired Carol A. Piehl as a substitute secretary in the library from today until Dec. 31 at $581 a month.

CARPENTER — Reclassified John Pace from maintenance mechanic to maintenance carpenter, thereby increasing his salary from $991 to $1,041 a month and reversing a previous decision.

OIL SPILL — Shifted $3,600 of a $25,000 grant to study oil spills to the general fund to buy a calculator and a typewriter to be used first for the study, then later for general purposes.

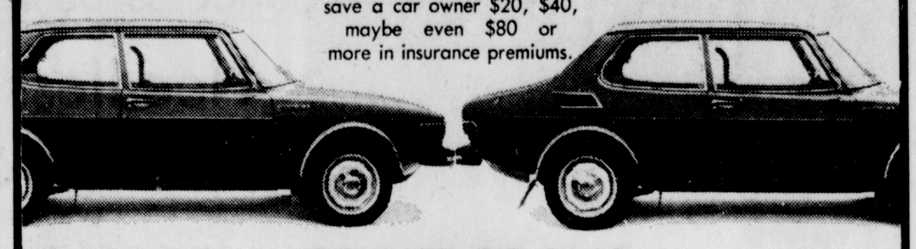

ATTENDANCE — Approved an interdistrict transfer agreement with other Bay Area community colleges which limits exchanges to less than 100.

COUNSEL — Allocated $3,000 to cover legal advice on a contract with the Radio Corp. of America, which provided the district with a computer, but went out of the computer business. The district is worried some parts of the contract won't be met.

This 26-story fractionating tower — believed the biggest of its type in the world — is lifted into place at Amoco Chemical Corp.'s propylene plant at Texas City, Tex., despite 15-mile-an-hour winds. The tower is about 100 feet taller than most refinery and chemical towers and, at 455 tons, is almost twice as heavy.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

Needless Worries Over Investments

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. I never invested until I was 65 in 1968 and then the bottom dropped out. My holdings are Hackensack Water, National Steel and two bonds, American Tel. & Tel. 6 per cent, 2000 and Eastern Air Lines 5 per cent, 1992. I would like to get my money back. I should never have gone into the market since I am not speculative by nature. — E.C.

A. Your portfolio is now worth about $11,000, down 11 per cent from your cost. The outlook for recovery to your cost is excellent. Until such time, the generous 6.6 per cent return from your portfolio should be some consolation.

A subsidiary of Hackensack Water was granted rate increases in 1971, which was apparent in final half earnings improvement. Additional rate relief requested by Hackensack, if approved, would further accelerate earnings recovery.

The faster economic pace this year will benefit many cyclical issues, National Steel included. Greater operating efficiency resulting from National's merger with Granite Steel as well as from full conversion to oxygen furnace steel production should generate higher profits.

The safety of the Telephone bond is unassailable; resale price, however, moves up and down with changing money rates. The Eastern Air Line bond, because it is convertible into common, reflects company progress rather than interest rates. Since this is your most speculative holding I would suggest sale on any recovery.

Q. I am thinking of converting my Mead Corp. $2.80 preferred into common in hopes of future dividend increases not possible from preferred shares. The common dividend has just been cut and I am having second thoughts. Any comment would be appreciated. — F.N.

A. In my opinion this exchange would be a losing proposition. Conversion would give you 1.74 common worth $30 at today's market for each $44 preferred share, whereas selling the preferred to buy common would yield 2.6 shares. As for income, you lose 55 per cent of the dividend by switching. The $2.80 preferred dividend yields 6.3 per cent, whereas the 2.6 common share equivalent of $1.56 yields 3.5 per cent.

Market On Lower Side At Opening

NEW YORK (UPI) —Weighted down by profit taking, the stock market moved lower today in fairly active trading on the New York Stock Exchange.

Analysts said profit taking erased most of Wednesday's gains, adding that the market still was consolidating. Some predicted the market would stay in its present range for a lengthy period.

Prices were lower in fairly active trading on the American Stock Exchange. Mobile Home Industries was the most active issue, off 1 1-4 at 27 7-8 on 46,200 shares.

Bausch & Lomb was the most active NYSE issue, primarily because of a block of 75,000 at 133, off 4. Later, the issue retreated further.

Steels were mixed. Bethlehem added 1 1-4. Motors and chemicals moved irregularly. Monsanto advanced 2 and Dupont lost 2 1-4 in the chemicals. Oils headed mostly lower. Superior Oil slipped 2.

Rails, airlines and aircrafts were mixed. American Airlines eased 1 1-4 in its group.

Stock Split

LOS ANGELES (BW) — Beverly Hills Bancorp has announced approval of a 3-for-2 stock split on the 798,638 common shares outstanding.

Enemark Sees Rise In Activity

Business activity should reach an all-time high this year, both in profits and gross volume, and may even go higher in 1973, a Marin financial expert predicted yesterday.

Fred F. Enemark, president of Bell Savings and Loan Association, spoke to about 100 members of the Marin County Board of Realtors at yesterday's breakfast meeting at Corte Madera Recreation Center.

Enemark explained that the financial forecast for this year is unclear because of conflicting views presented by experts nationwide. However, he makes these predictions:

The interest rate will slowly rise and stabilize at a higher level.

There will be a high rate of employment in 1972 and well into 1973. At the end of the year, more people will be working in more jobs than ever before in U.S. history, but the country will still have unemployment, especially among women, teen-agers and minorities.

Income and profits will be at an all-time high this year and may be exceeded in 1973.

Housing will continue to be a strong element in the economic recovery. Automobile sales will pick up and may hit a record this year.

"The biggest question," Enemark said, "is how long can business recovery proceed without dangerous inflation?"

A certain amount of inflation is inevitable, but he sees two moderating factors that tend to slow inflation. One is that unused factory capacity remains at 25 per cent and unemployment remains at 5.7 per cent.

"I believe inflation is at least partially under control and will remain so," he concluded.

Motor Firm Sale Headline Wrong

Sweeney British Cars has not yet been sold to Annex Motors. Consummation of the sale is set for Friday this week.

The headline for "Other People's Business" on Friday, March 10, said Sweeney's had been "sold" to Annex Motors. It was in error, and should have read "to be sold."

Lawyer Hired To Aid Teacher Firing

The Tamalpais High School District board has engaged San Rafael attorney William O. Weissich to aid in firing teacher Kenneth A. Anderson, the Independent-Journal has learned.

But how much the private attorney will be paid to assist Richard V. Godino, assistant County counsel, what his function will be and even why he was called in remained uncertain today.

Supt. Wilber D. Hawkins said the decision was made in closed sessions during the past month "just to assist Dick because he is swamped on several matters."

Hawkins said part of the long delay in presenting the district's case against the Tamalpais High School English teacher has been caused by Godino's heavy workload.

But Godino, who met with the board when it settled on Weissich, said, "To my knowledge that hasn't entered into the board's thinking."

He said the board still must take formal action in open session to hire the former district attorney, but Hawkins said no formal action is required.

What Weissich will do in the case is unclear. Anderson's attorney, Carl B. Shapiro of San Anselmo, said Weissich was to question his client when the teacher gave a deposition today, but Godino and Hawkins said they were unsure of his role.

Weissich said, "I assume if it goes to trial, I will be trying it," but said his fee in the case won't be determined until he finds out how much of his time will be needed.

Board president Frank L. Miller declined to state why Weissich was called in specifically for the Anderson case rather than for other cases Godino handles for the district.

Critics of the board's move to fire Anderson last May have urged the board to either move the stalled case or admit the charges against him are weak and drop them.

Since Anderson is tenured, the validity of the charges against him must be determined in court. Among the charges are that he disobeyed district rules and encouraged antisocial behavior among students.

Open Space District Is Proposed

The Marin County Parks and Recreation Commission recommended yesterday that a special county district be formed for acquisition of open space.

The recommendation, approved unanimously, will be considered Tuesday by the county board of supervisors. Like the county transit district, its board would include supervisors.

The proposal is one of three being studied as a means of overseeing purchase of open space in eastern Marin.

Others propose a regional park district with no ties to county government, or a separate county fund to be used by supervisors for land purchase. The latter would not need voter approval.

The commission referred to Marin's 11 cities an outline on how open space would be selected and acquired. The document calls for an annual tax rate of 10 cents per $100 assessed valuation. Highest priority for land acquisition would go to choice open space lands in danger of being developed.

Terra Linda To Seashore Path Studied

A bicycle and horse path from Terra Linda to Point Reyes National Seashore was proposed yesterday to the Marin County Parks and Recreation Commission.

The commission was told the Marin Municipal Water District has offered use of its pipeline easement for the path if the easement can be purchased by the district.

The path would run from Point Reyes Station, through Samuel P. Taylor State Park to Sleepy Hollow and then along the Manuel Freitas Parkway to Terra Linda.

The commission said it liked the idea and directed Pierre W. Joske, county director of parks and recreation, to come up with cost estimates next month.

The Marin County Parks and Recreation Commission also:

BOLINAS —Was told that the Bolinas Community Public Utility District has turned down the commission's offer to trade the small park in downtown Bolinas for land the district owns on Bolinas Lagoon. The lagoon land has been used as a dump.

BIKE BRIDGE — Rejected an offer from contractor Allan Larkins of 19 Stadium Way to build a bicycle bridge across Corte Madera Creek to reroute bike traffic away from his home.

TOUR — Agreed to meet Saturday at 10 a.m. as the advisory committee to the Point Reyes National Seashore for a tour of the park.

Behr Rivers Bill Rapped

I-J Special Report

GLENDALE — Pending legislation to preserve North Coast rivers in their wild and scenic state "would be detrimental to millions of Californians," according to the California Water Resources Association.

The legislation, SB 107 by Sen. Peter H. Behr, R-San Rafael, "would lock up some 40 per cent of the state's natural water runoff," said association president F.W. Russell of Auburn, Placer County.

The association, the voice of California water interests, opposed a similar measure last year by Behr that was defeated.

Russell also objected that Behr's bill failed to consider the need for flood control.

Girl, 16, Hurt In Auto Crash

A San Rafael girl was injured yesterday in a traffic accident at 3:50 p.m. on Manuel T. Freitas Parkway.

San Rafael police said Gwen A. Carr, 16, of 1060 Lea Drive, suffered a bump on her forehead, but declined medical treatment.

She was injured, police said, when the car she was driving struck the rear of a vehicle driven by Billie C. Woodward, 59, of 144 Carlotta Circle, Mill Valley, who had just turned onto Freitas parkway from Del Ganado Road.

USF President Says He Resigns

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— The Rev. Albert R. Jonsen, S.J., announced his resignation Wednesday as the University of San Francisco's president.

No successor was named immediately and the father did not tell the faculty or students why he chose to resign.

Youth's Fatal Crash Bail To Remain Same

A Marin Municipal Court judge yesterday turned down the plea of a deputy district attorney to raise the bail set for a young driver accused of running down and killing a teenage girl last Saturday in Sleepy Hollow.

Judge Peter Allen Smith instead took the advice of a probation officer, Dennis Elsasser, who said he thought $1,000 bail for Robert Brian England, 19, of San Anselmo, was adequate.

Deputy Dist. Atty. Raymond Gilbert had asked the bail be increased to $50,000 and also that England's probation in three earlier misdemeanor cases be revoked and that he be jailed.

Gilbert said that a condition of probation in those cases had been that England not drive a car.

England's attorney, William O. Weissich, argued, however, that legally bail should be used only for assuring court appearances not in a punitive manner.

After listening to the arguments, Judge Smith let bail remain the same and England is still free.

Young England is charged with felony drunken driving and manslaughter in connection with the death of 13-year-old Alene Toneff of Sleepy Hollow, daughter of former San Francisco 49er Robert A. Toneff.

She and another 13-year-old girl were walking home on the shoulder of Butterfield Road when the accident happened. The other girl suffered minor injuries.

England was arrested in his damaged stopped car.

The question of his bail had been the subject of a letter reportedly signed by 400 Sleepy Hollow residents who thought it should have been higher. They wrote in protest to Municipal Court Judge David Menary Jr., who had set the bail.

Judge Smith yesterday also set a preliminary hearing for England for 2 p.m. March 24 in municipal court. He ordered that the probation matters be considered at the same time.

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) —Character actress Mary Wickes joined the cast of Disney's "Chateau Bon Vivant" starring Dean Jones and Nancy Olson.

Three Hurt In Cycle Accidents

Three persons were injured in two motorcycle accidents in Marin yesterday, according to the California Highway Patrol.

Jane T. Guilfoyle, 16, of San Francisco was reported in good condition today at Marin General Hospital with a concussion suffered in a motorcycle accident about noon yesterday. Details of the accident were unavailable.

A Portland, Ore., man and a San Francisco woman were injured yesterday in a fall from a motorcycle on Shoreline Highway near Panoramic Highway, according to the patrol.

Frederick M. Larsen, 19, and Ellen J. Semm, 27, were treated at Marin General for scrapes and bruises, a hospital spokesman said. The accident occurred about 7:40 p.m.

CALLING ALL CAMERA FANS
By Ken Reichard
SEE WHAT DEVELOPS

There is a certain point in the career of just about every serious photo enthusiast when he wants to see what develops . . . literally.

Doing your own development, in your own improvised darkroom, separates one huge group of photographers from another. The simple truth is that success or failure of a picture, the originality of it, the capturing of the mood or scene that was in the photographer's eye, depends on processing.

When you've reached the stage where your pictures become a personal expression, you may want to try your hand at developing. Only you can determine exactly what you want. And don't be put off by the complexity of the process — it's easier than you think. And the little extra effort pays off in the joy of controlling exactly what you're getting.

Even if you develop your own black-and-white shots, you'll want to see us for the finest color processing. At every stage of your camera fun, you'll find us ready to serve you better, so come in and get acquainted.

A Compulsory Falsecard May Help Deceive The Opponent

The average taxpayer wouldn't dream of telling a lie, especially with April 15th approaching and Big Brother checking up on him with a computer. The only place it's safe to practice a little deception is at the bridge table. In fact, in a certain finessing situation, a good defender will always tell a lie.

Opening lead — ◇ Q

OUT SAFELY

West leads the queen of diamonds, and the defenders quickly rattle off the first three tricks. Then they get out safely with a heart, and declarer needs the rest of the tricks.

South can get the rest if he can guess the trump position. Good defenders will give him a problem where none seems to exist.

Here is where West must execute the compulsory falsecard. He must play his middle trump — not his lowest. In the example, West must play the eight of trumps. It would be even better if he had 10-9-3, for then he could play either the ten or the nine.

CREATES GUESS

Left to his own devices, South would probably lead out the ace of trumps in the hope that East started with only the doubleton king. This would work, and South would make his contract by picking up West's ten of trumps with dummy's queen.

When West drops the eight of trumps, however, South may get the impression that West's ten is doubleton. This gives South an idea that he might not otherwise think of.

FINESSE TRIED

South leads a club to dummy's king and leads the queen of spades from dummy. The idea is to finesse through East's king and pick up the ten of spades at the same time.

If South can be flummoxed into trying this, the contract will be defeated. The queen, king and ace of trumps will all fall on the same trick, leaving West's ten of spades established as the settling trick.

Pay Plan Hit; Morale Is Cited

The Marin Mental Health Advisory Board decided last night a pay plan under which psychiatrists and psychologists at the Community Mental Health Center, would receive lower raises than other staff members would cause damage to morale.

Jack D. Williams, board chairman, said the advisory group asked him to write a letter to the county board of supervisors seeking review of the situation.

Williams said Dr. William Pemberton, president of the Marin Psychological Association, appeared before the board to protest the pay plan. Psychiatrists have been offered a 5 per cent raise and psychologists hikes ranging from .9 per cent to 4.2 per cent, while other staff members at the center have been offered 5.5 per cent, Williams said.

The board also recommended granting $6,000 to Center Point, a residential antidrug facility in San Rafael, for operating funds for the balance of the fiscal year. Williams said, however, the grant would hinge on finding the funds in the mental health budget.

Center Point has appealed to the advisory board because other planned sources of revenue haven't produced.

The board also held for further study problems surrounding post-hospital treatment of schizophrenic youths. Parents of the youths have said their youngsters don't get thorough and qualified treatment and that government-run mental institutions slowly are being phased out.

Holdup Suspects Plead Innocence

Two men arrested Saturday on suspicion of holding up a Corte Madera grocery store with a knife and a razor entered innocent pleas yesterday in Marin Municipal Court to armed robbery charges.

A preliminary hearingqas set for next Tuesday for Leroy H. Dorigo, 24, of Sonora, and Philip Ray Talley, 32, of nearby Columbia.

They were arrested in San Rafael about a half-hour after they allegedly robbed the 7-11 store at 118 Corte Madera Avenue, according to Corte Madera police.

The two men reportedly got about $280 in the robbery. They were arrested near the Bermuda Palms motel after their description and partial license number of their car was broadcast by Corte Madera police.

Mary Fischer of 249 Mountain View Avenue, San Rafael, has announced a six-week course in grapho analysis starting next Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. in her home. A charge will be made.

P.O. Convention In San Rafael

The San Rafael Post Office will host an annual convention of 150 Northern California postmasters tomorrow and Saturday in the Holiday Inn, according to Postmaster Hugh A. Cassidy.

He said the heads of every major post office from Marin County north to the Oregon border will attend a series of educational seminars on mail problems, employee testing, inspection and other facets of the service.

The annual regional gathering is held in a different city each year. This is the first year San Rafael has had the convention, Cassidy said.

Drama Classes For Youths Will Begin

Drama classes for students 8 through the teens will begin April 4 under sponsorship of the Junior Theater of Marin, according tg Pat Glasser, publicity chairman.

The 10-week classes will be given in the Lucas Valley Community Center, separated into sections according to age and ability. An enrollment fee will benefit the junior theater's three planned productions. One, the "Teen-Age Theater of Social Comment," will be new, Mrs. Glasser said.

Israel Rejects Jordanian Plan

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Israeli Prime Minister Golda Meir today rejected a plan by King Hussein of Jordan to create a semi-autonomous Palestinian state under his sovereignty with Jerusalem as its capital. "His plan cannot be used as a basis for peace with Israel," she said.

Mrs. Meir told a packed session of the Knesset (parliament) Hussein's plan "does not offer us peace. Peace is not even mentioned. The king assumes he can act unilaterally and not take Israel into consideration."

Hussein outlined his plan Wednesday. It would set up two states, one in what is now Jordan and the other in the area west of the Jordan River. That area, including Jerusalem, was taken from Jordan during the 1967 war and still is occupied by them.

Despite unfavorable response, Jordanian government sources said the plan would be approved sometime next week.

In outlining the plan, the 37-year-old Jordanian monarch said it could not be implemented untcl Israel withdrew its forces from the West Bank area it now holds.

Damascus Radio said in a broadcast today that Syria, Egypt and Libya—members of the Arab Federation—will confer with Palestinian guerrilla leaders before announcing their position. None of the governments have yet commented officially on the plan, although unofficial reaction has been against it.

However, Iraq has called on Syria and Egypt to join it to stop the plan, which is said would destroy Arab unity.

The Cairo newspaper Al Akhbar described it as "the most dangerous development in the Middle East since the 1967 Arab-Israeli war."

UPI correspondent Maurice Guindi reported from Cairo that "the government is taking a very cautious attitude on the Hussein plan. There has been no official comment so far and none is expected very soon."

Before attacking the plan in parliament, Mrs. Meir held an hour-long meeting with her cabinet. It went on so long her speech was delayed by 15 minutes.

"Jordan is making a mistake with this plan," she said. "It shows King Hussein has not learned a lesson in the last five years.

"There is only one way—serious negotiations leading to an agreement for peace, and Israel is ready for these negotiations at any time," she said.

Mrs. Meir said the "pretentious" Hussein plan was more likely to spur the area towards war, rather than peace.

"It is a pretentious and one-sided statement, which not only does not serve the interests of peace, but is liable to spur on all the extremist elements whose aim is war against Israel," she said.

"Pretentiousness is a pervading characteristic of Hussein's address...He crowns himself king of Jerusalem and envisions himself as the ruler of larger territories than were under his control prior to the rout of June, 1967," she said.

"In the fervour of his enthusiasm as a liberator of territories, and a setter-up of kingdoms, he has gone so far as to designate Jerusalem— Israel's eternal capital—as the capital of Palestine," Mrs. Meir said.

Requirement For Advertisers Bill

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Advertisers would be required to prove their claims under a bill introduced Wednesday by Assemblyman Ken Meade, D-Oakland.

The measure would apply to advertisements which employ so-called factual or clinical evidence or which compares one product to another.

TREAD WEAR EXPECTANCY

Because of variable driving habits and road conditions under which tires are used, it is impractical for Montgomery Ward, and conceivably misleading to our customers, to guarantee any specific number of months or miles of tread wear. We can, however, indicate the wear potential we have built into our tires in terms of service in normal family use. If a Riverside tire wears down to the tread wear indicators during the Tread Wear Expectancy, Montgomery Ward will upon presentation of the tire and evidence of date of purchase replace the tire for the then current price less the allowed dollar allowance:

Tread Wear Expectancy	Tread Wear-Out Allowance
Primero 35,000 miles	Prorated on Miles Driven
WTO/Radial 40,000 miles

San Rafael School Board Sells Acre Near Glenwood

A one-acre parcel across from Glenwood School on Castlewood Drive has been sold by the San Rafael Board of Education last night for a high bid of $41,250.

The award followed receipt of both written and verbal bids at the school board's meeting.

Asst. Marin County Counsel Richard V. Godino supervised the bid opening Tuesday night. San Rafael Schools Supt. John F. Plank said three written bids were received, but one of them was for only one of the four lots contained in the parcel.

Before proceeding with verbal bidding, the board decided to sell the four lots together, rejecting the one-lot bid.

The property finally was awarded to Gerard A. Hendriks, who had submitted the high written bid, $38,050, but who had to go up to $41,250 in the verbal bidding.

Plank said only one other person was bidding, an unidentified real estate agent representing a client.

The San Rafael Board of Education lso:

TEACHERS — Directed Plank to notify 30 teachers, all in their first year with the district, they may not be rehired for the 1972-73 school year. The preliminary notification had to be made today by state law, but Plank said he was hopeful none would have to be terminated.

INVESTMENTS — Received a report from Marin County Treasurer-Tax Collector Stanley J. Fontez that San Rafael schools make about $8,000 a year on "idle" money invested by the county for the schools districts. The money is invested for a maximum of six months between its collection and expenditure by the schools office.

EXPERIMENT — Heard from Terra Linda High School Principal Frank A. Stocking that between 30 per cent and 60 per cent of Terra Linda students are taking advantage of a voluntary open seventh period inaugurated at the school last month. The seven 45-minute periods, instead of six 53-minute periods, are offered three days a week, but will be expanded to five days April 10. The experimental program will be evaluated at the end of the school year to see if it will be tried again next year, Plank said.

COMMITTEE — Named Walter J. Rollin of 36 Hepburn Heights, San Rafael, to a vacancy on the 32-member citizens advisory committee.

COURSE — Approved a new English course offering, "Readings in Contemporary Problems," for the 1972-73 school year in the high schools.

SUMMER — Approved plans for the high school summer session program which will operate at a $12,518 deficit. The proposal had been cut, at the board's direction, from a plan calling for a $23,000 deficit.

SALARIES — Raised salaries for adult education teachers from $8 to $8.45 an hour, effective last Nov. 14 when the federal wage-price freeze ended. The board had committed itself to the increase last June, Plank said.

HIRES — Approved hiring James Chu as a substitute custodian at $3.29 an hour; LuDean Varner as a bus driver for $1,137, effective Feb. 25 through the end of the school year, and Billie Smith as a visual English teacher in adult education at $8.45 an hour.

RETIREMENTS — Accepted the retirements of Ewing Bone, a mathematics teacher at San Rafael High School, after 23 years of service; Alverna Kavanaugh, a drama teacher at Davidson Middle School, after 24 years, and George Lester, a social science teacher at San Rafael High School, after 18 years. The retirements are effective June 30.

EXTENSIONS — Held over until March 28 requests by six teachers for extensions of their leaves of absence. Plank said the board wants to consider if the extensions should be granted in light of a surplus of teachers seeking employment.

RESIGNATIONS — Accepted resignations for various reasons from Shirley Caine, MacPhail School teacher; Kay Coleman and Arlene Morris, San Rafael High School teachers; Bruce Henington, MacPhail custodian; Glenn Townsend, Davidson Middle School instructional aide, and Doreen Wasson, Laurel Dell School secretary.

LEAVES — Granted leaves of absence to Nancy Hitchcock, Gallinas School teacher; Sandra Malstrom, San Pedro School teacher, and Minika Nimeh and Doris Upshur, San Rafael High School teachers.

GIFTS — Accepted thirty books donated to the Sun Valley School library by Mr. and Mrs. Fred Saccone; a geographical dictionary donated to the Sun Valley library by the Sun Valley School Parents Club in memory of the father of one of its teachers, Thomas Burrows, and a $25 donation to the Sun Valley library by the school's parents club.

MEETING — Set its next meeting for 8 p.m. March 28 at Davidson School library. The meeting will follow an inspection by the board of a new shop at Santa Venetia Middle School and a new music room at Davidson.

Bond Election Planning Round

The Shoreline Unified School District board will plan for its $1.2 million bond election June 6 at 7:30 p.m. today at Tomales High School.

Supt. Charles McCully said trustees will prepare to present the matter to voters, who rejected it in January.

The board also will have a closed session to hear charges against a teacher.

A LESSON FROM THE FAMOUS

FEW SHOPPERS USE SYSTEM

Unit-Pricing — Consumer Bonanza Or Boondoggle?

By JOSEPHINE RIPLEY
The Christian Science Monitor News Service

One sometimes wonders whether consumers are more confused than helped by some of the programs promoted in their name.

Unit pricing, for instance. This system has been widely publicized for several years as a device by which the shopper can determine the best buy, pricewise, from among the multipriced, varied content products arrayed on supermarket shelves.

And the system enables the shopper to do just that — if the shopper uses it. Yet surveys have proved the truth of that old saying that you can lead a horse to water, but you can't make him drink.

These studies show that only a relatively small percentage of shoppers utilize the unit pricing system. Those who have done so have been mainly from the higher income areas and not in low-income neighborhoods where it was thought the system would be of greatest advantage.

Consumer Research Institute, Inc., after interviewing consumers found only about half of them "perceived and understood the system of unit pricing."

The institute also found that "those least likely to understand are the disadvantaged groups, such as the old and those of minority races."

YOU MUST admit, if you have used unit pricing, that it takes a bit of figuring to arrive at the unit cost and then apply it to several items to determine which is lowest in price. It also takes time.

Suppose you are considering several brands of a certain product which vary in content and in price. A tape along the shelf beneath these products gives you the price per pound.

From that you figure the price per ounce. Then, using that information, you can determine whether the eight ounce can or jar for 89 cents, or the one containing five ounces for 63 cents, is the best buy, pricewise.

In general, this leads you to the house brand — the one put out by the store. It is usually the lowest priced.

Not that there is anything wrong with the house brand. It is a product manufactured by the retailer or purchased from a national brand manufacturer at a special price. It is given a name and label by the retail store where it is sold.

How much do you save if you buy the lowest priced item? The Consumer Research Institute, in its study of unit pricing, concluded that "it is unlikely that any aggregate consumers savings will accrue from a unit pricing policy."

Even so, the industry has been surprised that "so few shoppers (have) used unit pricing." The Rhode Island Business Quarterly, in an article entitled, "Is Unit Pricing Enough?" came to the conclusion that:

"A MAJOR DETERRENT to efficient use (of unit pricing) is that price alone may not be the major reason why consumers purchase a preferred item."

The article conceded that where manufacturers make their sales pitch on various things other than price, such as taste, convenience, or special quality, the best buy on the basis of price alone is often obscured.

It is also thought that legibility may be a trouble spot in the effectiveness of unit pricing. The computer printed tapes on which the price of the item and the unit price are given are often pale and difficult to read.

But if unit pricing has not been an overwhelming hit with consumers, it has been with many stores.

For, in practice, it has improved and speeded up stock-keeping procedures. It reduces the "potential for out-of-stock items. . .improves pricing ac-

Great-Grandmother Has The Last Word On Flag Patches

DEAR YOU TWO:

A last word on the flat patch business which really amused me. All that hubbub over "defacing" the flag — and you two overlooked an obvious rebuttal. The government has a United States flag eight-cent stamp. It gets licked, franked, stamped, cancelled, torn and defaced. I've seen no complaints from patriots that it should be taken out of circulation.

So-o-o, here's a vote for your side, from — A GREAT-GRANDMOTHER

DEAR GREAT:

Thanks, great-grand, we needed that. — HELEN AND SUE

DEAR HELEN AND SUE:

Last year when I was a freshman it was dullsville. I mean I was really out of it: no friends, especially girls, with whom I scored zero.

Now this year, as a sophomore, I've changed and become more outgoing. Which is fine except now there are five very fine and nice girls I like, and they seem to like me.

I don't want to hurt anybody's feelings and I'd hate to be called a five-timer. If you like them all equally, how do you choose?

DEAR ITDTGO:

If there are five girls you like, you have no problem. If there are five girls you love — then you have a problem.

Keep it friendly, get to know them better, and pretty soon the field will narrow down — either through personality clashes or because some will go on to different guys. Whatever, don't start weeding them out too soon, or you might be back playing memories of your freshman year. — SUE

DEAR IN:

Maybe you aren't ready for real dates yet — which is why you consider girls good buddies rather than girl friends. Enjoy your new popularity, let the girls compete for awhile, play a little hard to get (exclusively), and save your money. (Dates are expensive, y'know.) Five girls on a loose string are cheaper than one tied up as a steady. — HELEN

Got a problem? Or a subject for discussion, two-generation style? Direct your questions to either Sue or Helen Bottel —or both, in care of the Independent-Journal if you want a combination mother-daughter answer.

New Plastic Bottle That Disintegrates

A plastic bottle that disintegrates in tap water harmlessly has been developed at a cost no higher than for current plastic or glass containers, reports the California Milk Advisory Board, which may use the new bottle for milk and dairy products.

The bottle consist of three layers: a barrier-resistant inner layer of film, a middle layer of soluble cellulose, and an outer layer of film that protects the middle layer from contact with water until the bottle is to be disposed of.

Today's China Must Be Smart, Useful

The Christian Science Monitor News Service

ATLANTIC CITY — American women are "either or" in their choice of china and glassware. The dividing line is price. If it's expensive, they buy the traditional — the translucent china, delicately banded, or flowered, the cut glass goblets, the crystal stemware.

But if the price is moderate, then they'll swing. They will try something different — new shapes in dishes, vivid colors, compactness, versatility.

"Today's young couple doesn't expect china to last forever. They want to use it, not tuck it away on a closet shelf," the buyer for a chain of Texas department stores claimed as he walked the rows separating 450 exhibits at the recent Atlantic City China and Glass Show.

Like other buyers who poured through the convention center, he was searching for something new.

"Not necessarily modern," he specified. "But casual to conform to today's style of living."

The owner of three New Jersey jewelry stores was also looking, but the only change he found was a pair of tired feet. Oh, perhaps there were some Royal Doulton figurines he hadn't seen before or a new pattern introduced by a famous pottery, but few real changes.

BUT THEN who needs them? The brides who come to his stores to choose patterns in china, silver, and glass, are as traditional in their taste as their mothers, or even their grandmothers, he maintained.

Representatives of German glass and china industries agreed with him. "Americans are much more conservative than Germans," Wolfgang Kneller said. "In our country, buyers demand new shapes and contemporary designs like this," he said, displaying a severely elegant lead crystal goblet.

And although the manufacturers from the Federal Republic of Germany were displaying porcelains in the dark greens, blood reds and black, and the modern designs so popular at home, for the export trade they produce the traditional, the sparkling goblets in cut glass and the flowered bone china.

They are frankly and even eagerly looking for business. Although the countries in the Common Market are neighbors and easily accessible, still these exports have been dropping from 52 per cent in 1968 to 38 per cent last year. America is where the profit is.

Faced with rising costs and wages, plus a shortage of skilled glassblowers, Germans have perfected a machine-made lead crystal which they claim maintains the high quality demanded for export, and yet can cover the mass demands of hotels and restaurants.

BUT IF THE Germans are actively competing for American business, the Japanese are having some second thoughts about their U.S. exports, at least according to one young member of the Japan External Trade Organization.

A newcomer to this country, he remarked rather stiffly that "I personally feel we export too much to the United States. We want now to stop making cheap articles and send things of good design such as we use ourselves at home."

The Japanese exhibit on one side showed the usual vases, pottery, and bibelots exported to this country, and on the other, were tablewares labeled "good design products," which they want to export.

Many of the latter bowls, plates, and pots were of pottery on which bold colors were applied in free form style. It was the design, rather than the shape, which seemed changed.

But if the young Nipponese was resentful of his country's image in the United States as a nation of copyists, Czechoslovakians have no such hangup.

Their display was glittering with traditionally cut glass goblets and heavy leaded bowls as well as delicately colored and etched Bohemian glasses. But fully half their exhibit was devoted to glass as an art form.

"Gifts of joy and beauty," they said of the glass block engravings by Jindrich Tockstein, or the stylized sculptures of Jan Cerny, or a columnar vase by Antonin Drobnik.

HOWEVER THESE art objects were just made for display and not for mass manufacture or export. And while spectators "ahed" and "ohed" and labeled them "beautiful," buyers said "impractical!" Hand sculptured stemware with a tear-shaped air bubble in the stem, or an irregularly cut footed goblet are certainly not for the American department store market, they indicated.

Popular with buyers of moderate-priced china were dishes which came in a rainbow of colors. Twelve tints and tones of colors analagous to gold brown, blue green, beige black or red lavender come in each 20-piece set of china which stack and nest.

Jack Prince and Gerald Gulotta are the New York designers responsible for the new colors and convex and concave shapes of the china and glass.

curacy and reduces the time required for ordering," according to Ralph C. Ward, retail operations manager for Safeway Stores, Inc.

The cost of installing and operating the system seems to have posed no problem despite the fact that stores were warned by researchers in the beginning that costs would be large "in relation to the very narrow margins typical for food distributors."

A food chain in Chicago once figured that it cost about $1,000 a store to put the plan into operation.

Other food chains have found that the cost of putting the program into effect has been more than offset by its benefits.

At the Giant stores, it is claimed that "the program paid for itself long ago," and no part of the cost has been passed along to the consumer.

So there is little question but what unit pricing, whether consumers utilize it or not, has come to stay.

UNIT PRICING is required by law in Massachusetts and in New York City. It has gone into effect in Maryland under recently passed legislation. Bills are pending in a few other states.

But unit pricing as a consumer issue in Congress appears to have lost much of its momentum because of the widespread voluntary adoption of the system by the stores themselves. More than 100 retail firms now offer unit pricing.

As one trade publication put it, this voluntary adoption of unit pricing may have succeeded "in heading off constricting federal legislation."

The latest consumer bill, introduced by Sens. Frank E. Moss, D-Utah, and Vance Hartke, D-Indiana, omits unit pricing entirely and concentrates on labeling practices, one of the biggest consumer issues now on the horizon.

DANCE REVIEW

Ballet Folklorico Uses Total Theater Formula

By MARIE RAMEAU

SAN FRANCISCO — There is no dance troupe so colorful, dynamic or theatrical as the Ballet Folklorico of Mexico. The company opened its local engagement Tuesday night in the monstrous Masonic Auditorium, to a house which should have been completely sold out.

The troupe will be at the auditorium through Sunday.

Normally on opening night, a company is not seen at its best, but this opening was a rare exception.

These artists are not only dancers, but simultaneously accomplished singers and instrumentalists, innately musical at that. I saw not a sign of "nerves," when they were called upon, not only to dance, but to perform in all these capacities at once.

The live music was top-notch, and by conventional standards quite simple, provided by marimbas, guitars, drums and, in one instance, a harp. Costumes were of exquisite folk patterns, of brilliantly contrasting reds, vermilions and other hues, or occasionally just soft and airy white.

As the troupe's name would indicate, its repertoire content is authentic, derived from the boundless wealth of Mexican folklore, tradition, pageantry and dance. This included influences of Olmec, Chamula, Totonac, Yaqui and Zapotec rituals and dances, which were fresh and suspenseful, even though relatively obscure to North American audiences.

Due to the innumerable dances presented, and the fact that group work is of essence in this company's programs, it is impossible to cover every "ballet" or even individual dancers. This was a unified, total theatrical experience, something far greater than merely the sum of its parts.

It was "Fiesta in Veracruz" which contained the most exciting music, pageantry and zapateado (intricate, rhythmic stamping of the feet). This was all buoyancy, high spirits and fun. And when, in "Wedding in Huasteca," the rival (Jose Villanueva) gets done in in a machete duel, a musician winds it all up by shouting in Spanish, "Get rid of him, and let's get on with the dancing!"

"The Olmecs" portrayed a ritual jaguar hunt, in which the captured beast is not slain, but worshipped, to severely angular movements and the ascetic, relentless beat of the drums.

My favorite, however, will always be the oldest of Mexican dances, the traditional Yaqui "Deer Dance," for which the performer (Emilio Ceron) is trained from childhood to interpret the elusive movements of the deer. No wonder, not only for the dance's convulsive contortions and leaps, but for its refinement of gesture. This was not a man dancing, but a desperately frightened, yet cautious animal, who fixed the audience with one piercing, but fleeting stare, sending chells down my spine and leaving me silent for a long time.

That old audience favorite, "Jarabe Tapatio" (The Hat Dance), which finished the program, had to be repeated as an encore. As for myself, I would gladly drive 50 miles each way to see this finest of international folk dance troupes again.

MUSIC REVIEW

Alma Trio Gives Excellent Reading Of Brahms, Beethoven

By ROBERT M. NESS

It was very much a thinking man's chamber concert. Trios by Brahms, Bloch, Beethoven, and Schubert were given a careful philosophical interpretation by violinist Andor Toth, cellist Gabor Rejto, and pianist William Corbett Jones at last night's performance before an audience of about 500 at the Veterans Memorial Building in San Rafael.

Individually, these three musicians rank very favorably among the top concert artists of the world. Collectively, as the renowned Alma Trio, it displayed a balance, a technical facility, and a unified interpretive expression often associated with such groups as the Budapest and Juilliard quartets. Though awkwardly arranged, last night's program was an exquisite illustration of this trio's musical worth.

Like having Chateaubriand as a first course, the Brahms' Trio in C Major, Op. 87, as an opener, was almost too much to digest. Its haunting melodies and dark harmonies were performed with an overpowering intensity. Toth and Rejto, often playing in octaves, gave the utmost in liquefying the lines while Jones sent up waves of thick piano textures.

The following "Three Nocturnes" by Bloch, while emotionally dramatic, didn't offer much to sink one's teeth into after the Brahms experience. Concerned less with delicate shadings, the trio went right after the emotional expression of this neo-romantic trilogy. Toth's violin playing suddenly became less profound and more spontaneous. He actually reveled in the almost drippy middle section of the third nocturne.

The (Kadadu) G Major Variations of Beethoven was a relief, a return to musical reality. From the profound introductcor through variations of the most outlandish character and originality, the Trio drove, sparkled, and laughed at every note.

One of the variations was a beautiful example of Beethoven's sometimes uncontrollable wit. While the piano performed a phenomenal technical variation, the violin and cello mocked each other with curt jesting appoggiaturas.

The members brought so much to the performance of this work — from the glorious introduction to the sparkling spicatto and the imitative canonic variations — that the only disappointment was that the piece had to end.

Schubert's Trio in E Flat, Op. 100 closed the concert. Here again, the trio captured and exploited the style of the work. Schubert's clean romance and naivety became the expressive goal.

The fourth concert sponsored by the Marin Concert Association will be guitarist Christopher Parkening April 12 at 8:15 p.m. in the Veterans Memorial Building.

TODAY'S EDITORIAL

Turn Back The Page To Complete Record

That was the day the Marin County Board of Supervisors, by 3-to-2 vote, appointed John F. Barrows as county administrator, with a proviso that his appointment would be re-evaluated after six months.

We have never quarreled with the appointment, but the manner in which it was made has troubled us. A screening committee of highly qualified men had been named to winnow the field for county administrator appointment. But it had been kept waiting for a go-ahead from the supervisors that it didn't get. Then, on Aug. 31, the board appointed Barrows.

IN THE DEBATE on that appointment, Supervisor Louis H. Baar (who, with John F. McInnis, voted "no") turned out to be an excellent prophet.

Baar, objecting to a proposal by Supervisors Arnold Baptiste and Peter R. Arrigoni that the board go into closed session to discuss the appointment, said:

"It's my feeling the board needs no executive session. . . The majority's apparently set on hiring now, whether it's any subterfuge of three months or five months or six months."

Supervisor Michael Wornum objected to the "subterfuge" slur, declaring he wanted Barrows to serve until Jan. 1, "then evaluate. . . then go to a screening committee if you wish."

Responded Baar: "Mike, you know as well as I, if the appointment is made until January, it's a foregone conclusion Barrows will keep the job."

That's when Bud Baar qualified for his prophet, seer and revelator's license.

The board voted 3-2 to appoint Barrows, subject to evaluation in six months. The six months will be up March 31.

SOME STRANGE occurences preceded that appointment.

When Alan Bruce resigned as county administrator, the supervisors decided to appoint a screening committee to assist in finding a replacement. Ignazio A. Vella, a Sonoma County supervisor, was named chairman of that committee.

On July 8, the committee met for dinner in Sausalito. All five Marin supervisors attended. A few days later, Baar left on vacation, after first sending Vella a letter approving hiring of a consultant firm to prepare job specifications and assist initial recruiting.

On July 20, the four-member board voted unanimously, without discussion, to hire the consultant, but members denied any decision had been reached at the unannounced committee meeting. Only Baar, reached by telephone while on vacation, said the consultant had been approved July 8.

WHILE BAAR was away and Arrigoni was acting chairman, the board voted to delay hiring the consultant, and had Vella notified to hold up all recruiting.

Then, on Aug. 31, Barrows was appointed.

We mention these matters now, not only because the time for evaluation is here, but also because a campaign is beginning for three seats on the board of supervisors. Baar is not a candidate for re-election. Arrigoni and Wornum are. We assume they are running on their records. So let the record on this matter be complete.

"And I'd like to thank both of you personally."

By EARL G. WATERS

Despite the almost annual addition of trial judges to the courts throughout the state, the backlog of cases to be heard grows larger and the lag between filing and trial becomes longer.

While this situation may suit some, particularly those who can profit through investments while they stand off an ultimate judgment, it is not satisfactory to the majority.

It is most unfair to those who have clear cases to recover for injuries caused by someone else. The injured person must stand his hospital and medical bills by borrowing at high interest. The insurance company in the meantime is earning interest on the money it eventually must pay out.

LAWYERS OFTEN pictured as heartless and greedy, have demonstrated this is not an accurate image of their profession. They have done this by initiating arbitration programs in Los Angeles and San Francisco. The programs are now being reviewed by a special committee on trial court delay.

The programs in operation are limited to minor civil suits with awards restricted to a maximum of $7,500. These cases are contributing heavily to the court clogging.

Under the programs both parties to a suit, plaintiff and defendant, agree to arbitration. In doing so they stipulate that the findings will be final. There can be no appeal. By this provision the program not only relieves the trial courts but serves to lighten the loads of the appellate courts, which have also become snowed under.

THE LEGISLATURE has made several attempts to relieve the appeals courts. They have added more departments and added a fourth justice to each. When this didn't do the job they authorized the Judicial Council to appoint pro tem justices from the ranks of the retired and from the trial courts. The latter can work adversely by leaving trial courts short of judges. Studies are now being made to find ways of further relieving the present leads carried by appellate justices.

In the arbitration plans now functioning, a panel of more than 100 lawyers is selected from the county bar association. Each is picked on the basis of experience, ableness, fairness and integrity.

An arbitration administrator chosen by the courts draws the name of an arbitrator for each case submitted. There is no jury and an arbitrator cannot be challenged by either party. He may disqualify himself on grounds of conflict or he may plead press of other business. In either case the administrator draws another name. Once having served, the arbitrator is not returned to the drawing box until all on the panel have taken a turn.

THE ARBITRATORS serve without pay. Normal fees for filing suits are charged and no further fees are collected for electing the arbitration plan. Plaintiffs can be awarded costs if their award exceeds $2,500. Defendants are awarded costs if the plaintiff loses.

The plans have only been in operation a few months, too short a time to declare them successful. However, first reports have been most favorable and the plan may well be extended to other counties faced with the same overload problems. The legal profession has distinguished itself in public service by voluntarily providing this service and donating time.

'Old Enough To Vote Is Old Enough To Govern'

In your statement about Joe Franszek believing "old enough to vote is old enough to govern," I would point out that you might benefit by encouraging youth to work through the system, rather than discouraging and turning them to other methods of change, like bombing buildings (such as yours).

In reading your article I find it quite easy to understand how such things could come about.

Open Area Zoning Urged In West Marin

Do you want to see Northwest Marin remain rural?

Do you believe that the recent scrapping of the semi-urban Tomales Bay plan assures open space along Tomales Bay?

It does not.

But if the board of supervisors adopts and adheres to an open space zoning policy, West Marin ranchers will not be subject to the developmental pressures of high assessments.

Such a policy, a 60-acre per unit zone, is scheduled to come before the board of supervisors on Tuesday, March 21 at 3 p.m. (Call first to check time.)

Appearing before the board to support this zoning is perhaps our last, and surely our best, chance to keep Northwest Marin open.

Errors Detected In Report Of Trial

I'd like to call your attention to an error in fact in the article "2 Convicted In Selling Of Heroin" appearing on page 4 of the March 13 edition of your paper. The error is that the male defendant was not found guilty of two sales of heroin. He was found guilty of one sale to undercover, narcotics agent Garrett McDonald. The male defendant was found not guilty of another sale of heroin to agent McDonald and a paid police informant who was a heroin addict himself.

It seems unfortunate that about 75 per cent of this article focused on testimony of agent McDonald concerning a conversation he supposedly had with defendants a year ago. None of this conversation was recorded by agent McDonald in his report of the incident and was denied by the defendant. Although this was the only article in the March 13 edition that I was familiar enough with the facts to make a judgment about the quality and taste of the reporting . . . it was enough to make me wonder.

Society's Incongruity Shown By Cartoon

Our compliments for the cartoon which appeared in the March 8 issue of the Independent Journal, showing the gates of Death Row on the top section and the doors of an "abortion factory" on the lower, with the title "speaking of processes that degrade and dehumanize." It depicted the incongruity of it all — killing innocent babies without mercy, but delaying the just punishment of hardened criminals until the event of abolishment of the death penalty.

What has happened to our society that it will no longer recognize the rights of the unborn or the innocent threatened citizen. What evidence can be shown that the human embryo is not human at conception or that the hardened criminals of Death Row can be rehabilitated?

I believe that guilty doctors should be prosecuted and that justice be quick in the case of hardened criminals.

Comparisons Show Advantage Of Ferries

May I add some comment on the economies of ferries — and transit. As to the comparison of buses and ferries, the total subsidy cost per passenger trip is — all costs including capital, operations, overhead and depreciation — at the present time, 57 cents per passenger in buses, but only 34 cents in ferries.

As new facilities for the boats and buses are built, costs and ratios may change. On the other hand, so will the cost out of another of our many pockets increase, if the continued bus-ferry system of transit does not relieve us of some spectacularly priced needs for new highway facilities: a new bridge and about 400 lane miles of highway from downtown San Francisco to Sonoma, for instance. Total costs over a not-so-cool billion.

A comparison of the individual commuter's budget can also be made. For example, for a day-by-day commute from San Rafael the annual cost of such transit trips (about 250 each way at 75 cents each) is about $380. This does compare most favorably with the annual cost of owning and operating a second car —for which transit might be substituted. The annual average for a car is about $1,400. Or, the transit cost is still favorable if compared to out-of-pocket car operating costs, plus heavy parking bills in San Francisco for the commute. These would total around $1,000 per year.

As to benefits in clean air, environmental protection, safety —relaxation, as more and more people use transit, these are not easy to calculate, but very obvious to us all. The public understands this, clearly, in the case of ferries. In one year patronage on one boat rose to a rate of 1,200,000 passengers annually, and the percentage of increase in that year was 33 per cent. This is almost startling evidence of public appreciation.

Winding Down In Vietnam: Is It End of The Cold War?

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Much of the recent news has been made by local violence rather than by international violence, all of which tells us something about the state of affairs in these times.

It is no longer the confrontation between Russia and the United States or between the Communist and anti-Communist worlds which causes the tension and the violence, but rather local and regional rivalries, frictions, resentments, and just plain crime.

A REPORT THAT Chinese Premier Chou En-lai visited Hanoi right after President Nixon's return home from China seems to indicate that widespread and serious efforts are now being made to wind up the whole Vietnam business. Apparently all the major powers now seem to think that enough really is enough. The Russians, whom many observers had expected to want to have the fighting continue, are now said to be joining in the general effort to finish it.

Supporting such reports is the fact that there is still no sign of the unleashing of the big offensive for which Hanoi had been preparing for at least six months. It must be a bitter disappointment to the "hawks" in Hanoi to have to abandon their last best chance of a decisive military blow.

The Ides of March are on us now without a really damaging blow having been struck at the South Vietnam army. Within another two weeks the rains will put down a protective curtain in front of that army which will give it another eight months in which to develop its self-reliance.

That extra eight months is what President Nixon in Washington has been playing for all along. The operating theory is that if the Thieu regime and the South Vietnam Army could be nursed into this next rainy season without serious damage they would have an excellent chance of long-term survival.

Well, they just about have it made. Barring a disaster, Vietnamization will probably work, and Mr. Nixon will be able to withdraw most Americans from Vietnam without a Communist take-over afterwards.

And that, if it happens as now seems likely, would put an end to the great ideological wars of the last 20 years.

THE ONLY OTHER international issue of major proportions left over from the "cold war" is the confrontation in the Middle East between Israel and the Arabs, but this issue too is going through change. The current fighting is between Israel and the Palestinian guerrillas, with the Arab governments concerned giving clandestine support to the Israelis. Lebanese troops are occupying guerrilla areas after Israeli troops break up the guerrilla units. Syria no longer gives welcome sanctuary to these units, which are now being ground up between Israelis and Arabs.

The changing nature of both Vietnam and Mideast issues may or may not lead to formal settlements. The Paris talks about Vietnam are still in abeyance. U.N. Ambassador Jarring has yet to get Israelis and Egyptians into the same hotel. There might never be a formal agreement ending the Vietnam War. And it is conceivable that someday the Egyptians might start clearing the Suez Canal without a signed treaty with Israel.

One of the most violent places in the world continues to be Ulster where the issue has nothing to do with old ideological wars, but a great deal to do with local ethnic and religious rivalries and fears.

AND OTHER recent examples of resort to violence were also local —or criminal — not ideological. A bomb blew up the cockpit of an American airliner. Local Maoists kidnaped a Renault factory official in France —to the distress of the Communist-led union which deplored the incident.

Perhaps it is all a phase of a world trying to settle down into new patterns in the wake of the ending of the "cold war." Adjusting to new patterns is never easy.

STROUT IN WASHINGTON

By RICHARD L. STROUT

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Eugene McCarthy was finishing a speech in Waukesha, Wis. Richard Nixon was in his Boeing jet coming back from Milwaukee to New York. Robert Kennedy was in the air, too, heading back from Phoenix, Ariz.

As President Johnson addressed the nation over television he half-raised his right arm in a prearranged signal to Mrs. Johnson — a signal that meant he had decided to read aloud an additional paragraph to his prepared speech. Mrs. Johnson grew tense. The time was 9:35 in Washington, March 31, 1968.

The paragraph ended: "Accordingly I shall not seek, and I will not accept, the nomination of my party for another term as your President."

IT WAS A STATEMENT that was the sensational, but logical, sequel to the New Hampshire primary of 19 days before.

Act I is fairly brutal, consuming time and money to sift, sort, and select presidential nominees. It is a unique American process, primitive but often effective.

Act III is the prize-ring combat of the two partisans — maybe with a third man also in the ring to confuse matters.

In 1968 the New Hampshire primary seemed at first a conventional affair. An incumbent president is supposedly invulnerable. The conventional wisdom was reinforced by a Time poll showing Eugene J. McCarthy doing poorly, with only 11 per cent.

But on March 12 McCarthy actually won 42 per cent of the Democratic vote, to the President's 49 per cent.

President Johnson knew that the next primary was Wisconsin, just two days ahead. He already knew that a Gallup poll the next day would show that Americans who supported his actions had dwindled to 35 per cent and that almost certainly he would be humiliatingly defeated by Senator McCarthy in Wisconsin, April 2. So he added the final paragraph in his speech, one that he had carried around with him for two months.

THE PRIMARY SYSTEM is the slow-growing stepchild of the American presidential selection process. The first convention delegates were chosen this way in Florida in 1904. Oregon, in 1910, had the first genuine presidential preference poll.

This reporter was once invited to lunch by an official of an Iron Curtain country. I went wondering what nuclear secret he was seeking to extricate. But he asked me to explain the American primary system.

After a moment of stunned silence I told him that that was impossible, nobody can explain it.

It is an extraconstitutional device, intended to give the public a greater share in the nominating process.

It differs in every state and often in the parties within the state. The system works but it is enormously inefficient, cumbersome, and expensive. It is badly in need of reform.

THE NUMBER OF STATES with presidential preference primaries has almost doubled in four years. Critics say something has to be done about it — perhaps the introduction of national standards.

The thing that makes it almost impossible to explain is its complexity. Twenty-four states have some form of presidential primary. The others have primaries but not presidential.

In the first category each state is different. In a "closed" primary state only Democrats can vote in a Democratic primary, for example, while in an "open" primary any voter may participate in either party's primary — a Republican in Wisconsin, for example, can cross over and vote for a Democrat.

Some states have a "binding" primary in which delegates are bound to vote on a designated number of ballots for the candidate who wins the state (or congressional district).

The "nonbinding" primary by contrast is a kind of popularity poll, a test run, and delegates are not bound to vote for any candidate no matter who wins.

And just to bewilder the confused reader further, the states differ on who is on the ballot. Most states require the candidate's consent, like Illinois, but Oregon, which really launched the modern system, doesn't require the supposed candidate's consent — the secretary of state just decides who's a candidate, places the name on the ballot, and permits no withdrawal.

It's Not Fault Of Utilities That Those Power Poles Remain

Have you wondered why, after Underground Construction Co. crews spent months putting utility lines into trenches beneath sidewalks in downtown San Rafael, the poles are still there?

The explanation, according to Ely Caillouette, San Rafael city engineer, is simply that it's a slow process getting property owners to run their connection lines underground out to where they can hook onto the services.

Undergrounding of Pacific Gas and Electric Co., Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Co. and city fire alarm system lines will eliminate 32 less-than-decorative poles from Fifth Avenue, Mission Avenue, E Sreet, Tamalpais Avenue and Third Street. It's a big undergrounding job that will do much to improve the appearance of downtown San Rafael.

The utility companies — and the city, for its fire alarm system — pay the cost of putting the lines underground. But each property owner must pay for likewise burying connection lines so they can be hooked onto the new cables for service. That's where the delay is now.

THE JOB ORIGINALLY was to have been finished at the end of 1971. The San Rafael City Council granted a six-month delay when it became obvious that deadline could not be met.

Now, with the new deadline June 30, the pressure is on the property owners. PG&E and PT&T need to have the connecting lines ready about May 15 so that all connections can be made for changeover by June 30. But only about half the property owners involved have completed the work, according to Caillouette.

It is an expensive job, in some cases running to several thousand dollars though in others it may cost only a couple of hundred. Most of the downtown properties are in large ownerships, so that the same owner often has to pay for several connecting lines to serve the buildings from which he collects the rents.

Caillouette noted that the job moves faster in residential areas. Homeowners are more ready to dig into their pockets for the sake of beautification, it appears.

THE LINES ARE THERE under the sidewalks. Little red pyramids guard sidewalk cuts that were left open for connecting the service lines. The utility companies are ready to take the poles down. But if they did so now, a lot of downtown buildings would have no electricity and no telephone service.

"It looks like we'll have to warn the property owners that if they don't get the job done in time, their power will be cut off," Caillouette commented.

THERE'S AN INTERESTING story about the candidacy of Michael Peevey for Marin County supervisor from the Fourth District.

Peevey, an employee of the California State Fderation of Labor, has the backing of some leaders of the Marin Property Owners Association.

As we get the story, the strange political bedfellows thus created didn't find their first association entirely compatible. The property owner representatives wanted to launch Peevey's campaign with a series of advertisements in the Independent-Journal. This was vetoed by Peevey's labor union bosses, still smarting over the 20-month strike against the I-J by the San Francisco Typographical Union.

Wonder if Peevey's present employers are going to call all the shots for his campaign? And if so, how about after he's elected? Or will he represent all the people of the Fourth District — not just those with union "pie cards?"

Have Trouble With Teen-Agers? You Might Try Drowning Plan

WASHINGTON — The question of what to do about teenagers keeps cropping up in every party conversation these days. No matter where you go, parents agree that there is no solution to the problem.

But my friend Drowning has an answer which is at least worth sending up the flagpole.

Drowning told me about his plan the other day.

"I HAVE DISCOVERED," he said, "that when I run into people, they tell me that my 16-year-old, Ronnie, is one of the sweetest kids they ever met. They say he's polite, loquacious and intelligent. I can never believe they are talking about my son, who at home is surly, uncommunicative and a pretty miserable kid all around. At the same time, when I tell them how much I appreciate their children, they all look at me in surprise as if I'm talking about some strangers they have never heard of.

"One day it dawned on me. Everybody thinks the other kid is always better behaved than his own. What makes kids mean and ornery and full of snake venom is living in their own houses with their own parents, whom they consider stupid, narrow-minded and not worth passing the time of day with.

"Now, since every kid feels this way about his parents and every parent feels this way about his kid, I have come up with the Drowning plan."

"WHAT IS IT?" I asked excitedly.

"We work out a swap. When a kid announces he can't stand it at home any more, we swap him with another kid who can't stand it at his home.

"Let me give you an example. Phillip Dutton has had it with his parents. My son, Ronnie, has had it with us. We take Phillip and they take Ronnie. I like Phillip. He's a nice kid. The Duttons, and God help them, think Ronnie is a jewel. So we take Phil and they take Ronnie. The swap gives you two peaceful homes."

"Holy smokes," I said. "You may have something."

"EVERY TIME we tell our 14-year-old daughter, Maria, that she has to be in by 12 o'clock, she cries that Kathy Parrish's daughter, Ellen, doesn't have to be in until 1 o'clock. Ellen has told my wife the reason she likes our house better than hers is because my wife never makes Maria do the dishes.

"Here we have the perfect swap," Drowning said. "We send Maria to the Parrishes, where she can stay out until 1 o'clock and we take Ellen, who will be happy with us because she won't have to do any housework."

"But won't you miss Maria?" I asked.

"Besides, since Maria never speaks to us and Ellen does, we will feel as if we have someone living in our house who is really there.

"The beauty of my plan is that it won't cost anything. We'll make the swap, even-steven, orthodontist work included."

"YOU COULD DO AWAY with so many power struggles," I said dreamily.

"You better believe it. No one ever hassles with somebody else's kids because they don't give a damn about them. If they don't wash their hair, tough luck for them, and if they don't eat breakfast, it's no skin off the adults' bones. Why yell at someone else's kid when it has nothing to do with you?

"By the same token, the kids have no reason to get sore at people who aren't their parents, because if they're not their parents, what do they have to feel persecuted about?"

"Drowning," I said, "I know you didn't think up your plan to get any personal glory out of it, but I suspect that if it works, you may have a good chance to pick up a Nobel peace prize."

Tax Rate Votes Set In Petaluma

Southern Sonomans will go to the polls Tuesday to vote on tax rate increase elections in both the Petaluma Elementary and High School districts.

A total of 19,983 persons are registered to vote in the high school district, which includes a portion of North Marin as well as Petaluma, Rohnert Park and Cotati. The elementary district includes West Petaluma and a small portion of East Petaluma with, 9,872 registered voters.

Polls will be open from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m.

If the election succeeds the elementary district general tax rate would be increased by 88 cents from $1.83 to $2.71 per $100 assessed valuation. The high school district rate would be increased by 68 cents from $1.55 to $2.23 per $100 assessed valuation.

On property with a market value of $25,000, for instance, a landowner taxpayer would pay an additional $55.44 per year in taxes in the elementary district and an additional $42.50 per year in taxes in the high school district.

The last successful tax increase election in the elementary district was held in the spring of 1959 and the high school tax rate has not been increased since the spring of 1964. Successful bond elections were held in 1968 and 1969, but funds are restricted for new buildings and cannot be used for general operation.

School officials have said increased revenue from taxes will be necessary to maintain current educational programs. In an economy move last year, the Petaluma Board of Education reduced the elementary district budget by 5 per cent and the high school district budget by 6 per cent. Reserve funds, normally retained to fund lean months, nearly have been depleted in both districts.

In addition to increased salaries and inflation, state support of education has dropped from 50 per cent to 38 per cent in the districts, officials argue. The board also has reduced the elementary teaching staff, cut bus service in both districts and custodial and grounds staffs and supplies.

The high school district now spends 23 per cent less per pupil than the state average, officials said, putting the district in the bottom 10th in spending among the state's high schools. Spending for elementary students is 20 per cent less than the state average.

If approved, the additional tax funds would be used to restore programs to the level of the 1970-71 school year. Special education teachers who were dismissed would be replaced, as well as psychologists for both districts. A portion also would be used to balance the budgets, maintain the present salary schedule and to offset inflation.

SERVING ALL OF MARIN COUNTY

Turn Back The Page To Complete Record

That was the day the Marin County Board of Supervisors, by 3-to-2 vote, appointed John F. Barrows as county administrator, with a proviso that his appointment would be re-evaluated after six months.

We have never quarreled with the appointment, but the manner in which it was made has troubled us. A screening committee of highly qualified men had been named to winnow the field for county administrator appointment. But it had been kept waiting for a go-ahead from the supervisors that it didn't get. Then, on Aug. 31, the board appointed Barrows.

IN THE DEBATE on that appointment, Supervisor Louis H. Baar (who, with John F. McInnis, voted "no") turned out to be an excellent prophet.

Baar, objecting to a proposal by Supervisors Arnold Baptiste and Peter R. Arrigoni that the board go into closed session to discuss the appointment, said:

"It's my feeling the board needs no executive session. . . The majority's apparently set on hiring now, whether it's any subterfuge of three months or five months or six months."

Supervisor Michael Wornum objected to the "subterfuge" slur, declaring he wanted Barrows to serve until Jan. 1, "then evaluate. . . then go to a screening committee if you wish."

Responded Baar: "Mike, you know as well as I, if the appointment is made until January, it's a foregone conclusion Barrows will keep the job."

That's when Bud Baar qualified for his prophet, seer and revelator's license.

The board voted 3-2 to appoint Barrows, subject to evaluation in six months. The six months will be up March 31.

SOME STRANGE occurences preceded that appointment.

When Alan Bruce resigned as county administrator, the supervisors decided to appoint a screening committee to assist in finding a replacement. Ignazio A. Vella, a Sonoma County supervisor, was named chairman of that committee.

On July 8, the committee met for dinner in Sausalito. All five Marin supervisors attended. A few days later, Baar left on vacation, after first sending Vella a letter approving hiring of a consultant firm to prepare job specifications and assist initial recruiting.

On July 20, the four-member board voted unanimously, without discussion, to hire the consultant, but members denied any decision had been reached at the unannounced committee meeting. Only Baar, reached by telephone while on vacation, said the consultant had been approved July 8.

WHILE BAAR was away and Arrigoni was acting chairman, the board voted to delay hiring the consultant, and had Vella notified to hold up all recruiting.

Then, on Aug. 31, Barrows was appointed.

We mention these matters now, not only because the time for evaluation is here, but also because a campaign is beginning for three seats on the board of supervisors. Baar is not a candidate for re-election. Arrigoni and Wornum are. We assume they are running on their records. So let the record on this matter be complete.

Lawyers Find A Way To Ease Court Clog-Ups

By EARL G. WATERS

Despite the almost annual addition of trial judges to the courts throughout the state, the backlog of cases to be heard grows larger and the lag between filing and trial becomes longer.

While this situation may suit some, particularly those who can profit through investments while they stand off an ultimate judgment, it is not satisfactory to the majority.

It is most unfair to those who have clear cases to recover for injuries caused by someone else. The injured person must stand his hospital and medical bills by borrowing at high interest. The insurance company in the meantime is earning interest on the money it eventually must pay out.

LAWYERS OFTEN pictured as heartless and greedy, have demonstrated this is not an accurate image of their profession. They have done this by initiating arbitration programs in Los Angeles and San Francisco. The programs are now being reviewed by a special committee on trial court delay.

The programs in operation are limited to minor civil suits with awards restricted to a maximum of $7,500. These cases are contributing heavily to the court clogging.

Under the programs both parties to a suit, plaintiff and defendant, agree to arbitration. In doing so they stipulate that the findings will be final. There can be no appeal. By this provision the program not only relieves the trial courts but serves to lighten the loads of the appellate courts, which have also become snowed under.

THE LEGISLATURE has made several attempts to relieve the appeals courts. They have added more departments and added a fourth justice to each. When this didn't do the job they authorized the Judicial Council to appoint pro tem justices from the ranks of the retired and from the trial courts. The latter can work adversely by leaving trial courts short of judges. Studies are now being made to find ways of further relieving the present leads carried by appellate justices.

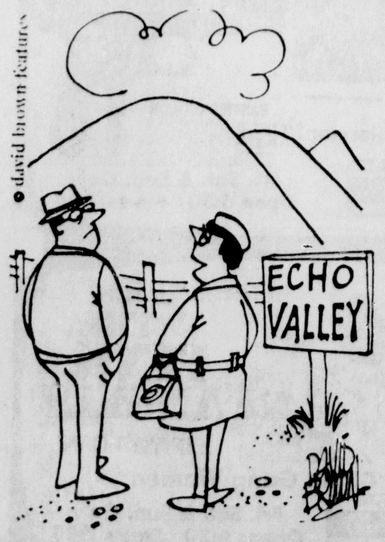

In the arbitration plans now functioning, a panel of more than 100 lawyers is selected from the county bar association. Each is picked on the basis of experience, ableness, fairness and integrity.

An arbitration administrator chosen by the courts draws the name of an arbitrator for each case submitted. There is no jury and an arbitrator cannot be challenged by either party. He may disqualify himself on grounds of conflict or he may plead press of other business. In either case the administrator draws another name. Once having served, the arbitrator is not returned to the drawing box until all on the panel have taken a turn.

THE ARBITRATORS serve without pay. Normal fees for filing suits are charged and no further fees are collected for electing the arbitration plan. Plaintiffs can be awarded costs if their award exceeds $2,500. Defendants are awarded costs if the plaintiff loses.

The plans have only been in operation a few months, too short a time to declare them successful. However, first reports have been most favorable and the plan may well be extended to other counties faced with the same overload problems. The legal profession has distinguished itself in public service by voluntarily providing this service and donating time.

In your statement about Joe Franszek believing "old enough to vote is old enough to govern," I would point out that you might benefit by encouraging youth to work through the system, rather than discouraging and turning them to other methods of change, like bombing buildings (such as yours).

In reading your article I find it quite easy to understand how such things could come about.

Open Area Zoning Urged In West Marin

Do you want to see Northwest Marin remain rural?

Do you believe that the recent scrapping of the semi-urban Tomales Bay plan assures open space along Tomales Bay?

It does not.

But if the board of supervisors adopts and adheres to an open space zoning policy, West Marin ranchers will not be subject to the developmental pressures of high assessments.

Such a policy, a 60-acre per unit zone, is scheduled to come before the board of supervisors on Tuesday, March 21 at 3 p.m. (Call first to check time.)

Appearing before the board to support this zoning is perhaps our last, and surely our best, chance to keep Northwest Marin open.

Errors Detected In Report Of Trial

I'd like to call your attention to an error in fact in the article "2 Convicted In Selling Of Heroin" appearing on page 4 of the March 13 edition of your paper. The error is that the male defendant was not found guilty of two sales of heroin. He was found guilty of one sale to undercover, narcotics agent Garrett McDonald. The male defendant was found not guilty of another sale of heroin to agent McDonald and a paid police informant who was a heroin addict himself.

It seems unfortunate that about 75 per cent of this article focused on testimony of agent McDonald concerning a conversation he supposedly had with defendants a year ago. None of this conversation was recorded by agent McDonald in his report of the incident and was denied by the defendant. Although this was the only article in the March 13 edition that I was familiar enough with the facts to make a judgment about the quality and taste of the reporting . . . it was enough to make me wonder.

Society's Incongruity Shown By Cartoon

Our compliments for the cartoon which appeared in the March 8 issue of the Independent Journal, showing the gates of Death Row on the top section and the doors of an "abortion factory" on the lower, with the title "speaking of processes that degrade and dehumanize." It depicted the incongruity of it all — killing innocent babies without mercy, but delaying the just punishment of hardened criminals until the event of abolishment of the death penalty.

What has happened to our society that it will no longer recognize the rights of the unborn or the innocent threatened citizen. What evidence can be shown that the human embryo is not human at conception or that the hardened criminals of Death Row can be rehabilitated?

I believe that guilty doctors should be prosecuted and that justice be quick in the case of hardened criminals.

Comparisons Show Advantage Of Ferries

May I add some comment on the economies of ferries — and transit. As to the comparison of buses and ferries, the total subsidy cost per passenger trip is — all costs including capital, operations, overhead and depreciation — at the present time, 57 cents per passenger in buses, but only 34 cents in ferries.

As new facilities for the boats and buses are built, costs and ratios may change. On the other hand, so will the cost out of another of our many pockets increase, if the continued bus-ferry system of transit does not relieve us of some spectacularly priced needs for new highway facilities: a new bridge and about 400 lane miles of highway from downtown San Francisco to Sonoma, for instance. Total costs over a not-so-cool billion.

A comparison of the individual commuter's budget can also be made. For example, for a day-by-day commute from San Rafael the annual cost of such transit trips (about 250 each way at 75 cents each) is about $380. This does compare most favorably with the annual cost of owning and operating a second car —for which transit might be substituted. The annual average for a car is about $1,400. Or, the transit cost is still favorable if compared to out-of-pocket car operating costs, plus heavy parking bills in San Francisco for the commute. These would total around $1,000 per year.

As to benefits in clean air, environmental protection, safety —relaxation, as more and more people use transit, these are not easy to calculate, but very obvious to us all. The public understands this, clearly, in the case of ferries. In one year patronage on one boat rose to a rate of 1,200,000 passengers annually, and the percentage of increase in that year was 33 per cent. This is almost startling evidence of public appreciation.

Winding Down In Vietnam: Is It End of The Cold War?

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Much of the recent news has been made by local violence rather than by international violence, all of which tells us something about the state of affairs in these times.

It is no longer the confrontation between Russia and the United States or between the Communist and anti-Communist worlds which causes the tension and the violence, but rather local and regional rivalries, frictions, resentments, and just plain crime.

A REPORT THAT Chinese Premier Chou En-lai visited Hanoi right after President Nixon's return home from China seems to indicate that widespread and serious efforts are now being made to wind up the whole Vietnam business. Apparently all the major powers now seem to think that enough really is enough. The Russians, whom many observers had expected to want to have the fighting continue, are now said to be joining in the general effort to finish it.

Supporting such reports is the fact that there is still no sign of the unleashing of the big offensive for which Hanoi had been preparing for at least six months. It must be a bitter disappointment to the "hawks" in Hanoi to have to abandon their last best chance of a decisive military blow.

The Ides of March are on us now without a really damaging blow having been struck at the South Vietnam army. Within another two weeks the rains will put down a protective curtain in front of that army which will give it another eight months in which to develop its self-reliance.

That extra eight months is what President Nixon in Washington has been playing for all along. The operating theory is that if the Thieu regime and the South Vietnam Army could be nursed into this next rainy season without serious damage they would have an excellent chance of long-term survival.

Well, they just about have it made. Barring a disaster, Vietnamization will probably work, and Mr. Nixon will be able to withdraw most Americans from Vietnam without a Communist take-over afterwards.

And that, if it happens as now seems likely, would put an end to the great ideological wars of the last 20 years.

THE ONLY OTHER international issue of major proportions left over from the "cold war" is the confrontation in the Middle East between Israel and the Arabs, but this issue too is going through change. The current fighting is between Israel and the Palestinian guerrillas, with the Arab governments concerned giving clandestine support to the Israelis. Lebanese troops are occupying guerrilla areas after Israeli troops break up the guerrilla units. Syria no longer gives welcome sanctuary to these units, which are now being ground up between Israelis and Arabs.

The changing nature of both Vietnam and Mideast issues may or may not lead to formal settlements. The Paris talks about Vietnam are still in abeyance. U.N. Ambassador Jarring has yet to get Israelis and Egyptians into the same hotel. There might never be a formal agreement ending the Vietnam War. And it is conceivable that someday the Egyptians might start clearing the Suez Canal without a signed treaty with Israel.

One of the most violent places in the world continues to be Ulster where the issue has nothing to do with old ideological wars, but a great deal to do with local ethnic and religious rivalries and fears.

AND OTHER recent examples of resort to violence were also local —or criminal — not ideological. A bomb blew up the cockpit of an American airliner. Local Maoists kidnaped a Renault factory official in France —to the distress of the Communist-led union which deplored the incident.

Perhaps it is all a phase of a world trying to settle down into new patterns in the wake of the ending of the "cold war." Adjusting to new patterns is never easy.

STROUT IN WASHINGTON

By RICHARD L. STROUT

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Eugene McCarthy was finishing a speech in Waukesha, Wis. Richard Nixon was in his Boeing jet coming back from Milwaukee to New York. Robert Kennedy was in the air, too, heading back from Phoenix, Ariz.

As President Johnson addressed the nation over television he half-raised his right arm in a prearranged signal to Mrs. Johnson — a signal that meant he had decided to read aloud an additional paragraph to his prepared speech. Mrs. Johnson grew tense. The time was 9:35 in Washington, March 31, 1968.

The paragraph ended: "Accordingly I shall not seek, and I will not accept, the nomination of my party for another term as your President."

IT WAS A STATEMENT that was the sensational, but logical, sequel to the New Hampshire primary of 19 days before.

Act I is fairly brutal, consuming time and money to sift, sort, and select presidential nominees. It is a unique American process, primitive but often effective.

Act III is the prize-ring combat of the two partisans — maybe with a third man also in the ring to confuse matters.

In 1968 the New Hampshire primary seemed at first a conventional affair. An incumbent president is supposedly invulnerable. The conventional wisdom was reinforced by a Time poll showing Eugene J. McCarthy doing poorly, with only 11 per cent.

But on March 12 McCarthy actually won 42 per cent of the Democratic vote, to the President's 49 per cent.

President Johnson knew that the next primary was Wisconsin, just two days ahead. He already knew that a Gallup poll the next day would show that Americans who supported his actions had dwindled to 35 per cent and that almost certainly he would be humiliatingly defeated by Senator McCarthy in Wisconsin, April 2. So he added the final paragraph in his speech, one that he had carried around with him for two months.

THE PRIMARY SYSTEM is the slow-growing stepchild of the American presidential selection process. The first convention delegates were chosen this way in Florida in 1904. Oregon, in 1910, had the first genuine presidential preference poll.

This reporter was once invited to lunch by an official of an Iron Curtain country. I went wondering what nuclear secret he was seeking to extricate. But he asked me to explain the American primary system.

After a moment of stunned silence I told him that that was impossible, nobody can explain it.

It is an extraconstitutional device, intended to give the public a greater share in the nominating process.

It differs in every state and often in the parties within the state. The system works but it is enormously inefficient, cumbersome, and expensive. It is badly in need of reform.

THE NUMBER OF STATES with presidential preference primaries has almost doubled in four years. Critics say something has to be done about it — perhaps the introduction of national standards.

The thing that makes it almost impossible to explain is its complexity. Twenty-four states have some form of presidential primary. The others have primaries but not presidential.

In the first category each state is different. In a "closed" primary state only Democrats can vote in a Democratic primary, for example, while in an "open" primary any voter may participate in either party's primary — a Republican in Wisconsin, for example, can cross over and vote for a Democrat.

Some states have a "binding" primary in which delegates are bound to vote on a designated number of ballots for the candidate who wins the state (or congressional district).

The "nonbinding" primary by contrast is a kind of popularity poll, a test run, and delegates are not bound to vote for any candidate no matter who wins.

And just to bewilder the confused reader further, the states differ on who is on the ballot. Most states require the candidate's consent, like Illinois, but Oregon, which really launched the modern system, doesn't require the supposed candidate's consent — the secretary of state just decides who's a candidate, places the name on the ballot, and permits no withdrawal.

It's Not Fault Of Utilities That Those Power Poles Remain

Have you wondered why, after Underground Construction Co. crews spent months putting utility lines into trenches beneath sidewalks in downtown San Rafael, the poles are still there?

The explanation, according to Ely Caillouette, San Rafael city engineer, is simply that it's a slow process getting property owners to run their connection lines underground out to where they can hook onto the services.

Undergrounding of Pacific Gas and Electric Co., Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Co. and city fire alarm system lines will eliminate 32 less-than-decorative poles from Fifth Avenue, Mission Avenue, E Sreet, Tamalpais Avenue and Third Street. It's a big undergrounding job that will do much to improve the appearance of downtown San Rafael.

The utility companies — and the city, for its fire alarm system — pay the cost of putting the lines underground. But each property owner must pay for likewise burying connection lines so they can be hooked onto the new cables for service. That's where the delay is now.

THE JOB ORIGINALLY was to have been finished at the end of 1971. The San Rafael City Council granted a six-month delay when it became obvious that deadline could not be met.

Now, with the new deadline June 30, the pressure is on the property owners. PG&E and PT&T need to have the connecting lines ready about May 15 so that all connections can be made for changeover by June 30. But only about half the property owners involved have completed the work, according to Caillouette.

It is an expensive job, in some cases running to several thousand dollars though in others it may cost only a couple of hundred. Most of the downtown properties are in large ownerships, so that the same owner often has to pay for several connecting lines to serve the buildings from which he collects the rents.

Caillouette noted that the job moves faster in residential areas. Homeowners are more ready to dig into their pockets for the sake of beautification, it appears.

THE LINES ARE THERE under the sidewalks. Little red pyramids guard sidewalk cuts that were left open for connecting the service lines. The utility companies are ready to take the poles down. But if they did so now, a lot of downtown buildings would have no electricity and no telephone service.

"It looks like we'll have to warn the property owners that if they don't get the job done in time, their power will be cut off," Caillouette commented.

THERE'S AN INTERESTING story about the candidacy of Michael Peevey for Marin County supervisor from the Fourth District.

Peevey, an employee of the California State Fderation of Labor, has the backing of some leaders of the Marin Property Owners Association.

As we get the story, the strange political bedfellows thus created didn't find their first association entirely compatible. The property owner representatives wanted to launch Peevey's campaign with a series of advertisements in the Independent-Journal. This was vetoed by Peevey's labor union bosses, still smarting over the 20-month strike against the I-J by the San Francisco Typographical Union.

Wonder if Peevey's present employers are going to call all the shots for his campaign? And if so, how about after he's elected? Or will he represent all the people of the Fourth District — not just those with union "pie cards?"

Have Trouble With Teen-Agers? You Might Try Drowning Plan

WASHINGTON — The question of what to do about teenagers keeps cropping up in every party conversation these days. No matter where you go, parents agree that there is no solution to the problem.

But my friend Drowning has an answer which is at least worth sending up the flagpole.

Drowning told me about his plan the other day.

"I HAVE DISCOVERED," he said, "that when I run into people, they tell me that my 16-year-old, Ronnie, is one of the sweetest kids they ever met. They say he's polite, loquacious and intelligent. I can never believe they are talking about my son, who at home is surly, uncommunicative and a pretty miserable kid all around. At the same time, when I tell them how much I appreciate their children, they all look at me in surprise as if I'm talking about some strangers they have never heard of.

"One day it dawned on me. Everybody thinks the other kid is always better behaved than his own. What makes kids mean and ornery and full of snake venom is living in their own houses with their own parents, whom they consider stupid, narrow-minded and not worth passing the time of day with.

"Now, since every kid feels this way about his parents and every parent feels this way about his kid, I have come up with the Drowning plan."

"WHAT IS IT?" I asked excitedly.

"We work out a swap. When a kid announces he can't stand it at home any more, we swap him with another kid who can't stand it at his home.

"Let me give you an example. Phillip Dutton has had it with his parents. My son, Ronnie, has had it with us. We take Phillip and they take Ronnie. I like Phillip. He's a nice kid. The Duttons, and God help them, think Ronnie is a jewel. So we take Phil and they take Ronnie. The swap gives you two peaceful homes."

"Holy smokes," I said. "You may have something."

"EVERY TIME we tell our 14-year-old daughter, Maria, that she has to be in by 12 o'clock, she cries that Kathy Parrish's daughter, Ellen, doesn't have to be in until 1 o'clock. Ellen has told my wife the reason she likes our house better than hers is because my wife never makes Maria do the dishes.

"Here we have the perfect swap," Drowning said. "We send Maria to the Parrishes, where she can stay out until 1 o'clock and we take Ellen, who will be happy with us because she won't have to do any housework."

"But won't you miss Maria?" I asked.

"Besides, since Maria never speaks to us and Ellen does, we will feel as if we have someone living in our house who is really there.

"The beauty of my plan is that it won't cost anything. We'll make the swap, even-steven, orthodontist work included."

"YOU COULD DO AWAY with so many power struggles," I said dreamily.

"You better believe it. No one ever hassles with somebody else's kids because they don't give a damn about them. If they don't wash their hair, tough luck for them, and if they don't eat breakfast, it's no skin off the adults' bones. Why yell at someone else's kid when it has nothing to do with you?

"By the same token, the kids have no reason to get sore at people who aren't their parents, because if they're not their parents, what do they have to feel persecuted about?"

"Drowning," I said, "I know you didn't think up your plan to get any personal glory out of it, but I suspect that if it works, you may have a good chance to pick up a Nobel peace prize."

Tax Rate Votes Set In Petaluma

Southern Sonomans will go to the polls Tuesday to vote on tax rate increase elections in both the Petaluma Elementary and High School districts.

A total of 19,983 persons are registered to vote in the high school district, which includes a portion of North Marin as well as Petaluma, Rohnert Park and Cotati. The elementary district includes West Petaluma and a small portion of East Petaluma with, 9,872 registered voters.

Polls will be open from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m.

If the election succeeds the elementary district general tax rate would be increased by 88 cents from $1.83 to $2.71 per $100 assessed valuation. The high school district rate would be increased by 68 cents from $1.55 to $2.23 per $100 assessed valuation.

On property with a market value of $25,000, for instance, a landowner taxpayer would pay an additional $55.44 per year in taxes in the elementary district and an additional $42.50 per year in taxes in the high school district.

The last successful tax increase election in the elementary district was held in the spring of 1959 and the high school tax rate has not been increased since the spring of 1964. Successful bond elections were held in 1968 and 1969, but funds are restricted for new buildings and cannot be used for general operation.

School officials have said increased revenue from taxes will be necessary to maintain current educational programs. In an economy move last year, the Petaluma Board of Education reduced the elementary district budget by 5 per cent and the high school district budget by 6 per cent. Reserve funds, normally retained to fund lean months, nearly have been depleted in both districts.

In addition to increased salaries and inflation, state support of education has dropped from 50 per cent to 38 per cent in the districts, officials argue. The board also has reduced the elementary teaching staff, cut bus service in both districts and custodial and grounds staffs and supplies.

The high school district now spends 23 per cent less per pupil than the state average, officials said, putting the district in the bottom 10th in spending among the state's high schools. Spending for elementary students is 20 per cent less than the state average.

If approved, the additional tax funds would be used to restore programs to the level of the 1970-71 school year. Special education teachers who were dismissed would be replaced, as well as psychologists for both districts. A portion also would be used to balance the budgets, maintain the present salary schedule and to offset inflation.

Candidates' Night Set In Fairfax

Eight candidates for Fairfax City Council and three for the post of Fairfax city treasurer will appear at a candidates night at 8 p.m. Wednesday at Manor School.

A question-and-answer period will follow five-minute presentations by each of the council candidates. The candidates are Randall L. Garrison, Albert E. Gately, Harold S. Lebzeni, Joseph E. Martinez, Glenn B. Meagher, Urban M. Nielsen, E. Ross Parkerson and Adelaide P. Wilson.

A ninth candidate, Edward T. Duncan, withdrew from the race last week.

Candidates for city treasurer — incumbent Harold H. Taft, Ben F. Courtz and Priscilla C. Gray — also will be on the program, sponsored by the League of Women Voters of Central Marin.

City Clerk Eileen L. Foster, unopposed in her bid for election to the post to which she was appointed, will attend the candidates night, but will not be on the program.

Russian River Plan Rejected

The Army Corps of Engineers has rejected a request to study the possibility of opening the mouth of the Russian River permanently.

In a letter to the Sonoma County Board of Supervisors, Col. Charles Roberts, district engineer, said the study was unwarranted because prior studies done in 1963 and 1970 had shown the cost would run as high as $41 milllion.

Residents along the river had requested the study in the hope of providing for better fishing, boating and general recreation at the river mouth.

Couple Injured In Shoreline Accident

A Santa Cruz couple was injured about 10:30 p.m. when their car rolled over on Shoreline Highway, North of the California Avenue overcrossing, according to the California Highway Patrol.

Benjamin J., 34, and Teresa Lawson, 25, were treated at Marin General Hospital — he for cuts and a bruised nose and she for bruises and back strain.

Candidate Night For 11 Sausalito Seat Hopefuls

Eleven candidates who will compete for three Sausalito city council seats in the April 11 election will discuss the issues at a candidate night at 7:45 p.m. nest Thursday in Central School's auditorium.

The event is sponsored by the Sausalito Citizens Council. Council president Alan Conner will moderate.

In addition to questions from the audience, candidates will be asked their views on the controversial park plaza plan and on location of the Golden Gate Bridge District's proposed ferry terminal.

Contenders also will be asked whether they support enforcement and updating of city zoning and building codes, if they would put the public interest ahead of private gain in planning and zoning matters and if the city should buy Central School for a new city hall.

The council seats of Robin Sweeny, Wyman Hicks and Mayor Alexander R. Imlay are up for election. Hicks and Imlay will not seek another term, but Mrs. Sweeny is a candidate.

Other contenders are Sally Stanford, Robert D. Bauerle, Leonard Rappa, Serge Trubach, Helen K. Armstrong, Peter D. Bowen, Howard Chadd, Evert H. Heynneman, Robert C. Martin Sr. and W. Daniel O'Connor.

Proposed Park Plans Displayed

A group supporting creating of a Golden Gate National Recreation Area has set up a display of the proposed park at the Corte Madera Regional Library.

The display, which will un through March, includes maps and about 75 photographs — many of Marin County — of the proposed preserve area.

Library hours are 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. Mondays through Thursdays and 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. Fridays and Saturdays.

Nolan Guests

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) —Oldtimer Lloyd Nolan will play a guest star role in the episode of television's "Owen Marshall, Counselor at Law."

Caen Will Face Women's Champ In Pool Benefit

San Francisco newspaper columnist Herb Caen will cross cue sticks with Dorothy Wise, U.S. women's billiard champion, in a series of matches at 8 p.m. Saturday in the Redwood High School gymnasium.

The competition is part of a benefit for Horizon House, a live-in facility still in the planning stages where boys with unsuitable homes and emotional problems would be provided care, guidance, protection and love, according to its founder, Vernon F. Black.

Black said music will be performed during intermission by groups and individuals from the San Francisco Conservatory of Music and by San Francisco street concert musicians. Refreshments will be served.

Tickets are available at Karl Milliken Ceramics, 691 Bridgeway, Sausalito; the Horizon House office, 117 La Verne Avenue, Homestead Valley, or The Dandelion, 3381 Sacramento Street, San Francisco.

ACUPUNCTURE

Willie Mac Treatment

PHOENIX (UPI)—Willie McCovey's ailing right hip was treated Wednesday night by an Oriental doctor using long thin acupuncture needles and if the slugger responds favorably the treatment may be given to other members of the San Francisco Giants.

McCovey, who receives an estimated $125,000 annually, underwent the acupuncture treatment after approval by Giants' president Horace Stoneham.

A spokesman said the therapy was performed by Dr. Akira Kawaharada, physician for the Lotte Orions of the Japanese Baseball League, who currently are training in Arizona with the Giants.

The centuries-old practice of inserting slender needles in key areas of the body to relieve pains and aches has been perfected by the Chinese, but only recently gained serious attention in the western world.

Two other members of the Giants reportedly were treated with acupuncture earlier. They were Sam McDowell and Chris Speier and both said the therapy helped them.

Sports

Independent-Journal, 21
Thursday, March 16, 1972

The Milwaukee Brewers pounded 15 hits Wednesday at Phoenix in a 9-4 romp over the Giants.

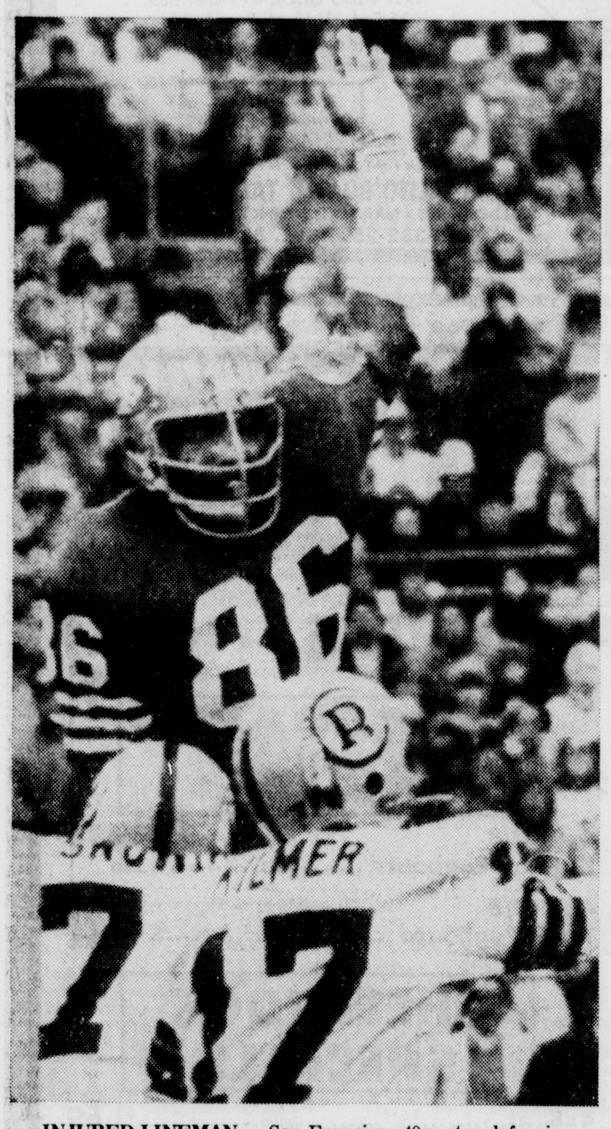

Former Cy Young award winner Mike mcCormick, trying to make a comeback at 33, struck out three and walked three while yielding four hits and two runs in three innings.

McCormick said he was not discouraged but admitted he was "disappointed."

Giant manager Charlie Fox added:

PALO ALTO, Calif. (UPI)—Knee surgery was performed Wednesday night on San Francisco 49er defensive end Cedrick Hardman and officials said he would be lost to the National Football League at least until next fall.

Dr. Lloyd Milburn, team physician, said Hardman would be hospitalized two weeks and require rehabilitation for six months—the duration of training camp and pre-season games scheduled for the 49ers.

Hardman was the 49ers' first draft choice in 1970. He was credited with sacking the quarterback 19 times in his rookie year and 21 more times last season. He was named to the Pro Bowl.

"Cedrick is young and has that going for him, but we don't expect him to be ready until September," said a glum coach Dick Nolan.

Pittsburgh '9' Sells Martinez To Kansas City

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI)—The Kansas City Royals announced today they have purchased infielder Jose Martinez from the Pittsburgh Pirates in a straight cash deal.

Martine spent most of the 1969 season with Pittsburgh, but has been in the club's minor league operation since. He will report to the Royals' camp at Fort Myers, Fla., and then be assigned to the roster at Omaha, Neb.

Marin 'Cats Shut Out Napa, 5-0

Marin Catholic High School's Wildcats yesterday improved their non-league baseball win-loss mlark to a sharp 6-1 with a 5-0 shutout of Napa High in Greenbrae.

In other non-league diamond action involving Marin County Athletic League teams, Terra Linda defeated Montgomery of Santa Rosa, 7-5, on the losers' field; Drake nipped Washington of San Francisco, 7-6, in extra innings in San Anselmo; San Marin dropped a toughie to Riordan in San Francisco, 7-6, and San Rafael was bombed by Petaluma, 10-3, at Albert Park.

WILDCATS

It was the third consecutive shutout for Marin 'Cats, whose pitchers had combined for a miniscule .084 ERA entering yesterday's game. The batsmen blasted 10 hits for the Wildcats, keeping the team batting average above .300.

DEFENSE

Napa's first batter of the game got the only hit, a solid smash up the middle. Although Simmons and Petray walked seven between them, no damage was done under protection of the Wildcat defense.

Steve Sherry and Chuck Lauderback each got two hits, Sherry picking up a two-run double in the third inning. Marin Catholic, favorite to win the MCAL crown again this year, turned both Napa errors into runs in the third and fifth.

Mark Mueller went the distance for Terra Linda, walking only a single man but yielding nine hits. Brian Wall helped him with a double and single. Wall also had two RBI's. Terra Linda picked up three in the 7th to clinch it. The winning rally was keyed by singles from Guy Rodriguez and Lee Peterson, as Terra Linda improved its non-league mark to 3-4.

TONIGHT

UCLA, Weber Meet

PROVO, Utah (UPI)—UCLA opens defense of its national title tonight in the National Collegiate Athletic Association Western Regional Basketball Championships against Weber State College—a team no one expected to be here.

Weber faces UCLA in the first of two basketball games in Brigham Young University's mammoth J. Willard Merriott Activities Center and Long Beach State battles University of San Francisco in the night-cap.

WILDCATS

The Wildcats from Ogden, Utah, are in the battle for the national pot of gold after drubbing the Hawaii Rainbows, 91-64, in an unexpected upset in the Far West Regionals last weekend in Pocatello, Idaho.

The 23,000 seat, three-acre BYU basketball facility is sold out for the opening games and Saturday's finals. Most of the fans will be backing the underdogs — Weber because they're home folks, and San Francisco due to Long Beach State's win over BYU, 95-90, in the Far West tournament.

GOOD PRACTICE

UCLA coach John Wooden said his Bruins had a good practice Wednesday. "We looked quite good, Wooden said, "considering the plane trip and final examinations this week."

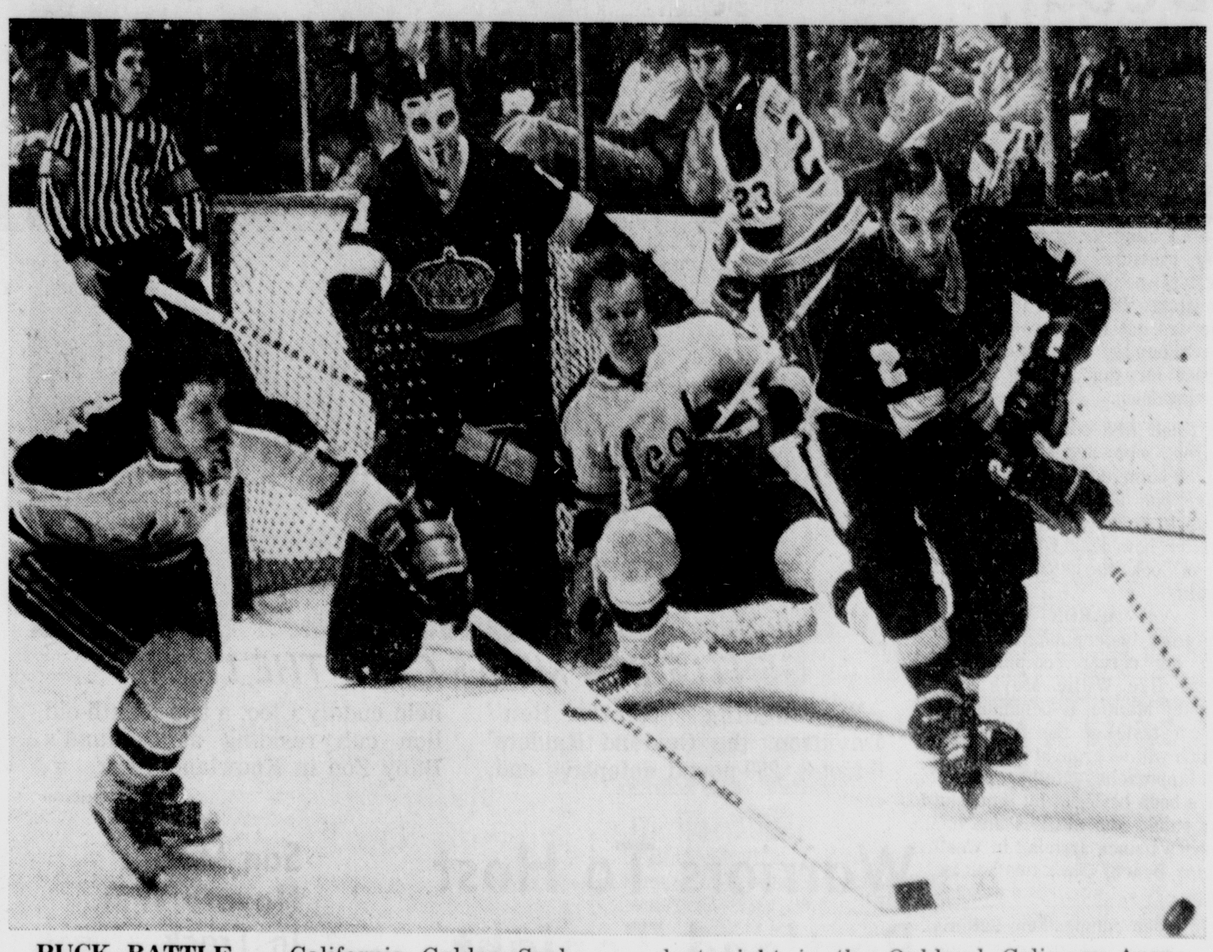

The second game features a matchup between two of the nation's tallest teams with Long Beach having the edge averaging 6-7 per man to San Francisco's 6-6.

GAILLARD

Following drills Dons' coach Bob Gaillard said he is anxious to play the 49ers. "We're looking forward to a tight game. We think we may have the advantage on the backboards."

"The boys seemed to jell as a team from mid-season on. Both teams work for percentage shots and if anybody gets hot the momentum can swing pretty fast."

Golden Seals Regain Fourth Spot

California Rally Tops Kings, 5-2

OAKLAND (UPI) —The California Golden Seals grabbed three goals in the final period over cellar lodged Los Angeles to earn a 5-2 win and fourth place in the National Hockey League western division.

The Seals, hopeful of obtaining a playoff berth, host third-place St. Louis in a crucial match Friday while the Kings take on powerful Boston Thursday in Los Angeles.

Boston leads the NHL east division with a 49-10-10 record. Los Angeles is 18-46-7.

Paul Shymr, Gary Croteau and Craig Patrick sent Kings' goalie Gary Edwards fishing three times in the final period to snap a 2-2 tie and bolster the Seals' playoff hopes.

Coaches Select Redwood

By LEW CODDINGTON

In the opinion of the various Marin County Athletic League track and field coaches, the teams this year fall into two different groups according to skill. The first group consists of Redwood High School. The second consists of everybody else.

With outstanding strength in the distance runs and field events, Redwood is expected to literally run away with the championship. Most other coaches expect their teams to be "in the middle of the pack."

The league season opens tomorrow, with Terra Linda at Tamalpais, Novato at San Rafael, Redwood at Marin Catholic and San Marin ao Drake, all at 3:30 p.m.

After a year's sabbatical in the Phillipines, coach Doug Basham returned to Redwood last fall and immediately guided his cross-country team to the championship. He is expected to bring order after a 1971 season marked by turbulence, including the now-famous hair controversy in which players were dismissed from the team because of the length of their locks, and a revolving door through which four coaches passed.

Besides Basham, who isn't really new to the scene, the only coach to take over this year is Clyde Krusinski at Tamalpais, who replaced Bruce Grant.

In shorter distance events, Redwood can count on Mike Sweeney and Ken Bentson, who currently are running in the low fifties in the quarter-mile and just a bit over two minutes in the half. In the mile, cross-country stars Jan-Eric Moller and Mike Killeen will have to save their reputations from the challenge of Ned Overend, who has a 4:38 to his credit this year. In the two-mile, Pete Sweeney and sophomore Kevin Glasner are expected to go under 10 minutes fairly soon.

Redwood boasts similar power in the field events, as senior Steve McGee and sophomore Darrell Elder both have 50-foot capability in the shot put. Elder also had the best discus throw in the recent MCAL Relays, 145 feet.

Tom Malvino was the best high-jumper and long-jumper in the MCAL Relays with performances of 6-foot-3 and 21-4, respectively. Redwood has three 12-foot pole vaulters in Kip Kermoian, Neil Kreuzberger and Mark Asiano.

Redwood is said to be vulnerable in the sprints, but that's like saying Sherman didn't have much of a navy when he marched through Georgia.

Terra Linda has an exceptional triple threat in junior Mark Lowey in the triple jump, high jump and high hurdles. He has done 42 feet in the triple jump and 6-3 in the high jump. Another star is Bruce Kassab, "who by the end of the year

BOMB SCARE HITS MC ELHENNY DINNER

SEATTLE (UPI) —A testimonial banquet for former University of Washington and pro running back Hugh McElhenny was temporarily interrupted Wednesday night by a bomb scare.

Frankie Albert, John Brodie, Y.A. Tittle and Don Heinrich, quarterbacks billed as the men who helped McElhenny to collegiate and pro greatness, paid tribute to McElhenny.

McElhenny recently moved to the Seattle area from San Francisco to work for the Seattle Kings organization, a group trying to obtain a pro franchise for the city.

Brooks, 3 Others Homer In A's Win

MESA, Ariz. (UPI)—The Oakland A's may have a problem or two, but finding good outfielders isn't one of them.

With Reggie Jackson solid in right field, there is a wide open scramble by a bunch of more than capable candidates for the other two starting jobs.

Baseball Game At Albert Park

Terra Linda High School's baseball game with Santa Rosa High, originally scheduled to be played tomorrow in Santa Rosa, will be played instead at Albert Park in San Rafael, Terra Linda coach Keith Fraser announced today.

Game time for the varsity will be 7:30 p.m. tomorrow. A junior varsity game will precede the varsity clash at 5 p.m.

Bobby Brooks, a nonroster outfielder trying to stick with the varsity, crashed two homers and a single Wednesday as the A's rolled to a 12-1 win over California at Mesa to run their spring record to 3-4.

But Joe Rudi, Greg Schubert and Brant Alyea also belted fourmasters and they can play outfield, too. So can Angel Mangual, who contributed a run-scoring pinchhit.

Diego Segui, Daryl Patterson, Darold Knowles and Rollie Fingers combined on a 5-hitter in perhaps the A's sharpest effort of the spring. The A's meet San Diego here today.

Players Honor Jabbar

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — Kareem Abdul-Jabbar of the Milwaukee Bucks has been selected the player of the year in the National Basketball Association by other players, the Sporting News announced Wednesday.

Jabbar headed the top five on the NBA All-Star team selected for the national sports weekly by players from all the teams. He beat out Wilt Chamberlain of the Los Angeles Lakers for the center spot on the first team. Chamberlain was also runner-up as player of the year, however.

In addition to Chamberlain at center, the second team members were Bob Love of the Chicago Bulls and Dave Debusschere of the Knicks at forwards, and Oscar Robertson of the Bucks and Archie Clark of the Baltimore Bullets at guards.

Rookie of the year honors went to Sidney Wicks of the Portland Trail Blazers.

Aaron In Debut; Atlanta Beaten

By U.P.INTERNATIONAL

Hank Aaron made his spring debut for the Atlanta Braves Wednesday and let it be known in his quiet way that he is physically and mentally ready for the ordeal that is ahead as he closes in on Babe Ruth's alltime career mark of 714 home runs.

Aaron, who will start the 1972 season needing 75 homers to surpass Ruth's career total, singled, grounded out and was called out on strikes in the Braves' 40 loss to the Houston Astros. Aaron, 38, looked as sharp as he did last season when he batted .327 with 47 homers and 118 runs batted in.

"No doubt I'll start feeling the pressure as I get closer and closer to Ruth's record," said Aaron after the game. "But I like pressure. I seem to play better when there's something at stake. It's times like when we are out of the race and I have nothing in particular to shoot for that I find myself letting down.

"I felt fine out there," said Aaron, who added the knee which bothered him last season gave him no trouble. "It felt good to be back out there. No matter how long I play, I always look to getting started again."

AARON

Aaron, underpublicized during his career compared to stars like Willie Mays and Mickey Mantle, is beginning to get a taste of the pressures which will be brought on him as he approaches Ruth's mark. He's been besieged by requests for public appearances and interviews since arriving in West Palm Beach, Fla., two weeks ago.

In other camps: Don Sutton, who went five innings, and Claude Osteen combined on a five-hitter as the Los Angeles Dodgers beat the Montreal Expos, 5-0. Dodger pitching has allowed one run in the last three games ... Gaylord Perry, acquired during the winter in the trade that sent Sam McDowell to San Francisco, pitched six shutout innings in the Cleveland Indians' 8-2 win over the San Diego Padres.

Paul Blair singled in the decisive run in the ninth inning as the Baltimore Orioles defeated the Cincinnati Reds 4-3 despite two homers and three runs batted in by Johnny Bench ... The Chicago Cubs routed the Tokyo Orions, 11-2, after being held hitless for 5 1-3 innings by 38-year-old Masaaka Koyama ... Homers by Aurelio Rodriguez and Norm Cash led the Detroit Tigers to a 6-2 victory over the Kansas City Royals.

HOMER

Catcher Carlton Fisk hit a two-run homer in the eighth inning to give the Boston Red Sox a 2-0 triumph over the St. Louis Cardinals. Rick Wise, obtained by the Cardinals for Steve Carlton, allowed one hit and one walk in five innings ... The Philadelphia Phillies scored five runs off Joe Horlen in the fifth and sixth innings to whip the Chicago White Sox, 8-6 ... Consecutive hits by Tim Foli, Jerry Koosman, Ken Singleton, Ken Boswell and Mike Jorgenson paced a five-run seventh inning which enabled the New York Mets to beat the Pittsburgh Pirates, 9-4.

Thomas Silence Supported

DALLAS (UPI)—Dallas Cowboy Coach Tom Landry says his star running back Duane Thomas may retain his sphinx-like silence as long as he wants to—at least as long as it doesn't distract the team.

"The trouble is no one knows where he stands," Landry said Wednesday. "He has a great winning attitude and he does a great job of concentrating and preparing for a game, but there's a little bit more to football than that.

Thomas broke his public silence two weeks ago in an interview in which he said his wish to remain as silent as possible was merely his attempt to lead his own life as he wants to lead it. During the same interview, he said he held no animosity for Landry and wanted to play football.

"I think I understand what he's trying to do," Landry said. "I believe him. That's why I've gone along with him this far."

The Cowboy coach said hd did not care if Thomas talked in public or not as "long as his teammates understand him. This is a team sport and to work as a team, everyone must be together."

St. Mary's Shuts Out Sonoma '9'

The Sonoma State College baseball team yesterday lost its 13th straight game this season, getting 6-0 on four hits by St. Mary's College in Moraga.

St. Mary's got the only run it needed in the bottom of the first inning on a lead-off walk, a stolen base, a wild pitch and a run-scorings single by Bill Peters. The Gaels added insurance runs in the fifth on a two-run double by Jerry Koogman, who went three for three. Leading Cossack batter Mark Newsom, hitting at a .393 clip, led Sonoma State with two hits in four tries.

Warriors To Host Portland Tonight

OAKLAND (UPI) —The Golden State Warriors have seven games left in 10 days and each is crucial if they hope to be part of the National Basketball Association playoffs.

The Warriors, lodged in second place of the NBA Pacific Division host last place Portland tonight at the Oakland arena.

Portland has only 16 victories on the season, but one of those came at the expense of Golden State and Warriors coach Al Attles isn't about to look past the Trail Blazers.

"They've got some very capable guys," said Attles, "and since they beat us once, we'd better not take this thing too lightly." Golden State comes to the Portland contest after two straight losses on the road and needs the win to get its momentum back.

Chief among worries for Golden State will be UCLA grad Sidney Wicks, who is averaging 24.7 points a game— tied for 10th best in the NBA.

Gambling Extension Opposed

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI)—Baseball commissioner Bowie Kuhn says extension of legalized gambling beyond the boundries of Nevada would be undesirable and dangerous to sports in the United States.

Kuhn made his comments Wednesday at a seminar of the midwinter conference of the National District Attorney's Association here.

He said the strong opposition of his office to legalized gambling was wholeheartedly shared by the men who run pro football, basketball and ice hockey.

"Recognizing the problems attendant to protecting the integrity of professional sports," Kuhn said, "We are unified in our complete opposition to tme extension of legalized gambling in this country.

"If you have widespread public gambling, it will follow as the night the day that claims will be made that this player or that player was in tme tank And you can be sure attempts to get inside information and attempts to fix players and officials will multiply enormously and pose tremendous security problems."

New Orleans Signs Coleman, Bob Morris

NEW ORLEANS (UPI)—Fourth-round draft choice Mike Coleman and free agent Bob Morris have signed National Football League contracts with the New Orleans Saints.

Coleman, a 6-foot-6, 271-pound defensive end from Knoxville College, signed Wednesday. He is a Chicago native described by Saints' scouts as having "good balance, speed and body control and fine lateral movement." Morris, a 6-foot-5, 224-5-pound center from A Morris, a 6-foot-5, 245-pound center from Anderson, Ind., played at Duke and was drafted 10th by Houston in 1970. The Oilers released Morris last year and he played for a year for semi-professional Roanoke.

Larry Butti won three events for San Marin High School yesterday to star in a three-way track and field meet between the Mustangs of Novato and Rancho Cotate of Rohnert Park, Calistoga and St. Vincent's of Petaluma. The meet was held in Rohnert Park.

Butti won both sprints, the 100-yard dash in 10.9 and the 220 in 23.8, and won the high jump, 5-foot-6.

In another meet, Novato High School's varsity track-field team defeated St. Helena, 72-63 but the Novato Class B team lost, 74-62. Individual results were not made available, according to Novato coach Bob Patterson.

Owners-Players Showdown Sought By Cards' Busch

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. — August A. Busch, Jr., president of the St. Louis Cardinals, made it plain that he feels the time has come for major league clubowners to have a showdown with the major league Players Association.

"I don't give a damn if they strike," said Busch when asked to comment on the players' threat to walk out if baseball doesn't provide more money for the health benefits of the players pension plan after the current three-year contract expires on March 31.

"I can't speak for other clubs, but, frankly, I wouldn't give a damn if the players went out," said Busch, 72-year-old board chairman of Anheuser-Busch. "I'd vote to let them take a walk."

"I appreciate this could be a considerable blow to other ball clubs who don't have our corporate structure," said Busch, estimating that a strike could cost the Cardinals $1.5 million. "But I'm afraid that with the constantly increasing player demands, plus the attempt to rule out the reserve clause, it's getting impossible to operate reasonably."

Boxing

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. — Fort Worth, Texas, will go after its third consecutive team title when the 45th National Golden Gloves Tournament opens here tonight and Fort Worth's lightweight James "Bubba" Busceme will try for his fourth crown in a row.

A field of 320 young boxers from 32 teams across the United States, including four from Hamilton Air Force Base in Novato, will trade blows in a total of 200 bouts tonight and Friday night, with three rings in use simultaneously.

The four Marinites are: Nick Wells, a Fort Worth heavyweight; Jerry Otis, 165, of Bremerton, Wash.; Jesse Valdez, 145, of Houston; and Steve Dement, 132, Bosser City, La.

Survivors will battle through the quarter-finals and semifinals Saturday afternoon and night. Those who make it through those bouts will fight for the championships in the 10 weight classes Monday night.

Busceme, a Lamar Tech sophomore, won national featherweight honors as a member of the Fort Worth team in 1969 and 1970 and this weekend he'll be out after his second consecutive lightweight crown. He's had chances to turn pro but his first goal is to box in the Olympics.

Football

HOUSTON — Former coach Ed Hughes of the Houston Oilers said yesterday he had reached a satisfactory agreement with the Oilers over the final four years of his disputed contract.

The settlement was worked out in a three-hour meeting with Hughes' attorney and Oiler owner K. S. Adams and his staff with Commissioner Pete Rozelle in New York Tuesday. The amount was not disclosed, but it was believed Hughes received his full Oiler salary less the $600 a month he makes now in a dump truck trailer factory.

DALLAS — Without fanfare, Dallas Cowboy quarterback Roger Staubach signed a three-year contract for an undisclosed salary.

Staubach, who led the Cowboys to their first world championship last season, was reported to have received a moderate raise.

Horse Racing

NEW YORK — The strike by parimutuel clerks at Aqueduct Racetrack went into its 20th day today as a state lawmaker accused the New York State Racing Association of making the clerks the "scapegoat" in its dispute with the city's off-track betting corp.

Assemblyman John T. Flack, R-Queens, said yesterday he intended to ask Controller Arthur Levitt to investigate

"New York state is losing about $300,000 a day in parimutuel revenues because of the shutdown at Aqueduct," Flack said.

MIAMI — A circuit court jury awarded Manuel Ycaza $225,000 yesterday on the jockey's claim that the poor condition of the turf course at Hialeah Race Track was the cause of leg injuries suffered two years ago.

The jury deliberated for five hours before ruling that Hialeah had failed to safely maintain its grass track.

The 34-year-old jockey said he suffered leg injuries Jan. 30 that cost him several months of riding when he fell from his mount, Put Me On.

McDowell Paid For His Mistake

PHOENIX — Sam McDowell probably will never miss another practice as long as he is with the Giants. The 6-foot-6 southpaw paid dearly for missing last Thursday's workout. Charlie Fox didn't tap McDowell's pocketbook in the way most managers discipline ball players who are AWOL. Fox punished McDowell in a manner McDowell will remember as long as he lives.

When McDowell showed up at the ball park following his 24-hour absence, he found a note thumb-tacked to his locker. It read: "See me immediately. Fox."

WHAT DID FOX tell McDowell?

"All I really told Sam was a little bit about our rules," said Fox. "I told him 'you crawl to the ball park if you're sick.' Then we'll have a doctor look at you and send you home if necessary. I have a forgiving nature — until my neck gets a little thick."

After that talk with Sudden Sam, Fox gave McDowell a baseball and said: "Go out there and work it off — it will do you good."

McDowell did as he was told. He went to the mound to face the Cubs. It was a blistering day, 97 by the officially shaded thermometer. It must have been 107 on the open mound. And McDowell looked like he should have been in bed instead of on the mound.

BUT FOX LEFT him out there with his miseries through a sweaty and humiliating first inning during which the Cubs kept running around the bases when they weren't walking. McDowell walked five of them. Five others whacked him for hits, including a grand slam homer by Jose Cardenal. Finally, McDowell got the side out after eight runs had scored.

However, Fox wasn't quite ready yet to dismiss McDowell. He sent the southpaw to the mound again in the second inning. This time he retired the Cubs with only one hit. Fox then permitted McDowell to retire to the shade of the clubhouse.

SUDDEN SAM was a sorry looking fellow as he lay on the training table of Doc Hughes. He seemed grateful that Fox hadn't ordered him to run the customary cooling-out sprints that pitchers usually run in the outfield following spring exhibition appearances.

To his credit, McDowell didn't whine about the heat treatment to which he was subjected by Fox. He did allow that he was "as dizzy as a (bleep) out there," trying to find the plate.

THUS ENDED McDowell's debut with the Giants, a memorable one because of the circumstances surrounding it if for no other reason.

The Cleveland Indians had tried to persuade the Giants to save McDowell's debut until the two teams met last weekend in Tucson. The Indians wanted to match Gaylord Perry against McDowell. Perry is the fellow the Giants traded with Frank Duffy to the Indians last winter for McDowell.

a thrilling play at the plate following a sacrifice fly to center by Ken Zepponi in the second extra inning. Billings, who went all the way on the mound for the Pirates, got the winning run but also sustained a hand injury that was to be X-rayed last night, according to coach Dick Creighton.

In addition to his game-winning fly, Zepponi bashed a long bases empty home run. The Pirates, however, made two errors and gave away two bases on balls in a sloppy seventh inning that saw Washington grab five runs to send the game into extra innings. Dan Howard had two hits for the Pirates.

SAN MARIN

San Marin put together a gutty rally in the top of the seventh to move ahead by two runs, only to see four last-minute hits by Riordan snatch victory away.

San Rafael's Jim Munroe was tagged for nine hits as the Bulldogs dropped to 0-4 in non-league play. Dirk Gansloser and Mike Fraris each had base hits to score runners, but San Rafael could only manage two other base knocks in an inauspicious offensive showing.

will be the best quarter-miler in the league," in Amsden's words.

Dan Skeen is a leading weight man who has put the shot 52-3½, but the Trojans lack depth after these quality people. "We've had the smallest turnout here in six years," said Amsden, and his plight is not unique.

San Rafael had some trouble getting its top performers out, but should be ready for the start of the league season, according to coach Gay Quandt. Dash man Jim Griff is an exceptional performer, as are distance runner Fletcher Lesley and high-jumper Mark Farrar. Graham Wright will help in the dashes and John lechner in the middle-distance races.

Defending champion Tamalpais was struck first with graduation and then a stunning parade of misfortune. A weight man transferred to Novato and a hurdler transferred to San Rafael. A half-miler went to Africa with his father and a hurdler moved to Australia. On top of that, five different performers broke one bone or another.

As a result, Tam now consists of Greg Biber, who does the hurdles and long jump, and several promising underclassmen whose names are less a household word than Spiro Agnew. Tam has only four seniors on the team.

Novato's most notable performer, mildr Dan Hutton, was injured in a skiing accident and may not return this season. Hornet coach Bob Patterson will look for points from sprinters Joe Powell and Gary Allison, discus thrower Jerry Lammers, and the competent 440-yard relay team. Powell and Allison also long jump and triple jump.

San Marin will be led by distance man Gary Lathrop, who set the Class B 880 record last year. Dan Turek is a leading miler with a 4:38 last week. Other good performers for coach Jim van der Beets' team include quarter-miler Ron Zechlin, triple-jumper and quarter-miler Bob Briot, long-jumper and quarter-miler Randy Colver and shot-putter Steve Fowler.

Drake has a shot-putter with a 50-foot capability, Tom Perry, and a top discus thrower in Steve Urban, who did 138 last year. With Sil Cervatis up from the Bs, coach Morrie Shepherd's Pirates will do well in the weights. Beyond that, points will come hard, with the chief contributors likely to be sprinter Tom Thompson, distance runner Grant Missimer up from Class B, and hurdler and triple-jumper Jim Dibble.

Bowling

MILWAUKEE, Wis. — Carmen Salvino, 38-year-old Chicagoan looking for his first Professional Bowlers Association win since 1968, fired a perfect 300 game last night en route to taking over the lead after 12 games in the $80,000 Miller Open Bowling tournament.

IN 3 EVENTS

Novato Swimmer A Leader

Novato High School swimmer Roger Rechsteiner is leading the Marin County Athletic League in three events as the dual meet season enters its third week.

Rechsteiner carries the top times in the 100-yard freestyle (53.2), 200 free (1:55.4), and 100 backstroke (1:00.8), while teammate John Summerfield is far and away the best diver in the MCAL with 292.05 points.

Paradoxically, the Hornets have only one win thus far in the dual meet season, dropping meets to title contending Redwood and Terra Linda high schools.

MCAL Top Dual Meet Times

200 medley relay — Terra Linda (Johnson, Miller, Wilson, Flaherty), 1:50.0; 200 free — Rechsteiner (N), 1:55.4; 200 I.M. — Cane (R), 2:11.6; 50 free — Redig (R), 23.2; Diving — Summerfield (N), 292.05; 100 fly — DeMont (TL), 57.0; 100 free — Rechsteiner (N), 52.3; 400 free — Lund (TL), 4:12.9; 100 back — Rechsteiner (N), 1:00.8; 100 breast — Strange (TL) 1:07.1. 400 free relay — Redwood (Eldred, Goepp, Dunham, Redig), 3:31.8.

Petaluma Bows To Vallejo In Track Opener

Petaluma High School opened its 1972 North Bay League track season on a losing note yesterday, falling to host Vallejo High School, 81-55. The Trojans are now 0-2 overall.

Steve Bond set a new Petalma record in the mile with a 4:26.8 effort.

AAU QUALIFYING

Marin Swimmers In L.A.

Six trips to Dallas, Tex., will be on the line beginning tomorrow as half a dozen teen-age members of the Marin Aquatic Club strive to achieve National Amateur Athletic Union qualifying times in the Southern California Invitational swim meet in Long Beach.

Don Swartz, coach of the Marin A.C., points out that only Jo Hislop, Denise Ham and Rick DeMont have qualified for the short course National meet next month in Dallas, but that an additional four women and two men are in contention for berths on the team traveling to Texas.

Sue Secondo, Kimla Hughes, Maura Campion and Anne Engel have shots at achieving the womens' national standards either as individuals or as part of a relay effort, according to Swartz. Art Morrill and Paul Cane are listed as contenders in mens' races.

DeMont, the 15-year-old Terra Linda High School junior who struck the United States distance swimming scene like a thunderbolt early this year, has already qualified for the national AAUs in three events, and will be shooting for another in Long Beach. He's rated the favorite in the 1650-yard freestyle, and a top contender in the 400 individual medley and 500 free races, and will try to annex the 200 free to his list of events at Dallas.

Denise Ham, 17, has already qualified in the 100 and 200 butterflys, the 200 and 400 I.M.s, and the 200 breaststroke.

Sixteen-year-old Jo Hislop is a freestyle qualifier in the 200 and 500 yard distances, and will be after the 100 free and 200 I.M. cutoff times at the Belmont Plaza Olympic Pool in Long Beach.

The Long Beach pool, site of the 1968 Mens' Olympic Trials, may see two new Marin County swimmers move into the elite National Championship circle. Morrill and Cane each will be after berths on the Dallas team, Morrill in the 400 I.M. and the 1650 free, and Cane in the 100 and 200 breast.

In the women's events, Miss Secondo and Miss Hughes will attempt to qualify in the 100 and 200 breast and backstroke, respectively, and will combine with Miss Hislop and Miss Ham in the 400 medley relay.

Maura Campion is after her first individual national berth in the 500 free, while Anne Engel seeks a free relay slot.

Washington, Hawaii Meet In Football

SEATTLE (UPI) — The University of Washington Huskies will open their 1973 football season Sept. 15 at home against Hawaii, according to Athletic Director Joe Kearney.

Kearney said Wednesday the Rainbows will fill the date left vacant when the University of California at Santa Barbara dropped football at the end of the 1971 season.

The Washington-Hawaii game will be the first meeting between the two schools.

IN JACKSONVILLE

Comeback Slated By Arnold Palmer

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (UPI) —Arnold Palmer, who at 42 will give contact lenses a try next week, is trying to fight his way out of a terrible slump with his beloved Masters Tournament only three weeks away.

Palmer, who missed the cut at the Citrus Open last week for the first time in 86 tournaments, shot a struggling 75 Wednesday in the pro-am preceding the $125,000 Greater Jacksonville Open, and immediately headed for the practice area.

"I played awful," moaned the four-time Masters champion. He said it wasn't one particular phase of his game which was bad, "it was everything."

Asked if he had hopes of getting his game together here, Palmer replied, "I have hopes of getting it together before the Masters. That's why I've been working so hard."

Palmer has a chance to regain the lead among the all-time money winners this week with Jack Nicklaus skipping this tournament. Nicklaus overtook Palmer two weeks ago at the Doral-Eastern Open but a win or second-place finish here would put Palmer back on top.

Trevino shot a 3-under-par 69 to share low pro honors with Gibby Gilbert and Al Gieberger over the 6,943-yard Hidden Hills course. Player, the defending champion, fired a 71.

One golfer who loves the greens is Johnny Miller, who headed the winning team in Wednesday's pro-am.

"The greens are fast and tricky and everybody is scared to death of them," said Miller. "That's the way I like it."

In addition to Nicklaus, several other tour winners this year are bypassing this tournament including George Archer, Miller Barber, Paul Harney, Bob Rosburg, Homero Blancas and Tom Weiskopf. Billy Casper, rookie sensation Lanny Wadkins and defending Masters champion Charles Coody are also absent.

PURCHASE OF UP TO 34 BUSES AND PURCHASE OF THREE FERRYBOATS AND CONSTRUCTION AND DEVELOPMENT OF SUPPORT AND SHORESIDE FACILITIES FOR TRANSIT OPERATION GOLDEN GATE BRIDGE, HIGHWAY AND TRANSPORTATION DISTRICT BOX 900, PRESIDIO STATION SAN FRANCISCO, CALIFORNIA 94129

NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that a public hearing will be held by the Golden Gate Bridge, Highway and Transportation District, in the District Offices, Golden Gate Bridge Toll Plaza, San Francisco, California, at 8:00 p.m., Wednesday, April 19, 1972, for the purpose of considering an application by the Golden Gate Bridge, Highway and Transportation District to the U.S. Department of Transportation for a Federal Urban Mass Transportation Capital Grant. Additional buses and a modified ferry system are, in the view of the Board of Directors of the Golden Gate Bridge, Highway and Transportation District, urgently needed to alleviate the continually growing traffic congestion in the Golden Gate Corridor. Hearing was held on District's original application for ferry capital grant on May 21, 1971. Modifications to the application have been made, in which detail but not the concept, is changed. The modified grant requested is generally described as follows:

1. Purchase of Up to 34 Buses and 3 Ferryboats:

(a) Purchase of Up to 34 Buses:

(1) The project is for use in that portion of the Golden Gate Corridor comprised of Sonoma, Marin and San Francisco Counties, California, service area, where these 34 buses will be used by the Golden Gate Bus Transit Division of the Golden Gate Bridge, Highway and Transportation District.

(2) The project is estimated to cost $1,700,000.00. A Federal Grant of 2/3 of the project cost ($1,133,332.00) is being requested. The remaining 1/3, in the amount of $566,668.00, will be furnished by the District from monies reserved and received from bridge revenues, in accordance with the provisions of the California Bridge & Highway District Act and amendments thereto.

(3) The project will reinforce the existing 132 buses now being used to transport over 6,000 commuters per day, and the 20 additional buses to be purchased under option of the District's original contract with the General Motors Corporation and included in a previous grant application. Bus patronage in the Golden Gate Corridor is increasing at a much faster rate than anticipated; and additional buses are needed to provide necessary service to the public and to reduce congestion on the Golden Gate Bridge, its approach roads and the urban automobile traffic and air pollution resulting therefrom. These new buses will contribute to the reduction of air pollution by complying with the latest standards of the U. S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

(b) Purchase of 3 Ferryboats and ancillary facilities:

(1) The project is for use on San Francisco Bay for ferryboat service between San Francisco and Marin County for the purpose of transporting commuters by water routes, between these counties, thus further reducing automobile traffic congestion and air pollution resulting therefrom. All ferryboats will be used by the Ferry Transit Division of the Golden Gate Bridge, Highway and Transportation District, which is already operating one ferryboat between Sausalito and San Francisco, California. The proposal is for the purchase of three new 165 foot, 25 knot, gas turbine-powered, aluminum hull ferryboats, and sufficient land, floats, piers, boarding floats and necessary dredging and breakwater to develop ferry terminals in the Larkspur, Sausalito and San Francisco, California, service areas; and also for service floats, warehouse and shops for vessel maintenance.

(2) The project is estimated to cost $18,902,000.00. A Federal Grant of 2/3 of the project cost ($12,601,334.00) is being requested. The remaining 1/3, in the amount of $6,300,667.00, the local share, will be furnished from monies reserved from bridge revenues in accordance with the provisions of the California Bridge and Highway District Act and amendments thereto.

(3) The project will reinforce the existing operational ferryboat, M. V. Golden Gate, which in 1½ years in operation has carried more than 1.5 million passengers between San Francisco and Sausalito, California. The newly designed ferryboats requested in this application will — like the present M. V. Golden Gate — carry no vehicles and will therefore contribute to the reduction of vehicular traffic congestion and air pollution in urban areas, especially the downtown San Francisco area. These new ferryboats are specifically designed to create an absolute minimum of air, land and water pollution; and will comply with the latest standards of the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

2. No families or businesses will be displaced by these projects.

3. These projects are in conformance with comprehensive land use and transportation planning in this area. The projects are included as part of the Transportation Plan adopted by the Golden Gate Bridge, Highway and Transportation District and have received favorable review and comments by the Association of Bay Area Governments.

At the hearing, which is being held in accordance with requirements of the Urban Mass Transportation Act of 1964, as amended, the Golden Gate Bridge, Highway and Transportation District shall afford an opportunity for all persons or agencies interested to be heard with respect to the social, economic and environmental impact of the project and to submit evidence and recommendations orally or in writing with respect to the project.

The application for a Federal Grant for this project, including a draft environmental statement and the transit development program are available for inspection in the District's Office of the Secretary, Room 109, Administration Building, Golden Gate Bridge Toll Plaza, San Francisco, California.

RIGHTS ADVOCATE — Eva Jefferson, head of student projects at the San Francisco office of the American Civil Liberties Union, discusses student rights with youths taking part in a mock Congress at San Rafael High School. Miss Jefferson, who spoke yesterday, encountered some resistance to her remarks. Among those listening to the address was Mike Kamler (left.)

'Congress' Debates Student Rights

Students' rights advocate Eva Jefferson found no radicals yesterday among San Rafael High School students gathered as part of a mock congress called to debate issues of the day.

Miss Jefferson, head of student projects at the San Francisco office of the American Civil Liberties Union, even encountered some resistance during an address to a student "house of representatives."

Student rights was just one of the topics of discussion as the pupil congress, composed of students from government classes of Virginia Franklin, convened for a one-day session.

Miss Jefferson, invited to the school by Miss Franklin, sparred for a time with the "representatives" over the question of student control of education. One of the "bills" under consideration by the congress would give students certain rights as a prerequisite to federal aid to schools.

During a general outline of basic student rights, Miss Jefferson mentioned "the right to participate in all decisions at the school." Rhetorically asking for a definition of democracy, she said that since students are the people most affected by schools, they should have the right to participate in important decisions, from hiring and firing of teachers to when classes begin in the morning.

Mike Kamler, 16, a junior, asked "Where do you draw the line? Is education really democratic?" He said that third-graders were in no position to make educational decisions.

At one point Miss Jefferson advocated noncompulsory attendance at school, but students pointed out certain standards must be met to qualify for state and federal money, making this unlikely.

She did encounter student support for modular scheduling — breaking the day into 20-minute segments and requiring a set number of segments for each subject during the week. This replaced the standard six-period day 18 months ago in San Rafael.

Modular scheduling, which most students favor as offering more flexibility and variety in the school day, is due to end as an experiment this year unless extended by the board of education.

Student representatives told Miss Jefferson the school had decided to abandon the system despite their objections.

(Dr. Peter Palches, San Rafael High principal, said today, however, he would support extending the modular program provided the faculty supports it and is willing to take an active role to see that it works.)

Miss Jefferson advised students objecting to possible scuttling of the modular experiment to research the matter in order to find out who made the decision and why.

If students then decide they must take action, she advocated starting with student government, passing a resolution, making up petitions, and getting signatures of both parents and students. "When push comes to shove," she said, "it's parents that count." Although she didn't guarantee success, she volunteered to help with the effort if students decided to do something.

Miss Jefferson said success in such matters is a question of "seizing the day, taking advantage of what people are concerned about."

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Recent Report Should Ease Fear Of Women Who Are On The Pill

A recent comprehensive report in the Journal of the American Medical Association should allay the fears of many women on birth control pills. According to Dr. Victor A. Drill, University of Illinois, the chance of developing inflammation and clots in the veins (thromboembolic disease) in women of childbearing age is less among pill users than among women who do not take these hormones. This applies to pregnant and nonpregnant women.

FOR SOME time there has been speculation that oral contraceptives increased the risk of developing thromboembolic disease. Dr. Drill's extensive data does not confirm this hypothesis. In fact, it does not even confirm the old idea that women with a history of thromboembolic disease are more susceptible to a recurrence if they use birth control pills. Actually, women with the disease often improve while continuing the hormones.

People tend to forget that long before the "Pill" was available, women (men too) developed blood clots in veins for no apparent reason, as well as before and after surgery or pregnancy. My mother died more than 50 years ago following the delivery of my brother. A large clot (thrombus) broke loose (embolus) and travelled into her lung. In those days, this complication was feared.

THEN CAME the antipregnancy pills that millions of women began to use. These products contained the same hormones that occur during pregnancy. Statistics were compiled on women who developed inflamed veins and since many were also on the "Pill," the hormones were blamed, rightly or wrongly.

But prospective studies do not support this claim. Dr. Drill first established the fact that the average normal rate of thromboembolic disease among non-pregnant women was 2.2 cases per 1,000 women per year. In contrast, the incidence of the disease among 80,000 women receiving oral contraceptives was only 0.97 cases per 1,000 women per year. (Approximately one per thousand users as compared with 2 per thousand non-users.)

WEAKENED BLOOD VESSELS

REPLY

Not as a rule, although there is a possibility that varicosities might develop from sitting too long at the local pub. Alcohol may aggravate hemorrhoids, but the basic cause is an inherent weakness of the blood vessels surrounding the rectum. They distend when subjected to strain or injury.

HEAT OR COLD

R. L. writes: An elderly woman with high blood pressure suffers from frequent headaches. Should she place an ice bag or an electric pad on top of her head?

REPLY

Whichever feels most comfortable and encourages rest. A better plan is to take medicine that lowers the blood pressure.

CARROT JUICE

W. T. writes: Will drinking a pint of carrot juice a day make the skin turn yellow?

REPLY

Yes, because a pint of this juice is loaded with a dietary pigment that stains the skin yellow. This pigmentation usually is harmless, but may be cosmetically unattractive.

Youth Held In Probe Of Assault

Larry Steven Coffey was booked into Sonoma County Jail on suspicion of rape and assault with a deadly weapon. Arraignment was set for today in Central Sonoma Municipal Court.

The girl, 18, told sheriffs deputies she was walking along East Cotati Avenue, two blocks west of the college, at 8:30 p.m. Tuesday when a young man walked up behind her and pulled her into an oat field. She said he threatened her with a 10-inch hunting knife and raped her.

Lt. Charles Kishbaugh said Coffey was arrested at 2 a.m. yesterday at the Rohnert Park Police Department, where he had gone to report the theft of his car, later found abandoned near the scene of the alleged rape. Officers belived the report to be false and arrested him when he fit the description given by the girl.

Peace Coalition Sets Spring Events

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The National Peace Action Coalition has announced plans for several antiwar demonstrations this spring, starting with a two-hour picket line in front of the White House on March 26 —the start of what President Nixon has proclaimed as a National Week of Concern for American POWs.

The coalition also said there would be an April 1 march on Harrisburg, Pa., to demonstrate solidarity with defendants in the Berrigan trial, and rallies on April 22 in New York and Los Angeles as part of an international day of protest.

Bagley Measure Would Place Limits On Bail

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — Sharp limits on bail, virtually eliminating it for misdemeanors, were proposed in legislation introduced yesterday by Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael.

Suspects in misdemeanor cases generally would have to be issued citations to appear in court instead of being jailed and released only on bail, and a summons instead of an arrest warrant would be required in many cases.

Bagley's measure provides that bail be required "only when it is found that no other conditions on release will reasonably assure the defendant's appearnce in court." It declares that this is the only purpose of bail, and that it cannot be used "as a punitive measure against the defendant, or to placate public opinion, or to prevent possible future criminal conduct."

A suspect in a misedmeanor case could be jailed under the bill only if he "is a danger to himself, to the community, or to any other person or property."

Persons under the influence of liquor or drugs could be kept in custody to eight hours, then issued a citation and released.

The measure also would require that every prisoner have his release considered by a judge within 12 hours of his arrest.

Bail would have to be based on the "special circumstances of each defendant," and no longer set by a predetermined schedule of amounts based on the charge.

The fact that a defendant has been jailed pending trial "shall not be allowed to prejudice him at the time of trial or sentencing," the bill requires. Finally, "care shall be taken" to insure that the jury is unaware of the defendant's detention.

Abandoned Rail Lines Help In Bill

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — Use of abandoned railroad rights-of-way for transit would be assisted by a bill introduced by Sen. President pro Tempore James R. Mills, D-San Diego.

His bill requires the State Transportation Board to study the best transportation use for such rights-of-way, and to draft a use plan within 45 days after abandonment.

Mills noted that 126 miles of railroad right-of-way have been abandoned in California in the past two and a half years, including the route from Corte Madera to Sausalito — which the Golden Gate Bridge District hopes to buy for future transit use. His bill would apply to future abandonments further north in Marin.

The senator's measure, introduced Tuesday, also requires each railroad to notify the state board of its intent to abandon a right-of-way when it files its request for abandonment.

Adam Powell Takes Turn For Worse

MIAMI (UPI)—Former Rep. Adam Clayton Powell was placed on the critical list Wednesday at Jackson Memorial Hospital where he was recuperating from a prostate hemorrhage.

Early today a hospital spokesman said the minister, civil rights leader and author was in critical condition, but not in the intensive care unit. Until Wednesday he was listed in fair condition.

New Head For Redevelop Unit

George H. Gnoss Jr. has been elected chairman of the Marin County Redevelopment Agency and former chairman James O. Quiett was named vice chairman, according to executive director Wallace K. Shepherd.

Shepherd said the board at its Tuesday meeting authorized him to attend a national conference of housing and redevelopment officials in Washington, D.C., March 22-24 to discuss the new community development act and its relation to urban renewal.

The board also set Oct. 17 as the date for a workshop meeting with the county board of supervisors.

Busy Novato Burglars Strike Often For $700

During the same period, burglars took $116 from the Independent-Journal bureau office, 1535 Grant Avenue; $25 from Able Tire and Brake Co., 7090 Redwood Highway, and $1.50 from Novato Trailer Sales, 7084 Redwood Highway, police said.

Detective Derold W. Luther requested that anyone who saw persons in the area of Empire Chevrolet or the highway area where the other burglaries occured between 10 p.m. Monday and 3 a.m. Tuesday notify police.

Four or five persons were possibly involved in the safe jobs, he said.

Waste System Plan Due Review

Progress in planning for a consolidated Southeast Marin waste treatment and disposal system will be reviewed at a joint meeting of the Improvement Disrict A advisory committee and environmental advisory subcommittee at 6 p.m. today in the Marin Municipal Water District office.

A consortium of engineers hired to plan for facilities for the consolidated sanitary agency will report on what has been accomplished, according to John T. Schulte, project manager for District A.

Past actions and decisions of the environmental subcommittee will also be discussed and reviewed, he said.

Courses In Chicano Backed By Teacher

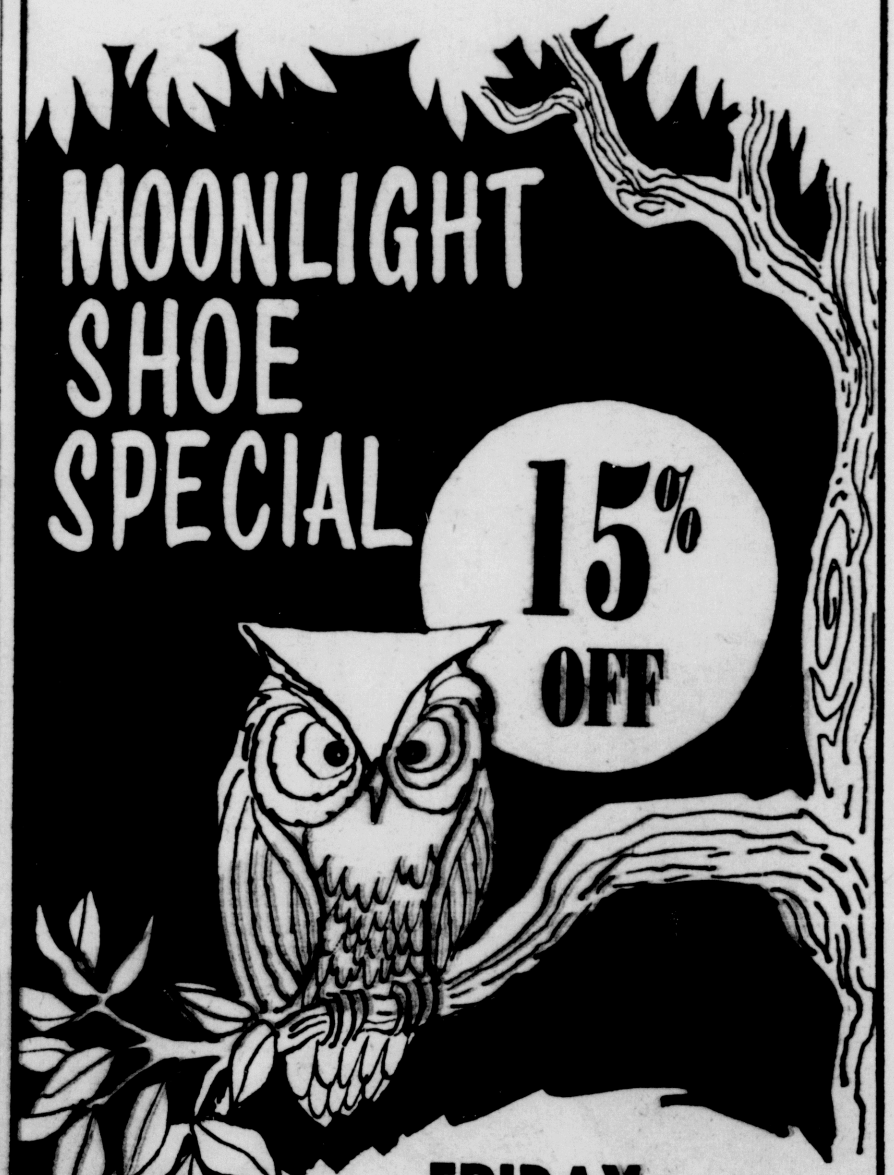

SANTA BARBARA — Does the language of almost seven million people in southwestern United States — Chicano Spanish — deserve a place on the college cirriculum?

Prof. Salvador Rodriguez del Pino of the department of Chicano Studies at the University of California at Santa Barbara (UCSB) is convinced that it should. It has become the language of La Raza, he says, and therefore a source of pride and unity among Chicanos.

He adds, however, that standard Spanish should also be learned so that "the Chicano can communicate with persons speaking other variants of the Spanish language." (University of California service)

California Instruments On Pioneer F

SAN DIEGO — Special radiation-measuring instruments designed and built by University of California, San Diego scientists are aboard Pioneer F during the spacecraft's 620-million-mile flight to the planet Jupiter.

The UCSD scientific package, produced under a NASA contract totalling approximately one million dollars, was built by a UCSD space-physics group headed by Dr. Carl McIlwain, professor of physics, Dr. R. Walker Fillius, UCSD research physicist, is principal investigator for the project.

Containing five radiation detectors, the UCSD unit is one of 13 scientific experiements aboard Pioneer F. Fillius said the detectors are designed to measure the intensities of high-energy protons and electrons believed to be trapped in Jupiter's magnetic field.

"From radio astronomers' data, we may infer that Jupiter has a strong magnetic field which would be capable of trapping electrons as well as many other kinds of particles," he says. "Nonetheless, we are going in quite blind. We really don't know what to expect to find there."

During the 1102-day period in which the UCSD instruments will be operating, telemetering units linked to the five radiation detectors will transmit up to three billion bits of data. The data, which will subsequently be analyzed at UCSD, will occupy up to 500 reels of computer tape.

The UCSD instrument package will operate continuously on 2.9 watts of power — less than half the power required to light a small Christmas-tree bulb.

Data gathered from Jupiter may help scientists to understand more about earth's own magnetic field, Fillius said.

"We don't really know much about earth's own radiation belts. Jupiter will be the first planet we have looked at, other than our own, which has a magnetic field. Space-probes have gone to Mars and Venue, but there are no magnetic fields there."

Jupiter, which is 1000 times larger that the earth, is a spectacular planet. It appears to have its own internal energy source, and is so massive that it is almost a small star. The planet's atmosphere contains ammonia, methane, hydrogen, and probably water — the same ingredients believed to have produced life on earth an estimated four billion years ago.

Because of the planet's internal heat source, scientists believe that large regions below the frigid cloud layer surrounding Jupiter are at around room temperatures. These conditions could allow the planet to produce living organisms despite the fact that Jupiter receives only 1/27th of the solar energy received by earth. (University of California Service)

Singulator Will Arrange Bulk Items

DAVIS — You are a food processor seeking a more efficient means of getting fruit in bulk bins lined up in single file for brand name stamping.

Or your problem is getting peaches to line up for an automatic pitter and slicer. Or you are an industrialist and your quality control needs could be met by an electronic eye, except that the product cannot be arranged for inspection without manual handling or a complexsystem of belts and gates.

The answer to your problem is a process known as "singulation," and engineers at the University of California, Davis, have developed a new concept for a singulator.

The UCD concept was developed by graduate student Bruce Shawyer, a doctoral condidate, and Jerald M. Henderson, associate professor of mechanical engineering. It will singulate any object that will roll down an inclined surface.

A system of cams under a multisegmented platform is the key to the UCD machine. As the cams rotate, they cause the platform surface to undulate, and objects riding in the troughs between waves become evenly spaced. No two objects leave the machine at the same time and the result is a steady stream from the discharge end.

"The action of the platform has been likened to a mechanical waterbed," Henderson says. "We have achieved excellent results with peaches, citrus, and tomatoes.

"This concept could also have application in arranging hardware or pharmaceutical articles into single file. The item being singulated does not have to be round since the steepness of the waves can be changed to meet the needs," Henderson notes. (University of California Service)

Less Secrecy In Science Asked

BERKELEY — A plea for "a massive reduction in secrecy" in the federal government's store of scientific information was made recently by Kenneth S. Pitzer, professor of chemistry at the University of California in Berkeley.

Pitzer, formerly a government advisor and president of Stanford University, addressed the annual joint meeting of the American Physical Society — American Association of Physics Teachers in San Francisco.

"In general, Congress is badly handicapped, in comparison with the President, with respect to expert evaluation of the scientific aspects of decisions that it faces," he said.

The Administration, he added, gives facts supporting its decisions to Congress, but the legislators must find contrary scientific views for themselves. He said this weakens the governmental principle of checks and balances.

The range of material that is administratively confidential or subject to executive privilege should be greatly reduced.

"In those very limited areas where informational security is really justified, Congress should insist on access for its members and for its advisors and consultants."

Pitzer recalled that he made similar recommendations when he was a member of the President's Science Advisory Committee in 1968, and chairman of a panel on the environmental hazards of underground nuclear tests.

Mobile Homes New Living Concept

BERKELEY — An estimated six million Americans are currently living in nearly three million mobile homes. As of mid-1970, one out of every four new housing starts in the United States was a mobile home.

Unlike the transient residents of seedy "trailer parks" before World War II, park dwellers live today in large, elegant mobile homes, more or less permanently stationed in lavish mobile-home communities that offer a full range of recreational facilities and organized activities.

Who are the people that move into mobile home parks? Why do they move there? What kind of lives do they lead? Sheila K. Johnson, a Berkeley, California anthropologist, attempts to answer these questions in a new book, Idle Haven: Community Building Among the Working-class Retired. (University of California Press, $6.95.)

"Idle Haven" is a mobile-home park typical of those throughout the country.

Was Regan First Gasoline Engine?

DAVIS — A controversy nearly 100 years old has surfaced at the University of California, Davis, with the refurbishing of another one-cylinder gasoline engine by the Antique Mechanics Club.

The question: Who built the first gasoline-powered engine in the United States? It was either Dan S. Regan of San Francisco or Syranus Standish of Gridley, but it is not known, positively, who was first.

According to research by farm historian F. Hal Higgins, who located the Standish in 1937 and later gave it to the University, Standish family memories put the origin of the Gridley in the 1880s. No patent was issued to Standish. The patent plate on the Regan goes back to 1884.

"Ours may be the only remaining example of the Regan engine," says Lorry Dunning, club sponsor. "The junk dealers were very active in the late 1930's as war approached. I don't know of any other models in existence."

The Regan was located under a tree on the Cadenasso Ranch in the Capay Valley near Davis where it had rested for 30 years after being removed from a salvage truck. It was obtained for the University by club members from the grandson of Nicola Cadenasso who said the engine came into the family about 1890 and was used as a power source for pumping water, sawing wood, and in 1912, hulling almonds.

Higgins reported that Standish often needed the labor of half the town of Gridley to start his engine. Candenasso recalls that his grandmother used to start the Regan and operate it for Sunday sightseers from Woodland who came to see the first gasoline engine in Yolo County.

The Antique Mechanics at UCD displayed the Regan and the Standish at Agri Expo West at Cal Expo in Sacramento last month.

The ultimate goal of the Antique Mechanics Club, a diversified group of men and women students at UCD, local 4-H club members, and local residents, is to establish a museum to show the history of California agriculture mechanization.

Other rare items in the collection include the first diesel tractor, the first commercial butter-churn, and the only H. W. Rice straw-burning steam engine known to exist. (University of California Service)

Ex-Slave Aided Vanilla Production

NEW YORK (UPI)—Commercial production of vanilla owes its origin to Edmund Albius, a former slave on Reunion Island in the Indian Ocean near Madagascar, now the Malagasy Republic.

Early in the 19th century, Albius perfected a practical method of pollinating vanilla orchids by hand. The area of the Malagasy Republic now produces about 90 per cent of the world's vanilla supply.
